PUT PERTINENT QUESTIONS TO SENATOR JOHNSON

Former Supporters of Candidate Who is to Arrive Here Today, Seek Frank Information

Senator Johnson's arrival in Los Angeles today to start has campaign for re-election was yesterday made the occasion for the submission to the Senator of a list of sixteen questions prepared by prominent Republican men and women who have formerly been actively identified with the Senator's political campaigns. These questions are of vital importance to the people of California in that they make possible an explanation by Mr. Johnson of his actions and his attitude as California's senior representative in the United States Senate, and a further explanation by him as to his political alliances in this State.

The questions and those propounding them follow:

"Senator Hiram Johnson:

"Your constituents are entitled to an answer from you without equivocation or reservation on the following questions:

"(1.) Have you abandoned your opposition to the Four-Power Pact, or do you still adhere to your objections with which you sought to embarrass President Harding and the Republican administration in your unsuccessful attempt to block passage of the Pacific peace treaty?

"(2.) Do you stand for rigid enforcement of the Volstead Act?

"(3.) How would you have voted if you had been in your seat in the Senate when the Newberry contest was decided?

"(4.) Why did you fail to vote on the Esch-Cummins bill?

"(5.) While serving as United States Senator from California did you receive a fee of $10,000, or any part of that sum for defending William Randolph Hearst's International News Service in the United States Supreme Court on a charge of improperly obtaining news matter from the Associated Press?

"(6.) While serving as United States Senator from California did you absent yourself from the Senate in Washington and go to New York and accept a fee of $25,000, or more, or less than that sum, for legal service rendered the Democratic city administration of New York?

"(7.) Was it by your single and unaided efforts that California products received a protective tariff, or did the other United States Senator from California and the eleven Congressmen from this State have an equal share in obtaining a protective tariff?

"(8.) Are you still opposed to the Southern Pacific in politics?

"(9.) If so, why is Frank P. Flint, attorney for the Southern Pacific when you 'kicked the Southern Pacific out of politics,' now your campaign manager in Southern California?

"(10.) If you are opposed to the Southern Pacific in politics, why is Frank P. Doherty, reputed lobbyist for the railroads in the last session of the Legislature, your political representative in Los Angeles?

"(11.) If you are opposed to the Southern Pacific in politics, why is Leo V. Youngworth, former Southern Pacific 'machine' politician, associated with Messrs. Flint and Doherty in urging your re-election?

"(12.) You say you are fighting 'the same old gang.' How do you explain so many of 'the same old gang' devotedly trying to re-elect you?

"(13.) What is your attitude toward a third-party movement?

"(14.) In 1924, will you support William Randolph Hearst for President?

"(15.) If Hearst is not a candidate will you accept his support for President?

"(16.) In consideration of your registration in California as a Republican and Mr. Hearst's affiliation with the Democratic party in New York, what consideration or considerations obtained for you the enthusiastic backing of the Hearst publications in California?

WHO THEY ARE

Mrs. Cable is a past State president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs; one of the founders of the Progressive Party; is one of the most influential Republican women of the State and has been prominently identified with the former campaigns of Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Kemp, leading attorney of Southern California, was one of the first to join the Progressive movement. He served as vice-president of the Johnson-for-Senator Club in 1916 and was with Mr. Johnson in all former campaigns up to the time of his repudiation of the Senator several weeks ago.

Mrs. Bellows, prominent club woman, was a leader in the Progressive movement in California and was one of the most active women workers in former Johnson campaigns.

Mrs. Porter, the first Republican national committeewoman from California, served as vice-chairman of the Hiram Johnson-for-Senator Club in 1916 and was formerly one of Johnson's most powerful supporters.

Mrs. Gibson, for nine years a member of the Immigration and Housing Commission of California, is nationally known as a welfare worker and for her exceptional work in Americanization. She has taken a leading part in women's clubs activities and in the affairs of the Republican party. She is one of thousands of former Progressive leaders who have abandoned Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Arnold was among those who started the Progressive move-

VICTORIA (B. C.) July 26. Two enormous suns 55,555,555 miles apart, yet discernible only as a single faint star to the most powerful telescope, brighter many thousands of times than our sun, yet invisible to the naked eye, greater in mass four times than the heaviest body heretofore determined in the heavens, burning at 30,000 deg., Fahr., as they whirl about each other at tremendous velocity, fifty-two quadrillions of miles from the earth—these are the Plaskett stars, newly determined and named, which will commemorate the farmer's son who toiled his way from the broad farm lands of Canada to the great field of the universe, and leave his name among the foremost of his time in the annals of astronomy.

IN "THE SAME OLD GANG"

Johnson to Find Army of His Former Supporters Among Opponents

BY THE WATCHMAN

Senator Hiram Johnson will arrive in Los Angeles today, he has announced, "to fight the same old gang." He comes urging the people of Southern California to vote for his re-election. The Hearst papers advertise that he will conduct "a two-fisted fight." The Senator himself has announced, or, at least, has been quoted in the Hearst papers as announcing, that he will "discuss every issue."

Senator Johnson will speak in Philharmonic auditorium tonight. Presumably, he will start his fight on "the same old gang" in his evening address. The fight should be an easy one to start, for, according to the local Hearst newspapers, certain members of what Mr. Johnson has chosen to call "the same old gang" will be sitting on the platform serving as "honorary vice-presidents" for the Senator's meeting.

Few political aspirants, therefore, have had a bigger and better opportunity to start "a two-fisted fight" on "the same old gang." Perhaps, however, these honorary vice-presidents, learning of Senator Johnson's determination to fight them, will not come to the meeting.

Whatever the Senator's plans, whatever his real intentions, no incumbent candidate for re-election has ever come before the people faced with a more complete, a more revealing, a more chastening repudiation by his former supporters than Senator Hiram Johnson.

Again quoting the Senator as quoted in the Hearst publications, he is coming to Los Angeles to fight "the same old gang."

SEEM TO NEED STIRRING UP

Two Bands Parade Street all Day to Rouse Supporters of Johnson

Two bands, parading Los Angeles streets yesterday, thirty-six hours before Senator Johnson was scheduled to make his celebrated "two-fisted" fight on "the same old gang," advertised the fact that the Johnson managers are seemingly not too optimistic over the prospects for a good turn-out to hear, or see, the Senator.

Each band was accompanied by one or more perspiring individuals carrying a banner announcing the Senator's appearance.

However, if the people do not turn out Mr. Johnson can blame the Hearst publications, which have faithfully advertised his "two-fisted" intentions; possibly leaving the people in doubt as to whether Mr. Johnson tonight will have an audience to hear what he has to say, or merely a crowd of spectators to see what he will do.

Inglewood Man Is Ambushed at San Bernardino

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, July 27.—A telephone message from the Santa Fe depot to the Sheriff's office stated one of the railroad guards had been shot and killed and asked for the Coroner.

SHOWS THREE BULLET WOUNDS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, July 27.—The strike crisis took its first toll in human life here last night when the body of Roy E. Burton, 31 years old, special deputy stationed on guard duty in the Santa Fe yards, was found with three bullet wounds in it at 9:30 p.m. The body was found near a clump of bushes by a switch crew about 150 yards west of the Mt. Vernon avenue viaduct, which is in the west end of the Santa Fe yards.

Burton was lying face down with his right arm outstretched holding a revolver in his right hand. Burton had evidently given battle with his assassins as three empty cartridges were in his gun.

Shortly after 8 p.m., six shots were heard fired in the vicinity where Burton's body was found. It is probable Burton was ambushed, his slayers hiding in the thick bushes near where the body was found. Police were still searching at a late hour last night for the murderer or murderers.

Burton leaves a wife who lives in Inglewood.

Mr. Cuyler added, however, that "no definite basis" for strike settlement was ready to be placed be-

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

YUMA, July 27.—Robbed of $300 and marooned on the desert without food or water by a man whom he says brought him to this region for the purpose of locating him on a desert homestead is the tale that county authorities and hospital attendants have been able to gather piecemeal from Fred Parcel, whose age is reckoned at 65 years and who claims Santa Ana, Cal., as his home.

Parcel is dying in the Yuma Hospital as the result of desert exposure. For two days the aged man lay in the hospital unable to tell his name or where relatives might be found. Today he revived sufficiently to relate a story that has started Sheriff Polhamus looking for a man whom Parcel says brought him to Yuma from Santa Ana and robbed him. Parcel is unable to remember the name of the man, but authorities are searching for a stranger who brought him to a rooming-house, the proprietor of which summoned a physician.

LEFT ON DESERT

According to Parcel's story he was induced by a "real estate agent" in Santa Ana to come to Yuma for the purpose of locating on a desert homestead near Picacho, Cal. The journey to the prospective homestead about twenty-five miles from Yuma, was made, Parcel says, but once there the "real estate man" robbed him of $300, took all the water and food which the two had with them and left the old man alone. How long Parcel was forced to remain on the desert he does not know, but finally, he declares, the stranger returned and brought him to Yuma. He was left in the rooming-house and when his condition became alarming was removed to the hospital.

MIND WANDERS

For two days he lay in a delirium and even now his statements are not coherent. Hospital attendants are inclined to doubt some of them. His mind wanders frequenly and Despairing that he would ever be cured of a lingering illness, Charles A. Miars, aged 53, a wealthy retired merchant, formerly of Creston, Iowa, committed suicide by hanging himself last night in the basement of his pretentious home at 345 South Hoover street. He pinned a note on his body saying he knew he could never regain his health, and that he no longer desired to live. Miars is survived by his wife, Mrs. Stella Miars, and a 13-year-old adopted son. They were absent from the house at the time.

REED, LONG ARE HURLING BRICKS

Missouri Contest Resembles Dublin Battle

Democratic Primaries to be Hottest in Hisory

some political evils, real and fancied.

But it does mean that the matters with which the Missouri voter concerns himself are not connected with any of the things which have dictated results in other States save one point. This touches the extent to which the regular Republican and Democratic machines have held or lost their hold on the voters. The result of next Tuesday's primary contest for the Senate and sixteen Congressional seats to be filled will perhaps furnish an answer to the question.

GREATEST FIGHT

The Democratic Senate fight is unquestionably the most important event in the history of that party since the unprecedented victory of Mr. Harding nearly two years ago. Upon the result of it will turn the control of the party machine in the future. This is because the real issue is not whether Senator "Jim" Reed accurately reflects Democratic sentiments in his own State, but whether the policies and principles of Woodrow Wilson shall be respected or thrown aside with contempt by the spokesmen of his party.

The issue in Missouri, therefore, is, in fact, Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Long, the opponent of Mr. Reed, has made it so. His campaign has been conducted on the theory that the vast majority of the 550,000 Democratic voters who registered their approval of Mr. Cox two years ago, and who indorsed the casting aside of Mr. Reed by the Democratic national convention look upon Mr. Wilson as the leader of the party.

Mr. Long, therefore, offers little else than this sentimental appeal which is admitted by some of the more lucid of Mr. Reed's supporters to have taken deep root in Missouri. Around the Wilson sentiment Mr. Long and his supporters have built up a following which under ordinary conditions would spell success. The regular State organization is arrayed solidly behind Mr. Long and against Mr. Reed. The greater number of farmers have responded more impressively to the Wilson-Long battle cry than to the wild alarm bellowed defiantly by the militant and picturesque insurgent who began as a valiant champion of the Wilson policies and ended by consistently opposing them.

UNSHEATH HAT PINS

The organized women's bodies have unsheathed their hat pins and vocal weapons and are thrusting at Mr. Reed from all sides. The Antisaloon League has sent its most practical workers and trained the full capacity of its printing presses against Mr. Reed. Most of the newspapers of the State are demanding in vitriolic leaders that the Senator be retired by the Democratic voters of the State and the Republicans ignore the Macedonian cry for help from the Reed camp. Certainly all organized forces that usually dictate results in politics are largely on the long side, as it were.

Therefore the confidence of the Senator and his supporters is most surprising. The basis for their confidence is that the majority of Democrat as well as Republican voters will resent the "interference" of Mr. Wilson in the "local" issues of the State; that the regular machine has lost its grip on the voting public and that Mr. Reed has turned out to be just the sort of Senator that Missouri wants to represent it at Washington.

FINE ENTERTAINMENT

That Mr. Reed thinks so in any event is shown by the fight he has conducted in every one of the 114 counties of the State. Not since the days of Tom Benton and Champ Clark have the voters been treated to so entertaining a campaign.

Mr. Reed has played the part of the "lone wolf" to perfection. Has literally taken off his coat and collar too, and challenged all comers. A past master of platform polemics he has met every challenge, hurled charges, cracked any opposing head, called into play every device calculated to attract attention and arouse sympathy. The dramatic stage lost a potentially great thespian when Mr. Reed turned politician instead of actor. Irving was no better psychologist of human emotions, Coquelin's voice was no more appealing.

Mr. Reed, stripped of coat and collar, intent and intense, his own surcharged emotions given full play, is a most engaging figure. Meeting the most convincing and damaging charges face and voice on his vocabulary is amazing, his audacity superb, his mendacity withering. No figure is sacred from his keen-edged satire.

PASSES WILSON BY

He treats Mr. Wilson as a sick man, nothing less, and boldly calls on the voters to regard him as such. Also he commands them not to permit Mr. Wilson or anyone else to "interfere" in their constitutional rights to think and vote for themselves. He sweeps Mr. Long aside as unworthy of serious consideration, though his young opponent is really a fine type of American manhood, alert, likeable and eminently respectable, direct, frank and not without courage.

But it is upon Mr. Reed that the eye of Missouri is squarely focused. It is from his lips that fall kaleidoscopic torrents of defiance and impressive figures of speech. Mr. Long and a great army of volunteers, proclaiming their fealty to the Wilson policies by supporting his champion, call Mr. Reed to book for his apostacy to his party and its idol. Mr. Reed retaliates by calling everybody a liar and undertakes to prove it.

His answer to the big posters that appeal to the farmer, clerk and toiler to "help us to get rid of Reed" provokes biting retorts that arouse the sporting sense of the mobs he addresses.

The Antisaloon League has probably never organized or staged a more determined effort to beat a candidate for office when it has directed against Mr. Reed. Fine! Mr. Reed goes after the Antisaloon League under a full head of vocal steam. He points to his Senate record to prove that while he favors the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment he thinks the Volstead Act should be modified. Charges that he did not support the war policies of the administration he denies, that's all.

HARD NUT TO CRACK

Criticism of his stand on the League of Nations merely provokes a reaffirmation of his unalterable opposition to anything approaching "foreign entanglements;" neither apology nor recantation. Verily Mr. Reed is a hard nut to crack. His optimism is sublime, limitless, apparently sincere.

With all the cards that usually point to definite results stacked against him the concensus of expert opinion is that he must lose; yet even the most sanguine of his critics will only bet even money on it. And here are the chief causes for the uncertainties of the situation:

"The Missouri primary is of the "open" sort. Any citizen stating himself a Democrat, regardless of previous affiliations, can vote for Mr. Reed next Tuesday—and a great many Republicans will do so. Added to this element are three or four other groups like those that respond to professional German and Irish influences, the pronounced wets of both parties, plus the mob vote of the big cities, St. Louis and Kansas City, where the local Democratic machines which are ostensibly supporting Mr. Long cannot deliver the vote against Mr. Reed.

The Long managers concede the advantage to Mr. Reed in the cities but assert it will not be enough to overcome the "Wilson-dry-woman" sentiment in the vast majority of rural counties which have set their face against the Senator.

The rival candidates are now winding up their descent on the yeomanry in the cow counties and along the river bottoms. They will end by appealing to the industrial workers of St. Louis on Saturday, because it is here in the Missouri metropolis that the final issue will be fought.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBER IS KILLED

Dr. Frank B. Wynn Falls from Cliff Near Peak of Mt. Siyeh

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GLACIER PARK (Mont.) July 27.—Dr. Frank B. Wynn of Indianapolis, president of the American Alpine Club, and one of the country's foremost mountain climbers, was killed today in a 300 foot fall from a cliff near the summit of Mt. Siyeh, one of the highest peaks in Glacier National Park.

According to Dr. H. Goddard, also of Indianapolis, who was a few minutes behind Dr. Wynn on the trail, the latter's fall from the narrow ledge on which the party was crossing followed what appeared to be an apopletic stroke. Dr. Wynn was 58 years old and while apparently in good health, it is believed that the 10,000 foot altitude and the exertion of the climb proved too much for him.

They had just neared an unusually steep portion of the trail, Dr. Goddard said, when Dr. Wynn, who was leading, turned and opened his mouth as if to speak. Then, without uttering a word, he pitched forward on the trail. Before Dr. Goddard could cover the intervening distance his body had rolled over the rocky ledge and disappeared.

COME-BACK IN POLITICS

Former Governor Ferguson of Texas Emerges From Primaries With Washington in Sight

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FORT WORTH (Tex.) July 27.—James E. Ferguson of Temple, impeached while Governor, ousted from Austin with a criminal indictment hanging over him, has staged a come-back that probably is without parallel in American politics. Against a field of five other candidates for United States Senator, all having brilliant careers, Ferguson led all but one in the Democratic primaries.

Earl B. Mayfield, State Railroad Commissioner, alone received a larger vote in the primaries, and next month Ferguson and Mayfield will contest in a "run off" primary, which will be equivalent to election in this Democratic State.

PENNILESS NOW

Ferguson, when elected Governor, was rated as a millionaire. Now he is penniless, and depends chiefly on the revenues of his butcher shop at Temple for the expenses of his campaign.

After he left the executive mansion he organized the American party in Texas which only widened the breach between himself and the Democratic organization.

Pitted against the Temple butcher were Senator Charles A. Culberson, for thirty-two years in Texas public life; Cullen F. Thomas, proclaimed all over the State as a certain winner who spent a fortune to win the nomination and boasted support of the church element; R. L. Henry, twenty years a Congressman and who had served with distinction; Earle B. Mayfield, young, brilliant, another Roosevelt in energy, resource and popularity; Clarence Ousley, formerly Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, educator and publisher.

WAS IMPEACHED

Ferguson was impeached by the State Legislature in 1917 after a strenuous trial. About twenty articles were made out against him, but chief among them were those charging him with misapplication of public funds.

Following his impeachment Ferguson, out of office, was indicted in Austin for the same charges; but the indictment later was dismissed.

Mr. Hart, one of the original California Progressives, now opposes Mr. Johnson for the first time in the Senator's political career, having been identified with former Johnson campaigns.

Mr. Graham, former chairman of the County Republican Central Committee, once directed the campaign activities in behalf of Mr. Johnson. Mr. Graham assisted in organizing the Progressive movement.

[The questions submitted by these Republican men and women, the formers leaders in campaigns to elect Mr. Johnson to public office, demand specific answers. In order that these answers may be as generally circulated as possible The Times will reprint each question and append thereto an answer from Senator Johnson, provided the Senator will address himself directly to the question and will confine each answer to fifty words or to an average of fifty words for the entire list of seventeen questions, which will give him a total of 800 in which to answer all questions. The Senator's reply to each question must be received by The Times within a reasonable length of time, not exceeding three days.—Ed. Times.]

The Republican men and women listed were active members of the Johnson-for-Senator Club in 1916. They are now working for the election of Charles C. Moore, Republican candidate for United States Senator.

They form a part of "the same old gang" which Senator Johnson says he has come to California to fight. And the Hearst publications say for him that it will be "a two-fisted fight."

They were the leaders in forming the Progressive party that enabled Hiram Johnson to mount the political ladder.

Now, whe nthey say they have finally found him out, when they take the lead in denouncing him as demagogue, as obstructionist, and as merely a selfish politician possessing an ambition to hold public office, Mr. Johnson cheerfully calls them "the same old gang" and proceeds, with the help of the Hearst publications, to denounce them with both fists.

LEADERS DESERT HIM

Not only have the rank and file of his former supporters deserted him, many of them expressing regret for any aid they may have given him in the past, but the very flower of his former campaign leaders, the men and women who followed him into the Progressive party and placed themselves in the forefront of his electioneering battles—have deserted him by the scores and hundreds.

And these men and women, influential citizens, patriotic Americans, loyal Republicans, who have turned from Hiram Johnson in bitter disappointment at what they term his desertion of Progressive principles and his offensive egotism and truckling to Hearst, are now classified by Mr. Johnson as "the same old gang."

It is enough for the Senator, apparently, that they now oppose him; for, ignoring the fact that they stood with him and by him as long as they felt he represented the genuine aspirations of those desiring better and higher things in government, he unlimbers his heavy artillery, or rather, his "two fists" and abuses them as intensely as he formerly abused any who might oppose him.

The repudiation of Mr. Johnson by former supporters and campaign managers and advisors has been general throughout California, but nowhere greater then in Southern California. And as this Southern California. And great as this repudiation has been in its general aspects, the defection among his former closest and most valued political assistants supplies a new page in the political history of California.

Angered Deity Plans Storms, is Prediction

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—At 3 o'clock Friday morning a great storm will break in all its fury over Chicago. This is God's manifestation of his displeasure at the great labor disturbances now crippling industry."

This warning was issued by Will C. Baugh of Hastings, Neb., spiritualist extraordinary, now visiting Chicago. Baugh went on to explain that this would be the greatest storm in the history of America; that the loss of life would be appalling and that property worth billions would be destroyed. He said his advices indicated the loop, or downtown business district, would be the center of destruction.

Nothwithstanding this dire prediction Chicago went on its way as usual, eating, drinking, sleeping and attending to its various duties. It must be said to the credit of Mr. Baugh that even though he had advance information of the impending disaster, he remained overnight at a downtown hotel to take his chances with less fortunate humanity.

BATH POOL PASTOR IS SUSPENDED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAWTON (Okla.) July 28.—pastor of the First Presbyterian The Rev. Thomas J. Irwin, former church of Lawton, Okla., on trial here before the judicial commission of the El Reno presbytery on Ecclesiastical charges, was found guilty early today on three counts and indefinitely suspended from the Presbyterian church, U.S.A.

The trial commission announced that the verdict was unanimous on each separate count.

The commission took notice that Mr. Irwin had filed his intention to perfect an appeal to the synod of Oklahoma, which meets in October.

The minister was adjudged guilty of the following charges:

That he disciplined members of the Lawton congregation without due process, as provided by church regulations.

That he swore to a false affidavit to obtain an injunction in District Court restraining interference with his conduct of the Lawton church.

Thtat he brought disrepute upon the Presbyterian church as a whole by wading into a public pool garbed in a bathing suit and marrying a couple also wearing bathing suits.

EXECUTIVES TO TALK PEACE

fore the meeting. His conference with the President tonight, he said, had been devoted to a general survey of the situation.

TENTATIVE PLAN

While Mr. Cuyler was positive in his statement that the basis for proposed settlement of the strike had not been definitely drawn up, earlier reports indicated that at least a tentative plan had resulted from the conference between President Harding and leaders of the various railroad labor groups.

President Harding has made no specific request to the railroad executives, Mr. Cuyler said, when asked if the question of seniority rights had been brought forward at the conference with a view to influencing some railroads to reconsider their stand against returning these rights to striking shopmen.

Tentative proposals for the settlement of the strike were drawn up today after a series of conferences between President Harding and union leaders headed by B. M. Jewell of the shopmen's union. It was understood that the suggested plan for settlement—details of which were withheld by those participating in its formulation—would be submitted later to executives of the railroads.

SENIORITY ISSUE

The settlement proposals apparently had reference to the seniority issue, which, it was generally agreed, was the sole remaining bar to conclusion of the railroad war, or at least of an armistice in the struggle.

Should the railroad executives accept the plans, it was said, a rehearing of issues which led to the strike would be held before the Railroad Labor Board and all other questions left to adjudication through such a proceeding.

The union officials, through B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' section of the American Federation of Labor, declared they could not comment upon the substance of their discussions wit hthe President, except that every point in the strike controversy had been gone over. W. H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists; J. A. Franklin, president of the Boilermakers; M. F. Ryan, president of the Carman; Timothy Healy, president of the Stationary Firemen and Oilers; James Burns, vice-president of the Sheet Metal Workers, and Edward Evans, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers were in two meetings with Mr. Jewell and the President, the last of which did not break up until nearly 6 o'clock. The labor leaders refused to comment on their conference at the White House further than to say that they had covered every phase of the situation and to add that they would remain in Washington overnight.

It was understood in Chicago when the union group left yesterday for the Capitol that they would return tonight. The decision to extend their stay was taken as another indication that hopeful progress had been made today.

T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the Railway Executives' Association, was with President Harding at the White House for an hour before the union leaders were received and it was arranged for Cuyler to confer with the President after the group left.

OTHERS IN CITY

Other railroad officials were in the city. Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, expected to confer with Atty.-Gen. Daugherty today on some phases of the strike, but did not see him.

In the President's hands while the conferences proceeded was a copy of proposals which representatives of the striking shopcrafts on the Baltimore and Ohio had received in a separate meeting with the management of that road held in Baltimore this week. The document was delivered by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, who has been active in meetings with the railroad officials concerned.

It was considered possible that the Baltimore and Ohio plan might have been used as a basis for the suggestions developed in today's meetings.

Several railroads have been willing to return strikers their seniority positions in consideration of a general calling off the strike, but others including the Pennsylvania system and roads in the Southwest have flatly refused to do so, declaring that it meant dismissal of men employed to take the strikers' places and demotion of men who remained in service when others went out.

The position of the union heads who met with the President today were understood to be that all the railroads must concede the seniority point, accepting the return of all the strikers. It was asserted that the proposition of calling off the strike orders, even though all but two or three major roads yielded on seniority, had not been discussed. This left the intimation that President Harding would bring pressure upon the executives of those lines as a part of the strike settlement endeavor.

Union participants to the President's conference had the impression that President Harding intended to persuade railroad executives to yield on the seniority point rather than to use any forcible means.

The President, is was said, might declare that the railroad executives had assumed responsibility themselves for continuing the strike in case he determined that their attitude did not square with administration views of what the companies should do in the situation.

OFFICERS ARE LED BY SMELL

Beach Party Interrupted When Police Get Whiff of Spirits

Because traffic officers thought they detected the smell of alcohol when a bottle was thrown from an automobile on Pico Boulevard last night, a beach party was broken up and several of its members brought to the police station at Santa Monica where bail was deposited for their appearance in Police Court this afternoon.

Three machines carrying the party were stopped on the boulevard near Ocean avenue by Traffic Officers Gray and Rober of the Santa Monica force, because they were violating one of the traffic regulations. As the machines came to a stop one of the girls threw a bottle from the automobile.

At the police station Prudence Vergez, aged 17, of 1242 South Catalina street, Los Angeles, was charged with breaking glass on a highway and gave bond in the sum of $50. Other girls in the party, Irene Barbe, aged 23, of San Francisco, who gave her occupation as a book-keeper; Rose Vergez, aged 25, a school-teacher, of 1242 South Catalina street, and Edith Faix, aged 20 years, of 4424 West Pico street, a student, were all charged with disturbing the peace and furnished bonds in the sum of $25 each.

Two of the young men of the party who gave their names as Pete Bracamonte, aged 23, and R. F. Pirri, 22, residing at 330 and 315 Castelar street were held under $25 bond on a charge of disturbing the peace. Other members of the party were not taken to the station.

Senator Offers Resolution Designed to Aid Soldiers in Getting Back

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—A resolution designed to permit aliens who were recruited in the United States for the Polish army to return to this country regardless of immigration quota restrictions, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator McCormick, Illinois. It was referred to the Committee on Immigration.

Senator McCormick explained that Poles were recruited from among those who were not eligible to serve in the American Army. A number of contingents, consisting of about 18,000 of these soldiers returned to America in time to enter the country under the provisions of the Sabath resolutions, but about 20,000 were unable to do so. These latter were spread out over a big territory in Poland and it was impossible to assemble them until recently.

The Polish army in France was created by virtue of a decree issued by the government of France and in which the Allied governments and the United States concurred. This army was recruited in the United States under permission of the War Department. Almost immediately after the United States entered into the World War, this Polish army was transported to France, where it was established on the battlefields as an individual belligerent force. Shortly after the armistice, the army was moved to Poland, where it participated in engagements when the Russian Reds invaded that country.

Body of Ohio Man is Taken Out of River

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—Ostensibly the victim of thugs—"River rats" who haunt the piers and live by stealing and other crimes—the body of Marianna Ferrella, aged 40 of Sandisky, O., was taken from the river today. He had been terribly beaten, his hands, and feet were tied with rope and telegraph wire, and pieces of scrap iron were hung to his body to weight him down.

All his pockets were turned inside out. He had received his month's pay last Friday as a dredger for a Cleveland company and in addition was carrying a large sum of money. He had been with the company twenty years.

The coroner's physician, after examining the body, said Ferrella was probably living but unconscious from the beating when he was thrown into the river.

DISCOVERS COCAINE IN STOCKINGS

London Detective Finds Drug Headquarters When Girl is Caught Buying

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 27.—In locating huge quantities of cocaine hidden in silk stockings, the police believe they have found one of the headquarters of the London drug ring. The discovery came with the arrest of Mrs. Tinovia Iassonides, 29, a Greek, caught selling "snow" to Miss Frances Benjamin, a beautiful English girl in a Soho restaurant.

Detective Owen had been watching the suspected restaurant as a dope distributing joint and he seized Miss Benjamin after she had spoken and apparently shaken hands with Mrs. Iasonides.

Seizing Miss Benjamin's hand the detective forced it open and discovered a packet of cocaine.

"I paid a pound for it. She has more in her stocking." Miss Benjamin told the detective.

The police arrested the Greek woman and discovered more cocaine in her handbag.

Visiting Mrs. Iassonides's room the police found packets of cocaine under the mattress and three bottles of the drug hidden in some silk stockings in a bureau drawer.

Miss Iassonides was sentenced to six months and fined 100 pounds.

"Billy" Camp on Way Here to "Enjoy Life"

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—Having gained his release from the clutch of creditors by posting a bond of $26,000, William C. "Billy" Camp prepared today to depart for California, bearing with him most of the $165,000 paid to him by Mrs. Katherine C. Thorne in settlement of all his claims against her.

The sum for which Camp relinquished his interest in the $350,000 trust fund established by Mrs. Thorne for him and also agreed to refrain from further revelations concerning his relations with her, was depleted by the payment of a lawyer's fee amounting, according to reports, to $30,000, and by the $26,000 bond.

With the remainder, however, Camp plans to retire to the seclusion of a California bungalow and "enjoy life," he says.

Terrible Judge Refuses Little Girl Lollypops

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—"At 3 o'clock mary Baur, who has attained the age of 11, must worry along for another year on the paltry $15,000 the court allowed her when she was a mere infant of 10. Her budget no more than sufficed last year, but the court maintained she must make a like sum do for the present year.

Out of that allowance, $1250, a month, she must provide herself with clothes and lollypops and servants and dollars and limousines and roller-skates. There is one rift in the cloud. Rosemary is part owner of the Luiquid Carbonic Company, and tha may enable her to get her ice cream and sodas free, or at least at a discount.

The budget was fixed by probate Judge Horner at the request of Mrs. Jacob Baur, Rosemary's mother. Mrs. Baur filed no bill of particulars, but asked that she be permitted to spend $15,000 of the $72,492 which her daughter's estate earned last year. She said it costs more than $1250 a month to pay Rosemary's expenses, but she will make up the difference from her own fortune.

Employees Who Are "Sold on Their Jobs"

There's no better way to win the good will of your employees than by assuring them that they will be well taken care of in case of accident or illness.

The workmen's compensation insurance provided by State law pays an injured employee a maximum compensation of only $20.83 per week. While this may suffice for unskilled laborers, it is hardly adequate for the more valuable employees—whom, above all others, you wish to keep contented.

It will pay you to supplement the State's indemnity with excess compensation insurance, thus enabling your workers to obtain as high as 75% of their regular salaries—up to $40 per week. The premium rates are very reasonable.

Let us give you the details.

Bielaski "Guest of Embassy" at Mexican Capital

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, July 27.—Bruce Bielaski and Mrs. Bielaski are guests of the United States embassy while awaiting the final order of the court of Cuernavaca, which is expected to reverse a decision exonerating Mr. Bielaski or directing his arrest on charge of self-abduction.

Mr. Bielaski said today he had not taken formal asylum in the embassy inasmuch as there was no order for his arrest issued by the court. In view of strong indications that some sort of action was contemplated, it was deemed prudent "to remain overnight as guests" of George T. Summerlin until the court made definite action, he said.

SENIORITY ISSUE IN STRIKE PEACE

Recognize Rights of Men at Work, Says Committee

Roads Report Employee Force Near Normal

Courts Issue Injunctions Against Shopmen

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—Destruction of an incentive to men to remain at work in case of future strikes will result if the railroad strikers are allowed to return to work with former seniority rights unimpaired, the western president's committee on public relations of the Association of Railway Executives said in a statement issued today. In the absence from Chicago of B. M. Jewell, head of the striking shopmen, and his international presidents, there was no statement from strike headquarters.

"Not only justice," the statement said, "but the public interest demands that in any settlement of the strike the seniority rights of the men now working shall be recognized."

The statement asserted that "men who are now working have claims upon the railways and the public superior to those of the strikers."

ADD EMPLOYEES TO LIST

A second statement issued by the executives tonight said that western railways, with headquarters at Chicago, report "transportation conditions continue to be practically normal." A large majority of the roads, the statement said, continued to handle more freight business than a year ago, and all reported increases in the number of shop workmen employed.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific reported 287 shopmen added to its force today; the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe said 288 men were put to work, bringing its shop force to 55 per cent of normal; the Illinois Central said its shop force was now 80 per cent normal; the Southern Pacific reported that on its lines east of El Paso its shop force is 59 per cent of normal, in Arizona 57 per cent and on the lines west of El Paso, 50 per cent; while the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy said 1100 shopmen had been added to its force in the last three days, this including 300 today.

STOCK REACHES MARKET

The Burlington, the statement said, from the 1st to the 24th insts., brought to the Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Joseph and East St. Louis markets 8589 carloads of live stock, only two of which failed to make the market. During the same time, sugar refineries on its lines loaded 410 cars of sugar as compared with 417 in the same period in June, the statement said. The eastern lines, according to the statement, have 60 per cent as many employees working in their shops now as before the strike started.

With attention turned to Washington, where union and rail executives conferred with the President today, the situation here remained practically unchanged. The Labor Board devoted its time to routine matters, while the Federal courts here issued injunctions restraining strikers from interfering with four other railroads. Reports of violence throughout the country today were few and there were no serious disorders. Reports from Montreal said Canadian shopmen of the Grand Trunk Railroad have threatened to join the strike because they were asked to repair equipment for roads in the United States, where the shopmen were striking.

But it was the drudgery of the farm that then bound the ardent scholar and it was only after nine long years of toil in the fields of Ontario that he began his student days at the University of Toronto. Now the farmer's boy is one of the most noted astronomers.

DIRECTS HUGE TELESCOPE

Here in Victoria, since the completion in 1918 of the big Canadian government astrophysical observatory, he has been installed director of the great seventy-two-inch telescope, than which there is one only larger in the world. So colossal is the tube that a small motor car can be driven through it.

"Marvelous that a little matter like that should create such interest," said Dr. Plaskett of his discovery. "It was only chance that was responsible or, rather, steady adherence to our routine work. We have determined about 100 of these binaries or double stars, but never before one like this."

The discovery, points out the doctor, is scarcely of the star itself, but of its remarkable properties. It had been known to exist, but that was all.

"Observed visually or photographed, the star exhibits no particular properties to distinguish it from the 3000 other stars of the same brightness," said the doctor.

"It was only when analyzed by the spectroscope, in the course of our regular work, that we got a wonderful fund of information concerning it. The star is situated in the constellation Monoceros, eastward and adjacent to the familiar Orion group. It is about ten degrees from the bright red star Betelgeuse.

"It is on a line drawn between Betelgeuse and Procyon, nearly midway between the two, actually about two-fifths of the distance from Betelgeuse. It is just beyond naked eye visibility, except to the keenest sight in the clearest night.

PHOTOGRAPH STARS

"The popular conception of the work of an astronomer is that he spends his time in desultory searching after new planets and the like, or in examining the details of the moon and the stars. Such work with a telescope of the seventy-two-inch instrument would be a great waste of time. Such attempts seem especially desirable at this time, on account of the near approach of Mars to the earth, and the apparent general belief that astronomers are devoting most of their energy to observations of this planet with a view to the determination of the perennial question of its habitation by human beings.

"The whole of the regular work with this telescope and most others is photographic. The light of the star focused on the narrow split of the spectroscope is spread out into a multicolored spectrum, which is generally crossed by numerous dark lines, and when photographed on a sensitive plate, a permanent record of the lines is obtained.

"The astronomers at this observatory are giving a considerable portion of their time to this phase, and have now made a notable contribution to knowledge along this line, perhaps at present the most important.

"It was when the light from this ordinary-looking star was analyzed by the spectroscope, that its unique properties were revealed.

"The first spectrum was photographed on Dec. 16, 1921; this showed it to be of a rare class, not only of the very hottest, but of the most massive. Examination of this and subsequent spectra, about thirty in all, showed that many of the lines due to hydrogen and helium were not single, as is ordinarily the case, but were double—a sure indication that instead of being one star, it consisted of two stars too close together to be separated by any telescope.

"Merely from the quality of the light coming from it," said Dr. Plaskett, "with the aid of the spectroscope we have been able to deduce these principal facts:

"The system, which is 10,000 light years away, consists of two enormous suns, each at a temperature of about 30,000 deg., Fahr., revolving around one another at a distance of about 55,000,000 miles, as speeds of 128 and 154 miles a second, respectively, in about 14.4 days. The brighter, heavier and slower of the two stars is nearly twenty times the diameter of our sun, more than seventy-five times as massive, and 15,000 times as bright.

"The fainter, lighter and faster-moving star is about eighteen times the diameter of our sun, and more than sixty-three times as heavy, and 12,000 times as bright. The star is especially remarkable for its enormous mass, about four times as great as any previously determined. It is much brighter than any known star in the sky. Our sun sinks to insignificance beside it. The second brightest-known star, Rigel, is only half the brightness of this pair."

SUIT ACCUSES BANK OFFICERS OF FRAUD

ACTION SEEKS RECOVERY OF FUNDS FROM OREGON INSTITUTION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KLAMATH FALLS (Or.) July 27. Former officers and directors of the defunct First State and Savings Bank here were charged with fraud and conspiracy in handling the bank's funds previous to its insolvency in an equity suit filed here today by Frank C. Bramwell, State bank examiner, for the bank, in which recovery of $300,000 is sought. The defendants are J. W. Siemens, John Siemens, Jr., Ed. Bloomingcamp, D. B. Murphy and Marshall Hooper.

The complaint asserts some or all of the defendants were involved in the making of excessive loans; that the loans were made on inadequate securities, and that illegal loans were made to themselves.

The reopening of the bank after its first failure in February, 1921, was marked by a demonstration by the citizens in favor of Capt. Siemens, founder of the bank, in which subscriptions poured in from all parts of the county. Without this aid Capt. Siemens declared at the time, the bank never could have reopened.

MYSTERY NOTE SENT HARDING

"Who is J. Cleve Dean" Now Worries Gompers

Union Chief Denies He Knows Letter's Author

Missive Threatened War in Strike Trouble

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—That "a man of straw"—a fictitious personage without official standing in union circles—sent President Harding the message which last night drew a lengthy reply from the White House reiterating the government's position on the rail and coal strikes, was the belief expressed here today by Sampel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

THREAT MADE

The message to Mr. Harding predicted that "to attempt to operate the mines or the railroads by military forces, or to attempt to draft men" would result in the approach of "the long-predicted war between capital and labor."

It was signed "J. Cleve Dean, chairman Railway Employees' Publicity Association."

The President addressed a reply to the alleged author of the message, in which he said in part:

"If you mean to challenge the righteousness of free men to protection in their lawful pursuits against interference and violence, I will be glad to join you in submitting that question to the decision of the American people."

GOMPERS SURPRISED

Mr. Gompers expressed surprise that the administration should have shown such concern over the J. Cleve Dean message as to have replied to it, especially since, the union leader asserted, the White House apparently was "all in the dark" as to the identity of the sender or his capacity in official circles of union labor.

"The White House called me yesterday, asking if I knew this man," said Mr. Gompers, "I told them I did not, and had no record of him as an official of American labor, I consulted all the records, in Washington and in such eastern cities as I could reach, and even telephoned rail headquarters in Chicago, in an effort to learn who was J. Cleve Dean. No one I knew anything about him, or had ever heard of him, and I informed the White House to that effect.

"I am positive of one thing, and that is that the author of the letter to President Harding is not the chairman of the Railway Employees' Publicity Association. In view of the undetermined position of the man, I am surprised the President answered him.

"STRAW MAN"

"The longer I think about it, the more I am convinced that J. Cleve Dean was just a 'straw man' set up by interested persons, for a purpose which should be plainly evident."

Mr. Gompers expressed regret that he was unable to remain in Washington today while the expected conferences of B. M. Jewell with President Harding and other Federal representatives were in progress.

"I feel certain that a meeting between these gentlemen at this stage of the rail strike will result in a settlement within a very few days," he declared.

The federation chief came here to address representatives of striking cloak makers.

HIGH SUGAR TARIFF URGED BY TOWNSEND

PROTECTION AGAINST CUBAN PRODUCT WOULD AID MICHIGAN, HE SAYS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MENOMINEE (Mich.) July 27. How a higher tariff on Cuban sugar would provide a wider market for the sugar beets of Michigan, was explained by Senator Townsend at a large mass meeting here last night.

The Senator, who is campaigning for renomination, was enthusiastically received at the mass meeting and a dinner of 200 covers was given by the Menominee Commercial Club. Mrs. Townsend was the guest of honor at a reception at the Woman's Club.

"A protective tariff on sugar affords the best illustration of the protection and promotion of home industries," Senator Townsend told his audience, in which were many farmers of this sugar beet growing locality.

"There is no reason why we should not grow all the sugar we consume. We ought to do it and we ought to foster the best sugar industry until we do. To the extent that foreign sugar is allowed to compete with our domestic product the development of the beet sugar industry will be retarded.

"Cuban sugar now is the chief competitor of our home-grown sugar. We produce enough beet sugar for half our consumption. Cuba has enough sugar on hand to supply the whole United States."

GOVERNMENT TO LEASE INDIAN ZINC LANDS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Secretary Fall today announced that he had accepted the bid offered by the Eagle-Picher Lead Company for lead and zinc mining leases covering Quapaw, Indian lands, in Ottawa county, Oklahoma. The leases, have been the subject of much controversy and the final action of the interior department was awaited with interest by mining interests.

"SWEET CIDER" IS REASON FOR FINE

Oliver L. Chadwick, who conducted a soft drink parlor at Redondo Beach, until his license was revoked by the city authorities, was found guilty of the possession of a quantity of "sweet cider" by a jury in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday and fined $500, which he paid. The charge that he had sold the stuff to E. R. Baldwin, was not sustained.

TELL HARDING OF VIOLATIONS

Protests Are Made Against Republicans

Two Johnson Campaign Talks Violate Policy

Accuse Chamberlain and Angeleno Official

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Protests are being made to President Harding and those responsible for the political policies of his administration against glaring violations of the policy enunciated by the President that there was to be no participation by the administration in primaries of the Republican party. In the last few days two cases in violation of this pledge have been particularly conspicuous and have been called to the attention of President Harding with a request that instructions be given which will prevent repetitions of the offense.

The first of these is a public interview credited to former Senator George Chamberlain of Oregon, now a member of the Shipping Board. This interview is purported to have been given out in San Francisco and indorses the present United States Senator who is now seeking renomination. In this statement former Senator Chamberlain is said to have championed the anti-administration attitude of Senator Johnson and a parallel was drawn in his own case where he opposed former President Wilson. If the analogy is carried out Johnson may be like Chamberlain—no longer a member of the United States Senate, after the Republicans of California have spoken at the primary.

The second case is that of Mabel Willebrandt of Los Angeles, who has for some time been Assistant Attorney-General with headquarters in Washington. She has been a constant visitor to the home of Senator Johnson and the latter's press agent has given much publicity to a statement purported to have been made by her in the interest of the Senator now seeking another term. It is reported in Washington that Mrs. Willebrandt is contemplating going to California and taking an active part in the effort to renominate Senator Johnson.

The best information is that Mrs. Willebrandt is planning to leave for the West in a few days, unless her plans are changed by developments in the Department of Justice.

Meyer Lissner, another Johnson supporter and who was reappointed only recently for a term of six years as a member of the Shipping Board, seems by a strange coincidence to have found pressing official business to call him to the West Coast at a time when his support and aid would be useful to Hiram Johnson, though as a matter of record he never personally obligated himself to President Harding by requesting his appointment and only formally recommended him for the place.

Members of the Republican national organization resent this interference by appointees of the administration in violation of the rule of neutrality laid down by the President and have demanded that no more violations of the rule shall be permitted.

Germany Denied Moratorium on Private Debts

By Floyd Gibbons

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, July 27.—The Allies today refused Germany's request for a cash moratorium for the payment of private debts owed to Allied nationals before the war by German nationals, which the German government assumed in the peace treaty. The Germans requested this moratorium several days after their demand for a moratorium on cash reparations payments, the same reason in both cases being Germany's inability to purchase foreign currency since the mark was depreciated.

Germany has been paying about $8,500,000 monthly on account of those private prewar claims and American creditors have been excluded from these payments, in addition to America being excluded from sharing reparations. America was permitted, under the Berlin treaty, to set up a clearing-house to handle American claims, but the time limit for this has expired.

CANDIDATES NAMED FOR APACHE COUNTY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. JOHNS (Ariz.) July 26. — Apache county is unique as the only Arizona subdivision that has honored the call of the Democratic State Chairman for a county convention to name candidates for office, this in place of the direct primary.

Fred T. Colter, once candidate for Governor, is to head the county ticket as candidate for Senator, a place he has filled before. Willard O. Hamblin, son of the famous Mormon scout of the same name, was named for Sheriff. Two women are on the ticket, Mrs. Alice Crosby of St. Johns for Recorder and Mrs. Virginia Williams of Springville for School Superintendent.

YOUTHS FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING ORIENTAL

SECOND DEGREE MURDER VERDICT RETURNED BY FRESNO JURY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, July 27. — George Grafft and James Dunn, local youths charged with the murder of Wing Hop, aged Chinese merchant of Coalinga, were found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury.

Alleged confessions made by the youths following their arrest were introduced by the prosecution while the defense following the verdict announced intention to appeal.

WOOL TARIFF CAUSES ROW

Republican Opposition to Administration's Rates

Senator Nelson Says Plan Doubles Cloth Cost

Schedule Goes Through in Spite of Protests

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Continuation of Republican opposition to rates in the wool schedule; a Democratic proposal for a "scientific" tariff as a substitute for the pending bill, and the virtual rewriting of the silk schedule by the Finance Committee majority were outstanding developments today in the tariff situation in the Senate.

Senators Lenroot of Wisconsin and Nelson, Minnesota, voiced the protests of a small group on the majority side against the wool rates, but on roll calls the committee recommendations were approved by overwhelming majorities. Senator Lenroot told the Senate he realized the "utter futility" of undertaking to bring about any changes in the protective duties proposed.

"It could not be done, no matter what facts were shown to the Senate," he declared. "The votes are here to put the rates through just as the committee reported them."

Senator Nelson characterized the committee rates of 40 cents a pound as 50 per cent ad valorem on wool cloth, weighing not more than four ounces to the square yard as an outrage. He said it worked out at 100 per cent ad valorem.

"If that's the kind of tariff you want to inflict upon the American people we want to know it," he shouted. "I never heard of a more unconscionable duty. I would be ashamed to tell the people I had voted for a duty of 100 per cent on cloth all of us have to wear in the winter time."

Senator Smoot of Utah, in charge of the schedule for the Finance Committee majority, said these were very fine clothes; that the 40 cents a pound rate was necessary to compensate the manufacturers for the 30 cents a pound rate on the secured content of wool and the protective rate had been based on the decrease in costs of production in this country and abroad.

Making a similar explanation of the rate, Chairman McCumber asserted if it could be shown that the protective duty was too high, the committee and the Senate would change it.

RAW PRODUCT DUTY

So far as the compensatory rate was concerned, he said, all would have to admit that the manufacturer was entitled to it since he had to pay a duty on his raw product. He added that if Senator Nelson wanted to reduce the compensatory duty he should move to reconsider the rate on raw wool. McCumber said Nelson had voted yesterday against the Wadsworth amendment to make that duty 31 cents and that consequently he assumed the Minnesota Senator favored the 31-cent rate.

Continuing his assaults upon each paragraph in the wool schedule as they were reached, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, in charge of the minority opposition to the schedule, told the Senate the duties on yarns, which were approved as originally recommended by the committee, furnished "the most outrageous case" that had come up in the wool discussion. He charged that the protective duties were duties to "bestow special gifts and special favors" upon the spinners.

His amendment to reduce the protective rates by 10 per cent was rejected, 31 to 19, and then the original rates were approved, 31 to 19, Five Republicans, Borah, Cummins, Jones of Washington, Kellogg and Lenroot, voted against the rates, and two Democrats, Broussard and Kendrick voted for them.

The Democratic "scientific" tariff amendment was presented by Senator Jones of New Mexico, on behalf of the minority members of the Finance Committee. Under its terms the Tariff Commission would be required, after adequate investigation, to recommend the Congress tariff rates which in its judgment should be fixed by law and the reasons for each recommendation made. Democrats said this would leave the authority with Congress to enact rates.

WALLA WALLA NOT WORRIED

Has Plenty of Wood for Fuel Despite Rail Strike

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WALLA WALLA (Wash.) July 27.—With a sufficient supply of wood in the mountains close by, to serve in case of a fuel shortage, little anxiety is felt here over the coal strike situation. Since the city's coal comes largely from Utah, the supply has thus far been adequate, as the rail strike has affected the roads but little.

KANSAS WHEAT MEN ASK HELP

Growers' Association Asks for $2,500,000

Co-operative Marketing is Allowed $87,000,000

Expect Only Fraction of Allowance to be Used

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Application of the Kansas Wheat Growers' Association for an advance of not to exceed $2,500,000 to assist in financing the orderly marketing of wheat during the coming season, was announced today by the War Finance Corporation.

The corporation also announced that representatives of the Washington, Idaho, Montana and North Dakota Wheat Growers' Associations would appear before it August 9 in connection with pending applications from those organizations as follows:

OTHER STATES' REQUESTS

Washington Wheat Growers' Association, $2,000,000; Idaho Wheat Growers' Association, $1,000,000; Montana Wheat Growers' Association, $2,000,000, and North Dakota Wheat Growers' Association, $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Advances to co-operative marketing associations so far for assistance in financing the orderly marketing of agricultural products, the corporation stated, total $87,000,000, including the following:

Oklahoma Wheat Growers' Association, $2,500,000; Texas Wheat Growers' Association, $500,000; Oklahoma Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association, $6,000,000; Arkansas Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association, $7,500,000, and Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, $9,000,000.

BANKS ASSIST IN FINANCING

The corporation said that it is expected that only a portion of the amounts approved will be actually advanced by the corporation and that as was the case during the past season, the banks in the interested districts will do the major part of the financing for the associations.

Furthermore, the large eastern financial centers are showing a decided interest this year in the financing of the co-operative marketing associations and it is probable that considerable amounts will be made available from these centers in addition to the advances provided by the local banks.

CHILD SOLD IN COURT TO HIGHEST BIDDER

BOARD BILL ARREARS CAUSE NOVEL PROCEEDINGS IN WINDY CITY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 27.—Held for ransom to satisfy a $405 board and doctor bill incurred by her father, now serving a term in the House of Correction, Marie Baker, 5 years of age, was today sold at auction by Judge Adams in the Court of Domestic Relations to the highest and best bidder.

The child was "knocked down" to Mr. and Mrs. John Kenney, wealthy residents of Rentville, Minn., who had journeyed to Chicago to attend the sale. Their bid was $30.

When Marie's mother died a year ago, her father took her and himself to board at the home of Mrs. A. Stolpman. He fell behind in his payments and Mrs. Stolpman brought him into the court on a charge or contributing to the dependency of a child. When he could not pay, the judge sent him to the House of Correction.

Mrs. Kenney, sister of the child's dead mother, heard of these conditions and sought to have the child added to her flock of eight, but the Stolpmans blocked her efforts. They finally agreed that the Kenneys might take Marie if they would pay up all back indebtedness. Judge Adams arbitrated the claims and allowed them but $30, the board for the child since her father went to jail.

RAILROAD'S SEEKING RESTRAINING ORDER

WESTERN PACIFIC WOULD HAVE INJUNCTION AGAINST STRIKERS

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 27.—Attorneys for the Western Pacific Railroad Company filed in Federal District Court here today an application for a temporary restraining order directed against the striking shopmen, similar to that granted recently to the Southern Pacific.

The application is supported by affidavits from employees of the company, including a number of men injured in a raid on the company's roundhouse at Oroville, two weeks ago. It would operate in Stockton, Sacramento, Oroville, Portola and Oakland and Winnemucca and Elko, Nev.

A copy of the application was taken to San Francisco, where, it was said, the Federal Court would be asked to set a date for a hearing.

BLACKSMITH'S TUNE STILLED

Whistler Dies as Result of Reported Attack By Laborer

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PANAMA (Iowa) July 28.—Math Herbst, 60 years old, a blacksmith, stood in front of his shop early this morning, whistling cheerfully.

Across the street walked John Schaefer, a 70-year-old laborer. He called to Herbst, "Come over and whistle for me."

As Herbst crossed the street, Schaefer is alleged to have struck him with an ax. Herbst died from his injuries.

DECISION ON CASH DISCOUNTS REVOKED

MANUFACTURERS MUST RETURN TO FORMER STATUS BY FEDERAL RULING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Revocation of the ruling of March 23, last, by which manufacturers were allowed to deduct cash discounts in computing the price of manufactured articles for the purpose of Federal taxes has been ordered by the Treasury Department, according to an order received from the department today by Collector of Internal Revenue, John P. McLaughlin.

"The ruling of last March," said Collector McLaughlin, "amended the regulations of December, 1921, which allowed no such cash discounts, and provided that where articles were sold with the understanding that if paid for within a certain period the purchaser might take a cash discount, and the purchaser elected to take advantage of this provision of the contract of sale, the amount of such discount was deductible in determining the sale price of the articles.

"Under the new ruling, which is effective from the 1st inst, this provision is revoked. The manufacturer is returned to the status under which he made returns prior to March 23, inst."

PULLMAN COMPANY IS ORDERED TO PAY TAX

WISCONSIN SUPREME COURT RULES STATE LAW IS CONSTITUTIONAL

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MADISON (Wis.) July 27.—The Wisconsin Supreme Court today upheld the State Tax Commission assessment against the Pullman Sleeping Car Company and ordered payment of back taxes amounting to nearly $200,000, accumulated since the case was commenced in the Dane County Circuit Court in 1913. Justice Jones reversed the lower court decision and directed a judgment for the State, sustaining the constitutionality of the statute governing valuation of railroad property.

"It is our conclusion that neither the statute in question nor the methods pursued by the commission were in violation of any of the provisions of the State or Federal constitutions; that the assessment made by the commission was not excessive or unjust; and that it should be sustained," Justice Jones said in his opinion.

The Pullman company was assessed $31,398 as its tax for 1918, paid $10,728 of that amount and refused to pay the remainder as it has continued to do during the following years up to the present, claiming that the State had assessed intangible property outside Wisconsin for taxing purposes.

"There seems little doubt," said the decision, "that the State may tax cars habitually used in the State, according to their fair value, and that the valuation need not be limited to the fair value of the cars used separately, but it may include the intangible value, due to what may be called the 'organic relation of property' in the State, to the whole system."

ESPEE LINES CLEAR, ROADS ARE ADVISED

NO CONGESTION ON SYSTEM NOW, PRESIDENT WIRES OTHER OFFICIALS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific Company, today made public the following telegram which he has sent to presidents of Southern Pacific connections and of other important railroad lines:

"Referring to Interstate Commerce Commission service order No. 23 directing carriers to forward traffic by any routes available to expedite its movement and prevent congestion, which is mandatory only when necessary to prevent congestion:

"There is no congestion on our lines and delivery will be expedited and congestion avoided by routing traffic over the lines of Southern Pacific Company. We use oil-burning locomotives and are not dependent on coal for fuel. You will be promptly informed if there is any change in situation on Southern Pacific.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MONTGOMERY (Ala.) July 27. A. Portis McKeithen was killed accidentally and Mildred Brewer, 16-year-old girl, asserted to have shot him, was adjudged a ward of the State, following the trial in the Juvenile Court of Montgomery. Newspaper men were barred from the trial. The Brewer girl was placed on probation and committed to the care and custody of her mother, Mrs. Frank Richardson. She is directed with her mother to report to the juvenile judge every Saturday morning until further orders.

$1,000 Reward Offered

To anyone who can prove any of the following 10 statements to be untrue.

1—That there are three producing oil wells now on the McCalla 41.7 acres at Richfield and that the profits of the McCalla investors begin to accrue from the day they buy.

2—That one of the large drilling companies drilled these three wells and holds an oil lease of ordinary form for continuous drilling until a total of 9 wells are drilled.

3—That this drilling company intends to carry out the provisions of their lease and put a string of tools back on the McCalla Land, drilling for more oil as soon as either one of two wells are finished, for which they had written permission to remove their tools from the land McCalla is selling.

4—That there are two oil strata in the Richfield Section of the Whittier-Fullerton Oil Field and that production from the deeper sand has increased as it approached McCalla Land from the South.

5—That the deep sand production is large and very profitable, that there is room for 23 wells on the McCalla Land—11 to the deep sand and 11 to the shallow sand.

6—That the McCalla Land-Owners have a reasonable and legitimate expectation for a large and profitable production of oil from the deeper sand as found in the Morse Well No. 2 and Morse Well No. 3, but a short distance from the McCalla Land.

7—That the owners of land adjoining the McCalla Land have become very wealthy from the royalty received from oil produced on their land by the big drilling companies to whom it was leased.

8—That through present production and the above mentioned leases on proven oil land by a large Drilling Company with practically an unlimited capital, who drill wholly at their own expense, the chances of loss to McCalla investors is largely eliminated.

9—That in the many years of McCalla operations in the selling of speculative real estate in Los Angeles, neither he NOR ANY AGENT SELLING UNDER HIS INSTRUCTIONS has ever sold anything by knowingly misrepresenting it.

10—That McCalla has fulfilled every obligation and kept every promise he has made during his years of business in Los Angeles.

Note—The decision of the courts in the case pending can in no way affect the income of McCalla investors, who in any case must continue to hold their land owners' royalty rights.

I Ask You This

Do these statements sound like the proposition or principles of a "crook" or an "outlaw"?

Is it justice to drag in the mire of the dirty streets and fill the air with the revolting cries of the newsboys the name of a man whose character and reputation through years of business dealings has been unspotted, unstained and unquestioned?

Is it true in this land of liberty that a man is "innocent until he is proven guilty"? Or is it a part of the "freedom of the press" to convict and condemn a man UNSEEN AND UNHEARD?

NOT A SINGLE NEWSPAPER REPORTER HAS ASKED ME FOR AN INTERVIEW NOR PUT FORTH ANY EFFORT TO HEAR MY SIDE OF THE STORY.

Is it prosecution or persecution? I ask you the question! I want to know what the public thinks of such methods of procedure. Write ME YOUR OPINION. Is it justice? Is it fair play?

Nearly Died on Birthday

"On my last birthday, eight months ago, I had another close call. We had just finished dinner. My stomach began to hurt me, a minute later I lay unconscious. Three doctors worked on me. I was soaked with a cold sweat when I came to. The next week, telling a friend about it and he advised trying Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. Since taking a course of your medicine I have been able to eat anything. I have no more pains or bloating and am feeling better than for ten years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. LONG ITALIAN CRISIS FEARED

Forming of Cabinet Believed Impossible

Solution Lies in General Election, Many Say

Fascisti Movement Seems to Gain Momentum

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, July 27.—The present ministerial crisis threatens to be as long as the last one when the country was without a government for three weeks. After Sig. Orlando's and Sig. Bonomi's failure, it is likely that Sig. De Nava and Sig. Ferra, said to be next in line, also will find it impossible to form a cabinet owing to present composition of the Italian Chamber, for it is generally admitted now that if there is political confusion in Italy it is only in the Chamber of Deputies.

There are 536 Deputies in this branch of Parliament and almost as many political parties. Although there are only thirteen recognised groups nearly all are split into one or more cliques.

Many say that the only solution of the situation is a general election. Some people are dragging out the scarecrow of a civil war or a military dictatorship if the Chamber is dissolved, but deeper students of the situation scoff at that fear.

MERE RIPPLES

In accordance with these ideas these same students of Italian affairs state that all the political troubles that have afflicted Italy for the last three years are mere ripples on the surface, which are caused by a great, powerful undercurrent, which is transforming Italy into an entirely different nation.

It is said that in the short space of time, after the autumn of 1917 to the autumn of 1918, or from the great humiliation of the Caporetto defeat to the triumph of Italian valor on the Piave, a new Italy was born. The 1,000,000 boys, 17 or 18 years of age, who were thrown into the battlefields of the Jiave and who saved the country, are said to have been the first to have seen the vision of the reborn Italy. Those who came back became members of the Fascisti and they have started a nationalist movement whose impetus is growing more and more irresistible.

The various political dispensations and social upheavals that have occurred since the armistice are defined as a struggle between the new and old Italies, between those who saw "the vision of the Piave" and those who did not.

CONQUER BOLSHEVISM

The Fascisti say "on the Piave we saw the power of Italy and we experienced an immense pride in being from Italy. We intend to tell the whole world that henceforth Italy shall no longer be a little sister of any nation. There are 40,000,000 of us in Italy. We are poor in natural resources but immensely rich in human element and in spiritual power. Our need of other people is no greater than their need of us. At home we have conquered Bolshevism and shattered the forces of socialism. We shall continue our fight against any groups against the country until our whole nation has been converted to loyal and constructive patriotism."

The final result of the struggle between the old and new Italy is hard to fault but one thing seems certain; that the Fascisti have come to stay and the world will hear a great deal from them.

OREGON WOMAN NOW IS FRENCH COUNTESS

FORMER WIFE OF FAMOUS PAINTER IS ADOPTED BY NOBLEWOMAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 27.—The former Claudia Windsor of Oregon, estranged wife of Pierre Tartous, famous French portrait painter, today became the Countess Claudia Windsor De Rampan De Chaquetot, through her adoption by the Countess Clerel De Tocqueville De Rampan De Chaquetot, gray-haired, buxom French noblewoman.

The adoption papers were signed this morning in the offices of Bergman & Hartman, attorneys for the Countess De Chaquetot, and were immediately taken to the Surrogate's office and completed.

"I was a long time persuading Claudia to let me adopt her," said the Countess, widow of the grandson of Bonaventure Clerel, the Comte De Tocqueville, a Peer of France, and Prefect of Versailles. "She was not treated well by her husband and she must give up those terrible people she has been knowing. I lost a daughter who would be about Claudia's age—25 years old—had she lived."

She said she would take her adopted daughter to her Glencove (L. I.) summer home and later present her to various royal courts of Europe.

The Murder House at Gambais

Garden Entrance to Landru's Famous "Death Villa"

Mr. Le Queux is standing in the doorway leading from the kitchen to the rear garden of Landru's Gambais villa. In this kitchen the Bluebeard was accustomed to cremate the bodies of his victims and bury the bones and ashes in the garden. How many of these grim private funerals passed through this doorway only Landru knew and he never told. The police were able to find traces of at least ten.

FIRST GAMBAIS MURDER

Landru Begins Operations at Famous Villa Where at Least Ten Women Perished

[In previous articles Mr. Le Queux has described the way in which Landru was forced, by the diverse suspicions of the police, his neighbors and one of his wives who escaped his death-traps, to abandon his former haunts and start afresh under a new alias and in a new "murder house." This he found near Gambais, a village not far from Paris.]

To his landlord Landru represented himself as an engineer, carrying on business in Paris, and according to Monsieur Trie, he was afterward always most punctual in his payments, and indeed a model tenant. Though an assassin of women, Landru was an amazingly shrewd and punctilious business man, who paid debts methodically and always on the day they were due.

Within ten days of signing the agreement, the goods which had been removed from Vernouillet were installed at "The Hermitage," Landru's famous villa at Gambais. An old woman whom he brought from Paris assisted him in arranging them, but after a fortnight she left and was not seen again.

The dealer in women's hearts and furniture came and went at odd times, never employing a servant. He would come by car on Saturday and stay till Monday, all alone, bringing his food and living picnic style. He took long walks alone in the woods, which he thoroughly explored.

In the meantime, however, he was busily courting Madame Heon —"Havre," as he called her in his carnet—who at that time was living at 165 Rue de Rennes. Now that he had set the trap, the alluring of further victims was not a difficult task. At Vernouillet he had had neighbors on either hand, but at Gambais he was far removed from anyone. The bare, bleak churchyard and the church planted on that solitary heath were his only neighbors, yet, of course, the high-road to Rambouillet and on to Paris passed before the house—a road devoid of trees and hedgerows—simply a broad highway across a wide, flat plain.

The courting of that 60-year-old widow with a "past" was an easy affair. She believed Landru to be genuinely attracted by her, and very soon disclosed to him everything—even the distressing fact that her fortune had been lost by speculation since their first meeting at the cafe near the Louvre, and that her only possession of value was the furniture of herself and her daughter, who had recently died.

Within a week of entering possession of "The Hermitage" at Gambais, "Bluebeard" bought in Paris a small, square, portable kitchen stove; the culinary arrangement being too primitive for his liking. And from a local coal dealer he ordered half a ton of coal.

In the first days of December Landru invited Mme. Heon to spend a few days at his country villa, and much can be surmised of his intention by the fact that in his famous note-book the assassin put down on that day the price of one return ticket for himself from Paris to Garancieres—the nearest station for Gambais—from which he had to take the old-fashioned diligence—so out-of-the-world was the place—and one single ticket for his guest!

KILLS WITH GERMS

That same night he gave her for dinner some tangerines which he had previously impregnated with his new and deadly culture secured from Merganti and which he had intended for Mme. Laperte. He had carefully saved several love letters bearing Mme. Heon's signature and had caused her to unwittingly account for her own disappearance by promising her a trip to Tunis, where he told her he had business. She had duly informed her friends of this—as he intended.

From the best evidence obtainable, Mme. Heon became ill and died that same night as a result of the deadly bacilli she had eaten. The next morning Landru appeared at Houdan, where he spent the day. That night he dismembered the old woman's body and burned it in the kitchen stove at the Gambais villa. It was not entirely consumed and what would not burn he buried in the garden, where the remains were later dug up and identified.

At 3 o'clock on the following afternoon he left by the diligence for Garencieres, and using his return ticket he spent that night at home with his wife, pretending that he had been away on business at Arcachon.

Next morning he sold Mme. Heon's furniture at the Rue de Rennes to old Caillard for $61, which was to the villain the value of the poor woman's life. The only thing he kept as souvenir of his victim was an old gray squirrel boa, which was found after his arrest at his garage, much moth-eaten, among other souvenirs of his crimes.

His success at Gambais led him quickly to bolder feats. So keenly alive was he to any pitfall that he fully realized that if he lived entirely alone at "The Hermitage" it might arouse undue interest and comment, so he engaged a half-deaf old woman to come daily from the village, and, in his absence, open the house. When he was there, she was to cook his meals upon that fatal stove and clean up the place.

The very fact of engaging her reveals how cunning and elusive was the rascal. Indeed, his open boast to his friends of the Paris underworld was that he could trick the police and laugh in their faces whenever he liked—as it must be confessed that he actually did, even on the last day of his trial.

Landru's absolute sangfroid was wonderful. Even before he killed Mme. Heon in such a heartless manner, and disposed of her remains so methodically, he had already two fresh victims in view. One was a certain Mme. Buisson, and the other a Mme. Collomb.

He was the more interested in the latter. The disappearance of this lady was a mystery which the Assize Court at Versailles failed to solve, but, in the light of later knowledge, I am able to here reveal the truth for the first time.

IRREGULARS RETREAT LEAVING ONLY RUINS

IRISH TROOPS MEET BUT PASSIVE RESISTANCE IN ADVANCE INTO NORTH

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DUBLIN, July 27.—The warfare against the irregulars seems to have reached a stage of passive resistance if such is possible, for the advance into County Mayo was without resistance and the victors entered towns with their welcomes from the populations dampened only by the burning of important buildings by the retreating forces.

Ballinrobe, Westport and Ballina fell into the hands of the Nationals without a shot being fired by them. However, there are indications of widespread desertion from the ranks of the western irregulars, and their differences have reached such a point that one deserter was executed at Ballina. Later this resulted in shots being exchanged between those irregulars desiring to quit and those wishing to continue the opposition.

The nationals are continuing to advance in Counties Galway and Clare. Their overwhelming the extreme west without battle is not without influence on the chiefs of the irregulars in the south, where the only remaining armed opposition to the government is, and it is not unlikely that this will induce dissension and desertion there, easing the progress of the troops upon the corner from which the rebellious elements have no escape except by the sea or by surrender.

FANNY WARD IMPROVING

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 27.—Fanny Ward is improving, but she is still weak as the result of a broken arm and loss of blood in an internal hemorrhage. Sir Alfred Tripp, the King's physician, said she must remain a-bed for six weeks at least and forbade her removal to Paris.

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, julio 27—Se cree que está próxima la paz, o al menos una tregua, en la huelga ferrocarrilera, después de un día y una noche de conferencias en la Casa Blanca, entre el Presidente Harding, los ejecutivos de ferrocarriles, y los obreros de los talleres.

No ha habido sucesos de importancia en la situación de la huelga carbonera. El Secretario Hoover sigue redondeando los detalles de la organización para racionar el carbón.

Fueron votados por el Senado los derechos sobre manufacturas de lana, tal como los propuso la Comisión de Hacienda.

En audiencia de hoy ante la Subcomisión del Senado fué aprobado por el ex-Procurador General Palmer y por Francis P. Garvan, actual custodio de propiedades extranjeras, y discutido por otros testigos, el proyecto de ley del Senador Underwood que propone la creación de una comisión que decida sobre las reclamaciones americanas contra Alemania.

El Senador McCormick, de Illinois, ha introducido una resolución por la que se permite el regreso a los Estados Unidos de los extranjeros reclutados aquí para el ejército polaco.

La Sra. McCormick Construye un Muro

CHICAGO, julio 27.—Otra cercana subdivisión que está amenazando llevar a cabo una colonia de "bungalows," ha hecho que la Sra. McCormick proyecte la erección de un muro de 16 pies a lo largo de los linderos sur y sureste de su propiedad. Además de eso, ha adquirido veinte acres adyacentes a su terreno. Hace poco que una compañía de bienes raíces dividió en lotes una extensión cercana a la propiedad McCormick, y comenzó una campaña de anuncio.

Obregón ha Mejorado

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, julio 27. Revela mejoría la condición del Presidente Obregón, pues el alta temperatura de los días pasados ha desaparecido casi por completo, según dicen los pedriódicos de hoy, que citan fuentes oficiales. El presidente, que aún se halla en cama, recibió ayer a varios miembros de su gabinete.

NOTAS LOCALES

El Domingo Será la Boda de Pickford.

Las campanas nupciales repicarán el domingo a las dos de la tarde para Jack Pickford y Marilynn Miller, según han dicho los amigos íntimos de la joven pareja. La ceremonia matrimonial tendrá lugar en la casa de Douglas Fairbanks y de su esposa, Mary Pickford.

Será una boda íntima y tranquila, según dijeron ayer algunos miembros de la familia. Solo ésta y unos cuantos amigos asistirán a ella.

Esta Noche se Discutirá la Fusión Ferrocarrilera

Esta noche se celebrará en el auditorio del Union League Club, esquina de Tercera y Hill, un mitin en masa de productores, exportadores, y demás interesados en la controversia relativa al divorcio del Sudpacífico y Pacífico Central. Después del discurso del Sr. Atheran, habrá tribuna libre en el mitin para una discusión general de dicha controversia.

"Ayúdeme Pd. a Morir," le Dice al Doctor

Conduciendo ayer tranquilamente su coche hasta el Hospital de Urgencia, James R. Beeson se tragó media libra de sublimado corrosivo, y suplicó a los internos que le ayudaran a morir.

El Cirujano de Policía Saverinn manifestó que Beeson vería su duda cumplidos sus deseos. Ya para el momento en que éste entrabe al hospital, el veneno había obrado tales efectos, que el hombre no podía hablar.

DEPORTES

Baseball

Vernon le infligió ayer otra derrota a San Francisco en el parque Washington. Los Tigres, con Big Bill James de lanzador, vencieron a las Focas por 2 a 0. Los Angeles dió en el norte una soltada al equipo de Oakland, ganándole por 3 a 0.

Tennis

La Sra. Molla Mallory ganó ayer lugar en la tanda semifinal del campeonato de nones de tennis del Estado de Nueva York, en Rye, Nueva York, venciendo a la Srita. Martha Bayard, de Short Hills, New Jersey, 6-3, 6-2.

La Srita. Louise Hamman, de Kansas City, y la Srita. Jessie Grieve, de Los Angeles, se encontrarán el sábado en Omaha, en las finales de los campeonatos de nones de tennis del Valle del Missouri.

Prácticamente todos los buenos jugadores participarán en el torneo de tennis de invitación que se jugará la próxima semana en Seabright, New Jersey.

Boxeo

Benny Leonard, campeón boxeador ligero del mundo, conservó anoche su título, ganándole por decisión periodística a Lew Tendler, de Filadelfia, en una pelea de doce asaltos, efectuada en Boyle's thirty acres, Ciudad de New Jersey.

Esta noche, en el tablado de Hollywood, Legión Americana, se encontrarán en el número principal Young Brown y Benny Vierra. En el penúltimo número figuran en el programa Dick Griffin y Ad Rubidoux.

HUSBAND IS JEERED AT GIRL'S FUNERAL

BROOKLYN CROWD DELAYS FINAL RITES FOR CO-RESPONDENT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Jeers, cries of "shame, shame," threatening gestures and fierce Yiddish epithets greeted "John the Barber" Reisler on his appearance today at the funeral of his murdered sister-in-law, Bertha Katz, named co-respondent in his wife's separation suit.

Reisler reached the Katz home in Brooklyn shortly after the young woman's body was brought from the morgue. Mrs. Jennie Katz, the victom's mother, stood near the body, waiting when Reisler entered, flashily attired. He strode to the casket and looked down at the face of the girl his wife boasts having murdered. His heavy face grew pasty and his body trembled.

"She was such a good kid," said John the Barber.

As the body was taken to the hearse a great crowd collected in the street and was forced back by police reserves. Mrs. Katz, led out by friends, fainted at the curb. As she swooned, Reisler came out between his sisters. As the trio was about to enter the second car behind the hearse, the fury of the crowd, composed largely of women, broke.

"Shame, shame," shrieked a gray-haired woman, thrusting herself in Reisler's path. One of Reisler's sisters snatched a straw hat from a man close at hand and smashed it in the face of Reisler's accuser. Then she spat full in the woman's face. A riot threatened but the police pushed in and rescued Reisler and his sisters and the short line of cars soon moved in the direction of Washington Cemetery.

Before starting for the funeral Reisler was served with a summons to appear tomorrow before the Brooklyn grand jury investigating the slaying of Bertha Katz. About the same time he was adjudged in contempt of court by Justice Lydon in Supreme Court, Manhattan, for failure to pay his wife $50 a week alimony.

Mrs. Minnie Reisler, John's estranged wife, and her two sons, George and Morris, the latter accused in Miss Katz's antemortem statement of firing the fatal shot, and Mrs. Reisler's brother, Max Katz, are held without bail awaiting the grand jury's action.

The "Mother of Medicine"

Isis, the Queen and afterwards the Goddess, was called the "Mother of Medicine." In ancient Egypt, centuries before Christ, women were skilled in medicine. They knew the great value of medicinal plants.

Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine," many centuries later, knew less of the merit of vegetable drugs than did the women of ancient times.

Lydia E. Pinkham, nearly fifty years ago, gave to women her Vegetable Compound, now known everywhere as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This is a woman's medicine for woman's ailments, prepared from medicinal plants.—[Advertisement.

FLASHES

AGAIN GRIFFITH STAR

STAR-MARSH WILL PLAY LEAD IN "D. W." FEATURE

By Grace Kingsley

If you remember—and how could you forget—the wonderful work of Mae Marsh in D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance," as well as in minor films, you will be delighted to know that this young star is once more to come under the Griffith direction.

It is all settled that Miss Marsh is to play the lead in D. W. Griffith's next picture, work on which is to commence about September 1, according to word just received. The identity of the story is not disclosed.

Miss Marsh at present is in London, where she is starring in a series of pictures, with a salary so plethoric that no English screen actress has ever touched it. She has written me from there, and in order that you won't have a chance to call me stingy, I am imparting that letter to you:

"Just a line from this some little distance to let you know how lovely everything has been going here," writes the star, "and how much I like it. We are working at the Famous Players-Lasky studios, and were it not for the fact that we religiously stop for tea, I could almost imagine that I was in New York, if not Los Angeles. The climate, of course, would bar Los Angeles.

"On the night of my arrival, they tendered me a dinner at the Savoy Hotel, at which the British press, the American Consul and many in the picture business were present. You probably know that British production has improved tremendously in the past year or two, and in point of preparation and financial outlay I am quite sure the picture we are now doing will compare very favorably with the majority of the super pictures in America.

"It happened that 'Intolerance' was revived just as we arrived here, and it is the outstanding hit of the season in London. Imagine that, after its comparative failure here six years ago! On our second night we went to the theater, the audience recognized me, and from that time on they made things interesting, I can assure you. They called for a speech, which I made from the stage in innocent violation of a London ordinance, which forbids speech-making in a motion-picture theater, and afterward they waited for me outside, together with a mob of passersby, who had gathered there unknown to me.

"It took four stalwart London 'bobbies' to help me reach my car, and I felt as though I had been mobbed. Later at Ciro's we saw many Americans, among them Mabel Normand. She has left for Paris, I believe.

"I expect to return by September, and later will either proceed to California or return here. What I have seen of the outlying country is almost as beautiful as Southern California, and succeeds in making me homesick.

"Mr. Arms and Mary join me in extending their warmest regards, and now I must run along. Yours sincerely,

[Signed] "MAE MARSH."

"Affinities" Peachy Comedy

If Ward Lascalle keeps on making comedies like "Affinities," from Mary Roberts Rinehart's amusing story, and which was shown at preview the other day, he's going to carry off all the blue ribbons.

It is not only that the amusing story is as piquantly told in screen terms as Mrs. Rinehart told it in words, but the story is preceded by a prologue of prehistoric affinities that sets the laughs a-going in high. And those subtitles! They are a string of sparklers in themselves.

Some of them were written by Mrs. Rinehart, but a good many of them are from the pen of H. Landers Jackson, who is a young George Ade.

"A woman always rehearses a quarrel with her husband," says one subtitle, "that's why she usually wins." And another, "It's no fun being affinities if we're going to quarrel just like married folks."

"Affinities," as maybe you remember, is all about two sets of married people who get rather tired of their placid happiness, and go out looking for affinities. It so happens that they change partners, go to two different moonlight picnics, find out they would much prefer their original mates, and after many comic mishaps, return chastened to their original partners. One of the funniest incidents climaxes in the discovery by one of the wives that, in her mad rush to escape from the picnic ground after her companions have gone, she has stolen her own automobile, which, after hours of worry and a visit by the police, is returned to her. The direction of Lascalle is clean-cut, swift-moving, and delivers the sprightliest of screen tales.

That astonishingly versatile young actress, Colleen Moore, again makes you feel as though nobody else could possibly have played that young wife except herself. John Bowers, featured with Miss Moore, is the earnest, sincere foil of Miss Moore as the husband, while Joe Bonner rings the bell as Colleen's affinity. Grace Gordon, a newcomer to the screen, plays the role of the other wife with charm and good comedy value.

Miss De La Motte to Star

Marguerite De La Motte is to be starred by J. L. Frothingham, according to word reaching us yesterday. Miss De La Motta has been under contract for some time to Mr. Frothingham, and has developed into a very popular and capable actress. Her first story will be announced shortly.

Halperin Gives Preview

If Will Hays survives until tonight all the entertainment he is being subjected to, he may, if he chooses, take a peek at a new picture made by Halperin Productions and called by the intriguing title of "What Do We Live For?" The picture is to be shown at the Garrick Theater at 8:45 this evening, and a number of notables, including Mayor Cryer, Capt. John D. Fredericks, as well as several clergymen, have been invited to attend.

The story was written by Victor Halperin, and directed by Lloyd Ingraham. The cast includes Carmel Myers, W. P. Carleton, Vernon Steele, Joseph Dowling and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Todd.

Lon Chaney With Schulberg

Lon Chaney yesterday was engaged for the chief role in "Ching, Ching, Chinaman," the first of the series of Tom Forman Productions to be made by B. P. Schulberg at the Prefered Pictures studios under Forman's direction. Chaney will have the role of Yen Sin, an aged laundryman of the New England village in which the Wilbur Daniel Steele story is located.

PUPPETS TONIGHT

Hollywood Community Shows Visiting Novelty

The summer school of theatrical arts now in progress at the Hollywood Community Theater is responsible for the first southern appearance of Grace Barnes's puppets. Tonight and tomorrow two delightful marionette plays will be given at the Hollywood Community Theater—"The Tale of Peter Rabbit" and a "A Puppet Circus." For three years these manikins have been enthralling audiences in the northwest and now come direct from a three weeks' engagement in San Francisco, where they were enthusiastically received.

In California, puppet shows are a real novelty, and this opportunity to see one of the four traveling marionette companies in America will be keenly appreciated by all who are interested in dramatic art.

RARE MUSICAL SCORE

In conjunction with the presentation of the Robertson-Cole special, "In the Name of the Law," the Mission Theater concert orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Dr. Carlos De Mandil, will offer one of those rare musical scores which can only result from weeks of earnest application. Luckily the feature picture was available early enough for exceptional musical scoring, and the result undoubtedly will be gratifying to music lovers.

A feature of the program, however, will be the daily violin concerto to be played by De Mandil. While this gifted musician has in the past delighted with solo renditions of both classical and popular selections, for this occasion Harry David has arranged extra time for Dr. De Mandil so that he will be able to play the entire Sarasate violin concerto "Zigeunerweisen."

PREMIERE AT RIALTO

Rodolph Valentino in Vicente Blasco Ibanez's "Blood and Sand," has its world premiere at Grauman's Rialto next Sunday. "Blood and Sand" is a Fred Niblo production, adapted to the screen by June Mathis, who likewise did for "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." It is a colorful story of the life and loves of a Spanish bullfighter. The part of Gallardo is said to fit Valentino as if made to order. The principal feminine roles are taken by Lila Lee and Nita Naldi, while others in the cast are Walter Long, Leo White, Rose Rosanova, Marie Marstini, Fred Becker, Charles Belcher, Jack Winn, George Periolat, Gilbert Clayton, and Harry Lamont.

RAY FEATURE PRAISED

"A Tailor Made Man," Charles Ray's first release under the same banner with Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, "Doug" Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith, is to have its world premiere at the California Theater on Sunday. This will be the only showing of this production in the country until late in the fall, for its general release is not scheduled until October, but the popular star wanted it shown here ahead of time so that he could see what Los Angeles thinks of what he believes is his greatest effort to date.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Dick Jones, Mack Bennett's production manager, at present directing Ben Turpin in his next special for First National, "The Shriek," had a narrow escape from injury and possible death while shooting scenes in the desert recently. A fractious horse Jones was riding reared and turned a complete back somersault. Only the agility of the director saved him, for he managed to disengage his feet from the stirrups and jump clear.

WILL HELP FINANCE FILMS

That the United studios organization is to assist in the financing of independent producers; that it will aid the producer, wherever necessary, to find a market for his products, and that it will give him the joint benefit of its enormous resources and facilities and its longe experience in the making of many successful productions was the announcement forthcoming from that institution yesterday.

M. C. Levee, president of United, has added to his organization a department of finance, and it is already receiving proposals from producers who eek capital for production purposes.

Both the large and the small producer will be encouraged to submit their requests for monetary aid to United. The plan under which financial support will be advanced, it to be carried out on the live-and-let-live basis, according to Mr. Levee. The invitation to enter into negotiation for production funds will not be confined to the ranks of the producer, but will be open to the director, the star, the player and even the newcomer in the field of production.

The entry of United studios into this new field is said to mark probably the most liberal and equitable encouragement the individual producer has ever had offered to him. In addition to providing him with production funds, United offers what practically amounts to insurance against his usual elements of risk by the strong co-operation with which it fortifies him, it is contended.

BOSTON LIKES CLAIRE

Letter Praises Her Style of Refinement

It takes something to stir Boston, home of beans and culture.

But Claire Windsor has "that something," according to a gentleman who writes from the Hub to congratulate the Goldwyn company upon the acquisition by contract of the beautiful Claire. He welcomes her as "a new face on the screen, after a continuous round of the old ones all winter long. Miss Windsor's style of refinement and repression suits Boston exactly," he continues. "We demand brains with our beauty."

The letter indicates that the enthusiastic writer has made a canvass of Miss Windsor's popularity in Boston, and is not without authority in speaking for the picture-goers of the city.

Players Returning

Mary Miles Minter and Tom Moore will return next week from Wyoming, where, under the direction of Charles Maigne, they and other members of the cast have been making exterior scenes for the Paramount Picture, "The Cowboy and the Lady." This famous play by Clyde Fitch was adapted by Julien Josephson, who wrote the continuity for "The Old Homestead," recently completed under the direction of James Cruze.

REUNITED IN ART

HUGHES AND MAY McAVOY IN SAME CAST

By Edwin Schallert

They are to be reunited once again—May McAvoy and Gareth Hughes. That is, professionally.

You recall that this pair of bright young stars won their original fame together in "Sentimental Tommy," the Paramount version of Sir James M. Barrie's story. That was the only picture in which they both appeared until the present.

Now, however, their artistic destinies are to be linked once again in George Fitzmaurice's picture. "Kick In," taken from the crook play of the same title.

The leading roles in this feature are to be played by Bert Lytell and Betty Compson. Lytell, who made a considerable success of the crook role in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," is to appear as "Chick" Hughes in "Kick In," while Miss Compson is to play Molly Brandon. Miss McAvoy will be Myrtle and Mr. Hughes Bennie.

Others cast for important roles are Kathleen Clifford, Maym Kelso, Walter Long and John Miltern. Ouida Bergere made the adaptation from the Willard Mack play.

Sennett Returns

Having spent several months in the East in the interest of the release and exploitation of his current releases, the principal of which is "Suzanna," in which Mabel Normand is starred, Mack Sennett yesterday returned to this city. This has been one of the longest absences of Mr. Sennett from the Sennett studios, and on his arrival he expressed himself as well satisfied with the results of his stay in the East. The train on which he arrived was delayed and he immediately betook himself to his residence to rest up.

Would Have Art Theater

Irving Pichel, producing director of the Plaza Theater in San Francisco and member of the advisory board of the New York Theater Guild, will stop in Los Angeles on his way East next week to consult with David Allison, architect of the New Friday Morning Club Building, in regard to a complete theater to be incorporated in the structure.

Pichel was formerly connected with the Shubert interests in Los Angeles. His book on the mechanics of the modern stage is well known among theatrical technicians.

"Slippy McGee" Soon

The screen adaptation and production of Oliver Morosco's "Slippy McGee" with Wheeler Oakman and Colleen Moore, directed by Wesley Ruggles, is scheduled for release in the early fall, according to the announcements of First National. Ruggles made most of the picture in Naches, Miss., and enlisted the aid of the society folk of that southern town for his big scenes.

Ruggles is putting the finishing touches on his present directorial effort "The Three-Cornered Kingdom," starring Ethel Clayton for Robertson-Cole.

THREE KEATONS TOGETHER

The "Three Keatons," for years one of the best known vaudeville teams in America, are reunited in Los Angeles, after a separation of five years. And the young man who made it possible for all three to appear together in a motion picture is none other than Eddie Cline, who is directing the frozen-faced one. It appears that when "The Three Keatons"—Father Joseph, Mother Myra and Son Buster—broke up their stage company five years ago, due to Buster entering the films, they had made their final appearance before the public. But in "The Electric House," Keaton's latest film for Associated First National, it was necessary that Buster have a father and mother. "Why not your parents, just for old times sake," Director Cline said. "A corking idea," replied the First National star. So in "The Electric House," which is scheduled for release soon, vaudeville fans, who remember the act, will see Father Joe and Mother Myra playing with their illustrious son.

Market More Optimistic on Labor Outlook

Liberty Bonds Break Into New High Ground

Federal Reserve Ratio Also Sets New Record

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—The advance which occurred in today's stock market and which fairly canceled Wednesday's declines, might appear merely another illustration of the extent to which financial opinion blows alternately hot and cold in its feeling about the labor troubles. What the alternations really mean, however, is that the natural misgiving over the possible effect of the strikes on industrial activities finds itself counterbalanced, whenever it expresses itself, by the prevalent conviction that the disputes are bound to be settled in the near future.

Efforts to adjust the disputes now that industry in general begins to be embarrassed are evident. The pressure on the labor organizations, now that the fortunes of workers in other industries are threatened by prolongation of these strikes, is equally manifest.

Feeling in official Washington, it is true, appears to be despondent; but these are at least considerations to which all past experience lends importance. That the railway shares should have been conspicuous in today's recovery was probably attributable to the rather general impression that the shopmen's strike is actually on the eve of settlement. Substantial recovery occurred, however, in the industrial stocks as well.

On the bond market, the fourth Liberty 4 1-4s went into new high ground and the Victory 4 3-4s added to the advance scored Wednesday after the treasury's refunding announcement. This was the more striking in that the new offering within a 1926 maturity is now known only to bear 4 1-2 per cent, not 4 3-4 per cent interest as incorrectly stated in Wednesday's Washington news dispatches. The prospects for continuance of the easy money which has made these operations practicably might be judged from the weekly Federal reserve statement published this afternoon. While additions of $9,100,000 to the gold holdings brings the cash reserve to much the highest total ever reached, the system's rediscounts both on government and other collateral are reduced $61,000,000 further. They now stand $1,270,000 below the figure of a year ago this week and the system's ratio of reserve to notes and deposits has risen to the highest percentage since May, 1917.

OIL STOCKS HAVE SHARP RECOVERY

A sharp recovery from Wednesday's low levels took place on the oil list on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Union of California scored the greatest gain, advancing 4 to 162 ½. General Petroleum came back 3¾ to 102¾, and Associated was 2¼ higher at 81. Other issues held firm. The volume of sales was comparatively lighter. Mining stocks were fashioning with Consolidated United the only active issue. This stock climbed ½ to 20 cents South. California Edison common closed ¼ off at 108.

Following the closing prices and sales as posted yesterday in the Stock Exchange Building:

WHAT'S BEHIND ACTIVE STOCKS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

International Paper—83¾

The International Paper Company was incorporated in 1898 to acquire and merge nineteen separate paper companies with mills in New York and New England. It also owns outright or controls twenty power, real estate, lumber and machinery companies, mill plant, water powers, woodlands. Investments and advances to subsidiaries were carried at $62,939,000 in the Dec. 31, 1921, balance sheet. On that date the net tangible assets applicable to the $19,915,100 common stock were $219.95 a share after allowing par for the $34,859,288 6 per cent cumulative preferred. At the end of 1921 current assets exceeded current liabilities by $17,253,000. These figures do not apply to the subsidiary companies. The company has a funded debt of $19,671,006.

The common stock has not tried a dividend since the payment of 3 per cent in 1898, although in the ten years ending with 1921, net profits averaged 11.58 per cent annually on the average amount of common outstanding in 1917 the company offered to settle the 32 per cent of accumulated dividends on the preferred with 7¼ per cent in cash, 14 per cent in preferred stock and 12 per cent in common. The holders of all but 12,478 shares accepted the offer. Stock of the acceptors was stamped to distinguish it fro mthe nonaccepting shares. The regular 6 per cent has been paid on the preferred since that settlement.

Range of common stock since 1917: High 81¾ in 1920; low 18¾ in 1917; yesterday's close 83¾.

Have you read the "Business Chances" in today's TIMES?

MOVING IN

Anyone can now easily find VENTURA-TEX'S newest addition to its splendid holdings of fortune-proffering oil land leases. Here's how to see our

SANTA FE SPRINGS 5 ACRES

Drive or take the bus to the Glazier Store and Santa Fe Springs postoffice on the main corner in the town. You can't make a mistake in the location. Look for the big VENTURA-TEX sign on the side of the building. Then follow the road straight south in the direction the arrow on the sign points until you come to the big tent and VENTURA-TEX signs and flags on the property.

Representatives on the Ground

From this time on you will find some of my organization on the SANTA FE SPRINGS ground at all times, and at your service.

Ventura-Tex Hitting Fast Pace

No one of my big family of unitholders—of which I am one of the largest—can be half so impatient for the quickest kind of "action" as I am—for it is true to say that I have the most of any of you at stake—and everything that can be done to hasten the dropping of the drill—here and in Ventura, that can be done with due business prudence—is now in process at top speed.

Look for News of "Derricks," "Boilers," Etc., Any Day

Realize also that one rig is drilling NOW, just across the street from us—drill sites are staked out all about—derricks are erected or being erected everywhere—new wells are coming in right along—that VENTURA-TEX is on the

where it is evident all devplopments are trending—and that famous oil companies own on all sides of us and that as near as it is humanly possible to judge, VENTURA-TEX can hope for a certainty of

10,000 to 16,000 Barrels a Day From Its 4 Wells to Be Drilled Here

then don't wait to buy your units at all—DO IT.

Remember also that your VENTURA-TEX units share in all profits of EVERY kind and nature from ALL of VENTURA-TEX's present or future operations and holdings.

When ONE WELL Is Finished

we—and you—have only begun. You don't have to keep buying into new one-well syndicates when you buy units in VENTURA-TEX. For the reason that each well VENTURA-TEX drills and brings in means MORE money for you and more money for ME, and nothing new in any of it for you to fret about.

No Assessments—No Unitholders Liability—Nothing to Worry About at All

When you have suffered the initial mental pain of deciding to buy units you can cease to worry—for all your care or liability of every kind ceases when you have paid for your units. The rest of it is up to me and to my associates.

BUY YOUR UNITS NOW!

500 units $ 250 — 200 units $ 100

Other amounts in like proportion.

Pay 1-3 cash and balance 1-3 30 days, 1-3 60 days at 6% on unpaid balances, if you wish. Order direct from me or place your subscriptions with your own broker.

BUT DO IT NOW!

All indications point to early over-subscriptions, and right is reserved to reject any or all applications. Subscriptions are being entered and confirmed in the order received. Orders may be wired "collect" and remittance follow by mail, or phoned or placed in person.

Long Beach Moves to Stop Overproduction

First Break in Gasoline Price Occurs

New Cut in Crude May be Made Very Soon

With a third cut in the price of crude impending cheaper gasoline is in sight.

There is no general admission of this contingency on the part of producers or refiners, but dealers and those closely in touch with the chaotic oil price situation at the moment are admitting that such a course is inevitable in the face of continued overproduction.

In fact, the first break is already said to have occurred when several of the smaller, independent supply stations took the "bull by the horns," and voluntarily marked down the price to 22 cents.

A desperate effort, however, is to be made to maintain the price. The situation in its relation to the gasoline market as explained by oil men last night is briefly this:

Gasoline is the one petroleum product for which the demand is greater than the supply and as a result must bear far more than its just share of the costs of the industry. The price in California is already as low or lower than it is generally elsewhere. If a cut does come it will be the result of sharp competition among small refiners and jobbers anxious to undersell each other. Cheaper crude oil may afford them the opportunities they are looking for in this direction. Already there are a few scattered service stations selling under the regular quotations.

PETROLEUM SITUATION

An official effort to head off the growing overproduction of oil due to continued development work in the Signal Hill field is being made by the city authorities of Long Beach. A meeting of all land owners and operators in the field has been called for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Long Beach City Hall "to consider," the official proclamation reads, "the existing overproduction of oil; its obvious disastrous consequences to the industry itself and to all lines of business in our locality, and, if possible, to provide a remedy for the situation."

Exhaustion of the Signal Hill field within a year if the present rate of drilling and production is maintained is predicted in the statement signed by the Mayor, City Manager and City Attorney of the beach community. "The key to the situation is in the control of operations by lessors or land owners in the Long Beach field. Their selfish interests would be best served by the maintenance of a fair price for the crude over a period of years."

The outlook for the oil producer in the near future is a gloomy one. Many predictions were current yesterday that a third cut in crude oil price by the Standard is forthcoming shortly. In addition, many oil men see in the Standard's refusal to make further contracts for the purchase of crude and its recent announcement that hereafter it will only accept as much oil from day to day as the market and its available storage facilities will take care of, a sign that it will soon withdraw entirely from the market for crude.

Historical precedent for such action is found less than twenty years ago when under similar circumstances, the surplus having exceeded the available storage, the Standard stopped buying entirely in certain fields. The Associated was the only buyer in the market and it offered only 12½ cents a barrel.

The first reduction in gas prices as the result of lower crude oil prices was announced by the Railroad Commission this week when it ordered a cut of five to seven cents per 1000 cubic feet in the rates of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. The rates of the Coast Counties Gas and Electric Company were also reduced and further similar readjustments may be expected at any time.

Estimated daily average gross crude oil production increased 24,050 barrels, totaling 1,498,500 barrels for the week ended July 22, compared with 1,474,450 barrels for the previous week, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. California production increased 5000 barrels, totaling 375,000 barrels daily.

According to figures collected by the Institute, the imports of petroleum (crude and refined oils) at the principal United States ports for the week ended July 22, totaled 2,436,584 barrels, a daily average of 348,083 barrels, compared with 2,691,000 barrels, a daily average of 375,857 barrels for the week ended July 15.

P. G. & E. FINANCING

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company applied to the State Railroad Commission yesterday for authority to issue and sell $5,000,000 in first preferred capital stock at not less than $87.50 a share for payments on betterments and improvements.

The company advised the commission that its improvement program in the next year contemplated an outlay of $10,000,000. The principal project is the power system on the Pit River, which the company is completing.

BONDS ARE SOLD

A bid of $7.36 cents on the dollar purchased the issue of $230,000 San Gabriel county water district 5-per cent bonds, due from 1936 to 1950, which was sold yesterday to a syndicate composed of Banks, Huntley & Co. and Freeman, Smith & Camp. The William R. Staats Company was the only other bidder, offering 95 cents on the dollar.

An issue of $45,000 City of San Marino City Hall 6 per cent bonds, due from 1923 to 1952, was awarded to R. H. Moulton & Co. for a premium of $1693.50. Other bids offered were: Frick, Martin & Co., $1406; Blyth, Witter & Co, $140.21, Citizens' National Bank $1027 and the William R. Staats Company, $278.50.

UNION OIL INTEREST

Quarterly interest on the new issue of $10,000,000 Union Oil 6 per cent bonds falls due August 1 and will be payable to holders of interim certificates at the offices of the trustees, and the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank and the Central Union Bank of New York. It was announced yesterday by the William R. Staats Company. Definitive bonds will be ready for delivery some time next month.

TICKER TICKS

More than 700,000 tons of British coal has been ordered for delivery by September 15 in the United States.

Car loadings for the week ended July 15 totaled 860,907 cars, an increase of 142,588 over the previous week.

Average price twenty industrials 94.84, off .85; twenty rails 85.59, off .55.

IN BANKRUPTCY ACTION

Victor Stricker, local dealer in millinery, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday. His debts amount to $4057.35, and his assets, consisting of stock and fixtures, are valued at $2400.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Dog Days Here But the Dogs Don't Bite; Outlook on the Business Situation

BY CHAPIN HALL

The dog days are here, and we find that their bark is worse than their bite. Assuming, of course, that dog days have either bite or bark. If they have not, why, may we rise to inquire, are they called dog days?

It is the season of the year when the precipitate which results from the news chemist's incantations is conspicuous by its absence. A morning's drill through the hot sun to a dozen normal sources of supply elicits the repeated assurance that the boss is on his vacation, and there is "nothing doing anyway."

Yet, in the face of this negative attitude, the business of the community as expressed statistically is remarkably good. There are fewer commitments than in the spring and early summer; fewer than there will be in the fall, but the ordinary affairs of life are going along as smoothly as though two great strikes were not in full swing.

Incoming travel is heavy and it is said in railroad and hotel circles that no appreciable shrinkage of summer tourists is discernible. Texas, Arizona and other "foreign" cars do their considerable part in littering up the streets, while the larger stores are thronged with buyers during the hours their doors are open. Some of the smaller establishments complain of quiet days.

In the farming sections there is a better feeling of constructive optimism than was the case at the corresponding time last summer. Crops are in good shape and prices are firmer.

SILVER LINING

The reviewer, however, about this time every year, is confronted with his old friend status quo, who is sticking tenaciously to the job. Business reports both from local sources and from the country at large are favorable. This is a good sign, because the strike cloud is a menace so long as it remains, and if business continues good in spite of this drag upon the wheels of industrial progress, there is much to anticipate when the cloud is finally dissipated.

Unemployment appears to be steadily diminishing. In Los Angeles there is an oversupply of young men who flock to answer help-wanted advertisements, but observation shows a considerable portion of these to be high-school or college students anxious to corral a few shekels to help carry them through a hard, winter.

A year ago, when almost every writer upon business or economic subjects commenced proclaiming better days, warning was issued from high "authoritative sources" that the "propaganda" would go too far and that a fall from the high estate would eventuate. This has not yet happened, and the propaganda of 1921 has turned into the fact of 1922, so that it may be asserted with authority and confidence that general conditions are better than they have been at any time since 1920. The only thing which mitigates against practical normality are the strikes aforesaid, and even these are rapidly evolving to a position where settlement may be reasonably anticipated.

Here are a few reasons for the statement that business is good: Building continues on a large scale throughout the country. The June automobile output exceeded that of May and the July output will probably maintain the record production. The steel industry is operating at nearly 75 per cent of capacity and orders on the books insure a continuation of or improvement of this output, subject only to a partial failure of coal supplies. The cement and shoe industries register improvement. Export trade shows encouraging increases. Foreign exchange is steadier. Business conditions as reflected by bank clearings show an increase for the country at large of 11.5 per cent. Los Angeles maintains its spotlight white-spot position by showing an increase of around 20 per cent over a given period as compared with last year.

CITY IS GROWING

An excellent criterion indicating the continued growth of the city is found in the constantly expanding business of the chain food supply and the large department stores. Grocery establishments operating a number of stores reveal quite remarkable increases, which can be accounted for at this season of the year only as new business.

Under the cost-of-living head it appears that retail prices have not reflected recent increases in the wholesale cost of some items. The cost-of-living index number has been practically stationary for three months at 154.9. This means that it takes today approximately $1.55 to pay for items of family living expenses which cost $1 in July, 1914. It must be remembered, however, that it is also true that the dollar of today has an increased purchasing value of 30 per cent over the dollar of July, 1914 so that the man whose income has remained stationary since July, 1920, has from the standpoint of purchasing power received a 30 per cent increase.

METAL MARKETS

Market Review

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND, July 27.—The Daily Metal Trade today says further explanation of railroad shipment priority orders made by Secretary Hoover indicates as long as railroads are able to handle all freight offered as at present they will not be hampered. These orders are merely preventive measures to head off car congestion when lake coal begins to move. Sheet mills at Chicago are well filled with third-quarter business and western wire products demand continues great. Pool conditions crimp concrete bar trade and eastern plate mills close. Copper is slow at New York at 14 cents, delivered. Heavy sales of lead appear at 5.40 cents, St. Louis, and higher prices are expected. Tin rises sharply in sympathy with London to 32¾ cents. Zinc reaches 6.05 to 6.10 cents, St. Louis, on good sales and looks like a runaway market.

"Here's a Good Investment"

Trained investors are buying the First Preferred Stock of the Kansas City Power & Light Company. Their study and experience tell them that here is a good investment. You can judge this stock for yourself if you go about it in the right way. Read the important features below, then send for preliminary information which places you under no obligation. The space in the lower corner is for your convenience.

Nature of Business

Generating and distributing electricity for driving power and lighting purposes has become a stabilized industry. This, in the main, is the business of the Kansas City Power & Light Company. About 25 per cent of its revenue is derived from residential customers in Kansas City, Mo., Kansas City, Kan., and smaller towns in the surrounding country. About 50 per cent of its income is obtained from commercial lighting, which includes power used in a variety of industries. The remaining 25 per cent is divided between power sold to municipalities, wholesaled to other utilities and from the company's steam-heating business.

Company's Operations

Franchises are satisfactory and practically perpetual. The company is virtually operating without competition. Properties include 3 stations generating a total of 84,150 k.w., 36 substations, 207 miles of high-tension lines, 1352 miles of distributing lines and 316 miles of underground cable. Company owns coal rights in 7494 acres of valuable coal lands convenient to stations. Supply of coal on hand to last over two months. The demand for company's power is far in excess of production.

Stability of Growth

The population of the territory served has increased in 10 years approximately 30 per cent. In six years from 1915 to 1921 to meet the demand the company more than doubled the amount of power generated and purchased. Since 1919, the generating capacity of the company has been increased more than 250 per cent.

Equity for Safety

The excess of property value after deducting outstanding indebtedness of the company shows a sum equal to approximately $180 per share for this stock. Total value of company's properties is over $32,000,000.

Income for Dividend

The company's surplus earnings before depreciation were equal to four times the dividend requirements on this stock for the year ended May 31, 1922. After depreciation, in the same period of time, the earnings amounted to nearly three times the annual dividend requirements.

Price and Yield

Cumulative dividends of $7 per share per annum are payable quarterly, but at present price of $93.50 per share and accrued dividend, the yield is about 7½ per cent. Stock is redeemable at 110 per share and dividend.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 27. — Stock market prices were uneven in the early part of today's trading, but hardened very generally later under the influence of a demand for the rails and other standard shares.

Initial reactions were again primarily due to the weakness of Mexican seaboard issues, which made new low prices for the current movement on more aggressive selling evidently from professional sources.

Covering of short contracts in transportations was attributed to more encouraging advices respecting strike conditions and figures showing that carloadings at principal terminals had substantially increased.

Steels and other favorites of the industrial division reflected a tentative resumption of bull operations by pools. Extreme gains in these groups ranged from 2 to over 7 points, Crucible rising buoyantly on heavy accumulations.

Utilities also made a good showing, one of the strongest issues being Consolidated Gas, which made a substantial response to the announcement that the stock had been restored to its former 8 per cent annual basis. Sales amounted to 700,000 shares.

Additional railroad reports for June were of a mixed character. In the main, further net gains were shown, but the Atchison system was an exception, increased operating expenses of about $1,700,000 being accompanied by a net decrease of $1,900,000.

Money tendencies were easier, call loans opening at 3½ per cent and holding throughout the session at that figure. In private negotiations demand loans were made at 3 1-4 per cent.

The further collapse of German marks to within a fraction of their low record imparted some irregularity to foreign exchange. Sterling was firm, with French, Italian and Belgian quotations, and nominal changes were shown by most of the neutral countries.

Interest payable January 1 and July 1. Coupon bonds in denominations of $500 and $1000 registerable as to principal only. Callable as a whole, but not in part, except for Sinking Fund, at the option of the Company, on 60 days' notice on any interest date at 105 and interest. Interest payable at Mercantile Trust Company, San Francisco, and Columbia Trust Company, New York, without deduction for any normal Federal Income Tax not exceeding 2% per annum.

Authorized, $5,000,000 — To be presently outstanding, $3,500,000

Bonds in excess of $3,500,000 (this issue) shall be issued only for acquisition of new properties, and then only in amounts not to exceed 66⅔% of the value of the acquired properties, such value to be established by two appraisers, one of whom shall be selected by the Trustee. It is further provided that additional bonds may be issued only when current assets equal at least 200% of the current liabilities, and when earnings for the preceding year are at least three times the interest charges on bonds outstanding, plus bonds to be issued.

MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY, SAN FRANCISCO, Trustee

Business: The Holly Sugar Corporation is one of the large beet sugar companies of the United States, and as successor to the Holly Sugar Company has been in successful operation since 1905. It owns or controls through subsidiaries seven modern fully equipped sugar mills located in the States of California, Colorado and Wyoming, with a present annual output of approximately 1,000,000 bags of refined sugar. The management of the Company has been nationally recognized as of the best.

Security: These bonds are secured by a first mortgage on all the physical properties of the Holly Sugar Corporation now owned or hereafter acquired, and constitute its only funded debt. They are additionally secured by deposit of all stocks of subsidiary companies owned by the Holly Sugar Corporation. No mortgage can be placed on the properties of these subsidiaries while any part of this issue is outstanding.

Assets: After giving effect to present financing, as of June 30, 1922, the Corporation showed total tangible assets in excess of $12,000,000. As of the same date current assets amounted to $3,321,663.18 against current liabilities of but $283,138.59, or a ratio of more than 11 to 1.

Earnings: For the 10 years ended March 31, 1922, the net earnings of the Corporation applicable to taxes and interest have averaged $1,142,000 per annum or over 4½ times the maximum interest requirements on this issue. This average of $1,142,000 is after liberal depreciation charges and includes the net loss for the last fiscal year of $1,245,000, which was due almost entirely to a full inventory readjustment to date of statement.

Sinking Fund: A sinking fund has been provided which shall be payable semi-annually beginning July 1, 1924, and which shall be in the annual amount of $200,000 plus an amount equal to the total amount of cash distributed to the common stockholders, in the preceding 12 months. The fund is to operate to retire bonds up to 105 by buying in the open market or by calling by lot at 105.

Purpose of Issue: Proceeds of these bonds will be used to retire the Company's current indebtedness and to provide additional working capital.

We offer the above bonds when, as and if issued.

Federal Reserve Bank Reports on State

Business Improves in All California Sections

Unemployment Conditions Asserted Good

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Wholesale and retail sales of merchandise are increasing and "involuntary unemployment" has practically disappeared in the Twelfth Federal Reserve District, according to the monthly summary of business conditions made public here today by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Production of lumber and copper is greater than at this time last year, the bank says, and although grain crops suffered by unusually dry weather in June fruit prospects have improved and the peach and pear crops in California will be larger than last year. Bank credit is reported as continuing abundant and cheaper. The report says in part:

REPORT IN PART

"Indications of increasing business activity in this district, which first appeared during April and May, have multiplied during June. Prices of the principal products of the district have either remained firm or advanced slightly, reflecting similar tendencies in national prices. The United States Bureau of Labor's wholesale price index which increased 3½ per cent during May advanced 1.5 per cent during June, and is now 8.5 per cent above the low point of January, 1922. Charges to individual accounts of depositors in banks of the twenty principal cities were 5.6 per cent greater in amount than in June, 1921.

"Sales of thirty-two representative department stores for the second consecutive month were greater in dollar value than they were in the same month of 1921, the increase of June, 1922, over June, 1921, being 3 per cent. As average retail prices have changed but little during this period, the physical volume of merchandise now moving at retail is evidently increasing. At wholesale also, the same condition prevails. Of the ten reporting lines of trade, nine advise that the dollar value of their sales for June, 1922, exceeded those of June, 1921.

"Employment has increased throughout the district so generally that involuntary unemployment has practically disappeared. A wage increase in the lumber industry of approximately 10 per cent occurred during the month. It is the first increase since the business recession began in 1920. With the exception of San Francisco, the principal manufacturing cities of the district report steady increases in the number of men employed each month, and substantial increase of manufacturing activity as compared with June, 1921. An unfavorable aspect of the business situation is the increasing number of business failures reported.

"Productive activity also continues to increase. Lumber and log production during June exceeded the figures of the previous months of the year, and were 50 per cent and 20 per cent, respectively, in excess of output in June, 1921. Of the seventeen copper mines of the district, eight are now operating, compared with two a year ago, and their May, 1922, output of 23,613,000 pounds of copper was nearly 1,000,000 pounds larger than the April, 1922, output.

"Petroleum production during June was less than 1 per cent smaller than the record output of the preceding month, and stocks of crude oil continued to increase to 43,500,000 barrels, being on June 30, 46 per cent in excess of stocks held a year ago. On July 15, a reduction of approximately 25 cents per barrel in crude oil prices was announced, the first change since the reduction of 25 cents per barrel in August, 1921. Gasoline stocks on May 31, 1922, had declined 14.3 per cent during the month, and were 18.6 per cent less than they were a year ago, on May 31, 1921. Building activity during June was exceeded only during April.

JUNE DRY MONTH

"The grain crops of the district have suffered on account of unusually dry weather during June, and the total wheat yield is now estimated at 103,311,000 bushels compared with a final yield of 122,000,000 bushels during 1921. The hot weather has been unfavorable also to the growth of forage crops and pastures in the livestock areas of the district, but the condition of the stock in most sections is still reported good.

"Warm weather, which damaged the grain crops and pastures of the district, was beneficial for crops of ripening fruit. Yields of peaches and pears generally and other commercial fruits in California, will be almost without exception larger than they were last year. Shipments of green fruits to eastern markets are proceeding normally. Fruit canners in California are planning a 1922 pack which will be about 15 to 20 per cent larger than the pack of 5,500,000 cases in 1921, with opening prices, announced early in July, slightly higher than the prices quoted for that pack.

"Nothwithstanding the increasing activity of production and business, bank credit generally continues to be abundant and cheaper. Prevailing interest rates charged by the banks in the larger centers are 5½ to 6 per cent, and in the agricultural regions decreased slightly during June. Effective July 8, the rediscount date of this bank was reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent for all classes of paper. A temporary increase in borrowings by the city banks from the reserve bank attending the closing of the fiscal year on June 30 was almost cancelled by July 12, total rediscounts of this bank on that date being $42,000,000 compared with a total of $400,000,000 on June 14. Despite the increase in agricultural activity at this season throughout the district, repayments by county banks of their rediscounts with reserve bank in general continued to exceed their new borrowings."

BOND QUOTATIONS

Foreign Bonds Dull

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Slow money rates caused further active buying of government war flotations in today's bond market, small gains being registered by most of the active issues. Fourth Liberty 4¼s touched $101.30, a new high, but reacted later, closing at $101.70.

International loans were dull and showed nominal changes. Japanese First 4s, losers of ½ and Small government 5s fell to par, a new low for the year and 5 points under their high quotation for this year.

Seaboard Air Line 6s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Northern Pacific refunding 6s, Atchison general 4s and two of the St. Paul issues showed strength.

Consolidated Gas 7s responded to the increased dividend rate by the common stock. Several of the foreign and domestic oil bonds were firm to strong but Market Street Railway consolidated 5s eased. Total sales (par value) were $18,300,000.

Hawaiian - American Company Buys Nine Vessels

Will Establish Line from Baltimore

Another Run Reaches Mobile and New Orleans

The American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, through its local agents, McCormick, McPherson & Lapham, announces the addition of nine new steamers to its intercoastal fleet. These vessels will operate fortnightly from Baltimore, Md., to Los Angeles, commencing August 19 with the steamship Georgian. They also announce monthly service from Mobile and New Orleans to Los Angeles, first steamer being the steamship Sudbury from Mobile August 19 and from New Orleans August 26.

The growing business of Los Angeles and its harbor caused the company to inaugurate weekly service from Philadelphia in addition to its weekly schedule from Boston and New York, local officers stated.

The Harbor Commission has assigned berths 175 and 176 at the inner harbor at Wilmington to McCormick, McPherson & Lapham, where extensive new docks will be constructed commencing at once.

"Our harbor department is doing its best to provide facilities for the rapidly increasing steamship business from this port," said W. S. McPherson, who has just left for San Francisco for a conference with the American-Hawaiian officials. "Almost before these facilities are built the business has again outgrown them" he continued.

"The intercoastal rate war continues unabated and although the freight rates are now below the level of profit, the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company has confidence in the future and will place its entire fleet in position for Pacific Coast service to take proper care of Los Angeles business," said Mr. McPherson.

War Engineers Favor Subway or High Bridge

Construction of either a high-lever fixed type bridge or subway is favored by the War Department to give direct connection between San Pedro and the Terminal Island industrial districts. Maj. E. D. Ardery, United States district engineer for Southern California, told the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce yesterday that construction of a bascule bridge or draw span would be inadvisable across the main channel.

Maj. Ardery estimated that the fixed type bridge could be built, with approaches not steeper than 6 per cent, with a total length of the bridge and approaches of 6,000 feet. The subway, he said, could be constructed with shorter approaches and at a smaller cost.

Work on construction of the combined railroad and highway bridge across the main channel at Wilmington is already under way by the harbor department approaches for a bridge of the bascule type being near completion.

TERMINAL WORK TO START

Union Pacific Will First Build Steel Transit Shed at San Pedro Which Will Cost $1,000,000

Construction of the first unit of the Union Pacific's $10,000,000 terminal at Los Angeles Harbor will start within the next month. The last obstacle holding up completion on the first of the four 1100-foot slips was removed yesterday when the Harbor Commission ordered the first transit shed built of steel.

Bids are being advertised for construction of the shed, to be the largest in the harbor and which is expected to cost $1,000,000. Harbor Engineer J. W. Ludlow announced last night that the shed will be of steel throughout and will be built on the latest designs to facilitate the handling of incoming and outbound cargoes.

Eight hundred and fifty feet in length with a width of 120 feet, the monster shed will go up on the south side of the first Union Pacific slip, directly north of the East San Pedro ferry landing. As soon as the first shed is completed next March, Engineer Ludlow announces, similar structures will be built on the pier-head end and north side of the slip following the completion of the wharves.

Work is also to be started immediately on the new wharf at the south end of the slip controlled by the San Pedro Lumber Company, the pier to be of open type and costing $96,000. The San Pedro Lumber Company will retain the 300 feet on the north end of its lease, where it will also construct a wharf of a design similar to that to be built by the harbor department.

Within the next month the McCormick Lumber Company will dock its first steamer at its $500,000 terminal just completed in the east basin. Immediately thereafter, officials of the company announce, the yards and facilities of the concern now located at the outer harbor will be moved to the new site at Wilmington. Construction of lumber and planing mills costing more than $3,500,000 will be completed within the next year on the site.

Arrests Her Own Husband for Neglect

Twenty-three-year-old Mrs. Dolly Stone proved last night that she was the "better half" in her house at 927 South Olive street.

Yesterday she got out a warrant for the arrest of her husband, Ray Stone, aged 27, for failure to provide for herself and 17-month-old baby.

Last night she called the Sheriff's office. "Come down to the house and get him; he's home," she said.

Deputy Sheriff Hotz gave the address to an officer.

Just then the phone rang again. "Never mind," said Mrs. Stone. "I've just arrested him and I'll bring him in myself."

She did. Mrs. Stone is five feet tall and weighs—well not so much. Her husband is six feet tall.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TACOMA, July 27.—That the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company will increase their sailings and go into Gulf ports was the statement received today by the Baker Dock Company from Williams & Dimond, Pacific Coast agents of this steamship line and sent to W. C. Dawson Company, Puget Sound agents of the line. The Baker Dock Company are Tacoma agents.

The reports received state the American-Hawaiian Lines are adding nine additional steamers to the trade, which it is believed will give this company about seventeen vessels in the intercoastal trade. Agents have been placed at New Orleans, Baltimore and Mobile, and with the service given by the line it is said that shippers can depend upon a regular schedule of sailings.

The company will have a fortnightly sailing from Baltimore, commencing with the Georgian on August 19, and a monthly sailing from the Gulf, commencing with the Sudbury, a shipping Board vessel. The Sudbury will sail from Mobile August 19, and from New Orleans August 26. The Mobile agents will be Page & Jones, while the interests of the line will be looked after in New Orleans by Richard, Myers & Co. The Baltimore office is in the Maryland Building.

Friday two of the big ships of the Admiral fleet are due at Tacoma to take cargo for Coast and oriental ports. The Admiral Line, as agents for the Newton Line, will have the Brush in on Sunday to load a big lot of general freight for the Atlantic coast.

Friday the steamship President Madison is scheduled to berth at the Puget Sound Flour Mill to load flour for the Orient. The vessel will also take cargo from the Tacoma Smelter as a part of her outward cargo from here, and possibly other cargo will go on board the vessel from here.

The Dorothy Alexander, from California ports, is due at the Commercial dock to load and discharge general cargo. This vessel has a large amount of inbound cargo and a nice assortment of freight out this trip.

To load cargo for the East coast, the Middle City, from Indian Idol ports, is due at the dock this morning from New York, via ports. The vessel is taking coarse here.

At the Tacoma dock, the Mukilteo is due Friday from California ports with a large amount of miscellaneous freight for local discharge. The Stanwood is following the Mukilteo up the coast and should be in Saturday. The Stanwood will load lumber at local mills for Los Angeles.

The Holland-American liner Rotterdam shifted to the Terminal dock this morning to load grain, lumber and other freight for Europe. The vessel was expected to sail during the evening for Rotterdam, via ports.

VICTORIA, July 27.—With more than a million gallons of crude oil, the Union tanker La Habra, Capt. Knudsen, has arrived from Los Angeles.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha freighter Alabama Maru and the French liner Texas cleared for the Orient and European ports, respectively.

The new Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia sails early tomorrow on her maiden trip to the Orient with 150 saloon passengers, 200 second-class travelers and a heavy cargo. Capt. S. Robinson is commander.

A umbrella settlement has reached between the crew of the Niagara and the Canadian-Australian Line. The crew was leaving Seattle for Nanaimo today, and it is hoped to have the Wallowata in Vancouver tomorrow to complete for the Antipodes.

COOS BAY, July 27.—The steamer Johanna Smith arrived last night from San Francisco and sailed south tonight with a lumber cargo loaded at the Electric dock.

The steamer Martha Buchaer was an arrival this morning from San Francisco. She is loading lumber.

The cargo for the steamer Willapa is being lightered to the lower bay and there is loaded. The lumber is being shipped by the Bay Park Lumber Company.

The new Smith steel lumber carrier, Cottonplant, now being loaded, will transport her cargoes in the company's manufacturing plant at Bay Point, Cal., while the C. A. Smith is expected to be placed permanently on the run to Los Angeles.

ASTORIA, Ore., July 27.—The steamer Walter A. Luckenbach shifted this morning from Portland to Westport, where she is loading 800,000 feet of lumber. Tomorrow evening the City will shift here and take on 5000 cases of canned salmon for New York, via ports. The steamer Ohioan will also be due at the terminal tomorrow night and expects to load 8000 cases of salmon for Boston, while the steamer Bandon is to load canned goods and shingles tonight for New York. On Saturday the British steamer Canadian Farmer will be here from Queen Cove, B. C., to discharge 500 tons of wood pulp for reshipment to Canada.

The steamer Brush with a part cargo of general merchandise from Portland and 5000 cases of canned salmon from Astoria sailed this morning for New York and Philadelphia, via Seattle.

The steam schooner C. C. Lindstrom finished loading 295,000 feet of lumber today at Warrenton and sailed for San Francisco.

The French steamer Texas arrived today from Vancouver, B. C., and will load 1,000,000 feet of lumber at Portland.

The steamer Mauna will be due tonight from Puget Sound and will load flour at Astoria and Portland for the West Coast of South America.

PORTLAND, July 27.—W. J. Taylor of New York, owner of the schooners Fir Thomas Lipton and William Taylor, is en route here from New York, according to advices received here today. He also will visit Victoria, B. C. His schooners operate in the Pacific trade and are represented here by the Columbia Pacific shipping Company.

Local ship brokers said today that ship owners and grain exporters differ by two shillings as to what the rate ought to be for wheat from the Northwest to Europe at present. Offers of 25 shillings are made, but operators are demanding 27 shillings.

Repairs to the steamer West Kader will be completed at Manila within the next few days and she will proceed to Iloilo to load copra for Portland, according to cable advices received here. The West Kader lost her rudder when she grounded in the Straits of Panay a few days ago.

With passengers and cargo from San Francisco, the steamer Rose City arrived today.

The steamer Georgina Smith went to Vancouver, Wash., today to load part of her lumber cargo for San Pedro.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—J. G. Stubbs of the Java Pacific Line will represent the San Francisco Bureau of the Pacific Westbound Conference at the Seattle parley today looking toward settlement of the trans-Pacific rate war. Local operators are confident that the end of hostilities is in sight. The tonnage out of Pacific Coast ports has been increasing steadily until only two or three companies in oriental trade are able to book freight for August, it is reported.

San Francisco operators believe that with the increase in business out of Seattle, Portland and Vancouver, as well as this port, the rate war will come to an end before August 1.

The steamer Enterprise, veteran of the Nitrate Corporation fleet, was towed to pier 20 from Hunter's Point dry dock today after a standing and changes to her propeller. She will leave Salunday, August 2, for Iquique with two hundred and eighth voyage. Since entering the service she has navigated a distance equal to forty times around the world. She was built forty years ago at Newcastle.

Shortly Barry have been allocated the steamers Pastores and Marianne, it was announced here today. These two vessels will replace two freighters sold to the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Steamship Company. The vessels are operated by Struthers & Barry for the Shipping Board in the trans-Pacific trade. Both are WTZB-ton ships.

SEATTLE, July 27.—The steamship Sarpedon, Malta, inaugurating the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's intercoastal service, is to sail from New York for Seattle August 5. This will restore a service interrupted nearly seventy years ago. In 1848 the company was running steamers to Puget Sound from New York and began to call at North Pacific ports when gold was discovered in California.

R. E. Bontempertz, resident agent for W. R. Grace & Co., today announced that his firm would handle the Pacific Mail business on Puget Sound. The Santa Malta is to be followed by the Santa Clara, sailing August 20, the Santa Paula, about September 17, and the Santa Rosa, about October 4. The Santa Clara was formerly operated in the intercoastal trade by Grace & Co.

W. C. Dawson & Co., Seattle agents for the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, a subsidiary of the United American Lines, today announced initiation of a service to include calls at ports on the Gulf of Mexico. This innovation is made possible by the addition of nine vessels to the present service, making this port.

Lewis Luckenbach, formerly in charge of the hydrographic office here, today announced suspension of the radio compass stations at Tatoosh Island and Destruction Island, pending recalibration, which is expected to take two weeks.

PORT TOWNSEND, July 27.—Forty-three days from Shanghai, the barkentine Anne Comyn, arrived in the harbor today. The Comyn took pilot off Gray's Harbor. Nearing this port she collided in a fog with a tug towing a large, scratching her paint.

PORT NOTES

On here first call here in nearly a year, the W. R. Grace passenger liner Colusa arrived yesterday with twenty cabin passengers from Callao for this port and 12,500 tons of nitrates from Iriga.

Forty-four thousand cases of canned cherries, peaches and apricots and 500 tons of honey were taken out of Los Angeles Harbor last night by the steamer Dollar. The Dollar liner will be sailed for London and Liverpool. The shipment, 100 per cent Southern California, is the biggest single shipment of fruit ever loaded in the United Kingdom from the Pacific Coast.

Five carloads of copper bullion were loaded on the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific liner Cape Henry here yesterday for Norfolk. The big freighter also took on 300 tons of grain hops from Death Valley when she sailed for the East Coast yesterday. Today her sister ship, the Henry S. Grove, will arrive from New York and Philadelphia with 2500 tons of steel products and general cargo for Los Angeles.

When the express liner Harvard arrives from San Francisco next Tuesday she will have a new skipper on the bridge, Capt. Arthur Leaf, well known on the Coast as master of the Mahony liner Santa Inez. He will relieve Capt. Harry Lester, who will return to New York as first officer under Capt. Hans Folsen. Relieving Capt. Leaf will be R. Anderson, now first officer of the Santa Rita.

The largest passenger liner ever to enter the port of Los Angeles is due here December 6 on her maiden voyage around the world. She is the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia, sister ship of the Empress of India, which arrived here in 1913, when the liner Cleveland was here.

The Lacosta will sail from New York November 21, arriving in various ports and thence to Los Angeles, via the Canal. From here she will proceed to San Francisco, Hawaii and the Far East, reaching Los Angeles January 10.

The Lacosta is an oil-burning vessel of 20,000 tons and has only been in service since last May. A daughter of Capt. Leaf, who is skipper of the Thomas Cook & Son, will cruise to all world ports and home to Los Angeles on a world cruise, via San Francisco, reaching here next May.

Struthers & Barry, Inc., has added two more vessels to its fleet of freighters in oriental service, plying out of Los Angeles Harbor. They are the Shipping Board steamers Pawtet and Mondamin, now laid up at Portland, and are due here to load for the Far East within the next month.

FOR SALE—PERSONALITY—INDIVIDUALITY—DISTINCTION.

Three words of meaning that are rightfully used in describing what I know to be the BEST BUNGALOW BUY presented to the fastidious home seeker.

I use the word "personality" because the surroundings create an atmosphere of cheerfulness—"Individuality" because it is in a class of its own—"distinction" because it is distinctly different and has an air of refinement that attracts attention, both in exterior and interior.

Normally priced, it contains all the characteristics that typify a home of quality. A magnificent view of the mountains which can never be obstructed; situated on high ground. Lot 50x1, frontage; lawn containing sprinkler system, both front and rear.

Living-room has cathedral ceiling and is finished in ivory oil on canvas Tiffany shading. Woodwork of mahogany. Three bedrooms, one and the average in size and grandeur.

Must be seen to be appreciated, and I will gladly show it to those who are really in the market for a home of this caliber.

Sight-seers are requested to entertain themselves elsewhere!

FOR SALE—Eight frame stores and old bungalow, corner 23rd and Union. 105x170. Present income $5100 per year. About three years' lease. Income after January 1, $7620 per year. Ground values of lot alone at very lowest figure is $250 per foot, and will be worth double even year from today. Union square is waking up. The old timers there are simply astonished at the real-estate developments of the last few months. The wise men from the East searching for velvet have got hold of some of the oldest, luckiest pieces in the past six months, and money from downtown is now flowing toward Union square. Union square is the largest, quickest and finest turn-over of profit business in this entire city, and the bursting of six months ago are very, very severe. I have this one lot, and it's a bargain for the price, conditions and terms exists on the night of August 14. I have this for absolute cash-and-sale, and can deliver it until that date for $55,000. Remember the price, and don't waste your time or mine short of cash or worth-while. Reasons for this sale are legitimate and no advertised bunk. This is tried and shoulders my own affairs. Investment buy in this city, and is far beyond your highest ideal of imagination. Remember, this property can be delivered only until August 15. Real estate men, pay strict attention to this and have the courtesy to refrain from bothering my owners. Reserve extended and co-operation with any real estate men more price. R. H. Malone, 8201 W. OFFER BLOOD FOR WOUNDED

Employees at Walter Reed Cheerful Donors

Ask No Reward to Help ex-Service Men

Long List Always Ready for Doctor's Choice

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Walter Reed General Hospital, here, at which many wounded veterans of the World War have been restored to health, and at which there are still many patients, boasts of the strangest roster in the Army service. It is a list of men, hospital attendants, who are not only willing, but anxious, to give of their blood to those of their comrades who can be cured only by having injected in their veins the healthy red blood of a strong man.

WILLING TO GIVE

There is a long list of these men, usually not less than fifty, who have signified their willingness to give a pint or more of their rich blood to strengthen weakening soldier patients, and hardly a day passes, doctors say, but what there is a call for a transfusion.

When the physicians decide an ailing patient is in need of new blood, a specimen of his is tested to determine which of the four classes of human blood he possesses. The test is then compared with those of the listed men, who have been previously examined, to find one that "matches" the patient's. There are usually a number of each type on the list and transfusion is quickly accomplished.

The men who volunteer for the transfusion are chosen among the clerks, ambulance drivers, special police, and others on active duty at the hospital. Of the 500 men there, it is said, more than half have given blood.

ASK NO REWARD

Although elsewhere there is always a high premium paid to the donor of blood for transfusion, these men ask for no payment, their only reward is a ten days' leave to recuperate, for the operation, especially if more than a pint is given, is very weakening on the system. For that reason only the strongest and healthiest men are picked.

No man is permitted to give his blood twice within two months, but as often as there are calls for the service, there are always plenty of volunteers to keep the list full.

Milk Can Hits Mark; Hurler Goes to Jail

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, July 27.—Four stitches were taken yesterday in the head of E. L. Dodds, Venice contractor and recently unsuccessful candidate for City Trustee.fi About the same time Detective Heffron and Officer Kline arrested Charles A. Smith, proprietor of the Strand Cafeteria, on a warrant charging assault and battery.

An altercation between Dodds and L. Sargent, salesman for a wholesale grocery concern, preceded the above developments. Dodds started the argument in the cafeteria, according to Smith and finally Smith ordered him to leave. Dodds demurred.

"Then I just naturally ejected him," declared Smith later. "When Dodds picked himself up from the sidewalk he opened up his pen knife and—"

And so Smith seized an empty milk can and burled it at the Dodds countenance.

He didn't miss.

The four stiches resulted.

So did the arrest.

Five-Year-Old Girl is Sought; Man Suspected

Officers from the Police Juvenile Department last night sought for 5-year-old Margaret Peres, 105 Elmira street, reported by her mother, Mrs. Anna Perez, to have been kidnaped by a stranger on Wednesday.

Mrs. Perez suspects, according to her story, to Mrs. Bowan of the juvenile department, a man who rented an apartment close to the Perez home, and who attempted to make friends with the neighborhood children.

The little girl was dressed in a pink and white checked gingham dress, with white cuffs and collar. She wore no shoes or stockings.

Grants Divorce to Daughter of Indian's Leader

Charging that her husband, Langdon Smith, deserted her November 30, 1919, Juanita Smith was granted a divorce by Judge Summerfield yesterday. Mrs. Smith stated she is the daughter of the governor of the five civilized tribes of Indians in Oklahoma. She was married February 5, 1918. Atty W. I. Gilbert represented Mrs. Smith.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY TO ADJOURN TODAY

The Federal grand jury will meet today for the last time until September, the local Federal courts being in vacation during the entire month of August.

There will be no report on the case of Morris Orsatti and J. R. Johnson, charged with attempting to bribe a prohibition enforcement officer until the convening of the grand jury for the fall work in September. The proposed indictment to be offered the grand jury in this case promises to be voluminous.

Saturday night the travelers will stop at one of the Cuyamaca Mountain resorts and Sunday at Palomar.

POSTOFFICE PLUNDER IS RECOVERED

Cowboys Near Topanga Find Partly Smashed Box Containing Bonds

Several thousand dollars in stocks and bonds and more than $500 in checks, stolen from the Bellflower postoffice when that place was robbed last February, were recovered yesterday when cowboys on the Cooper ranch, near the mouth of Topanga Canyon, found a partially demolished safe deposit box.

The bandits had opened one side of the receptacle, which contained two compartments, and apparently thinking they had emptied it, threw it away.

Clarence Ditman, Wallace J. Willett and "Red" Steeb were the finders. They turned over the safe-deposit box to Deputy Sheriff Hotz last night. The deputy notified Postmaster C. S. Thompson of Bellflower. Just how much of the valuables taken in the robbery was recovered will not be known until an official check of the stocks and bonds are made.

DEPUTY TO WED

J. P. Kerrigan, a deputy in the office of U. S. Marshal Sittel, will join the army of the benedicts on August 3, when he is to marry Miss Alma Tuenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tuenger, 360 West Avenue Fifty-one. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Father Mullen, at St. Ignatius Church. Young Kerrigan served during the World War, enlisting in Ohio. That State has just paid its sons a bonus of $10 a month, and Kerrigan was yesterday in receipt of a check for $89.33.

"HELP ME DIE," PLEA TO DOCTOR

Rancher Swallows Poison in Front of Hospital; Recovery Doubtful

Driving calmly up to the curbing in front of the Receiving Hospital late yesterday, James R. Beeson, a Lankershim rancher, broke open a paper sack, swallowed the contents, half of a pound of corrosive sublimate, then stepped into the hospital and asked the internes to help him die.

Police Surgeon Saverien who immediately sought to aid the stricken man, stated that Beeson would undoubtedly obtain his wish. The rancher, according to the doctor, had swallowed practically the whole half pound.

By the time that Beeson had alighted from his automobile and entered the hospital the poison had taken such effect that the man was unable to speak after he gasped, "I want to die. Please help me."

From information obtainable at the time it was not thought that Beeson has a family. Because of the man's apparent sickly condition it was believed that illness was the cause for his attempt to end his life.

A note found in Beeson's pockets read:

"Although I have tried to do my duty as far as I was able to interpret. Life is unbearable at this time. Please remember we all crave the benefit of the doubt.

"Good-by,

[Signed] "J. R. BEESON,
"Lankershim.

"To my family: Please be submissive to the powers that be."

JUDGE HOLDS LEGACY IN COURT TEST VALID

The will of the late Charles A. Parkinson, bequeathing an estate valued at $30,000 to Ida J. Parkinson, a relative, was declared valid by Judge Vicini, sitting in Department Six, yesterday. Jessie Guiltoz, a daughter of the decedent, attempted to break the will on the ground that her father had been influenced by Ida J. Parkinson. Mrs. Guiltoz and her two sons were bequeathed $500 each.

Four Soldiers of Sawtelle Run Amuck

Getting Soused, They Soon Are Out of Luck

They Wreck the Home and Then in Jail Are Stuck

Four jolly World War veterans—all residents of the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle—moved into the County Jail yesterday for a thirty-day sojourn. A fifth companion in hiccoughs, William Jones, is being held pending sentence.

The jolly four answer at roll call to the names of T. Sullivan, J. Carroll, C. Benham and S. Sullivan. Monday night they and Jones went forth to rediscover the glory that was America before it became Sahara. The more they searched the happier they became.

SEEK VOLSTEAD

Finally, some time after midnight, they set out to find Volstead.

"I know where there are some chicken plumes," gushed one disabled vet. "We'll knock the tar out of Vol and then we'll feather him."

"An' then we'll hang him to a prune tree," gurgled another.

While looking for the Volstead guy the merry vets came upon some Sawtelle policemen. The latter exhibited their stars to prove that they weren't Congressmen and then escorted the former doughboyah to the Soldiers' Home. There they were placed in nawsty durance by William J. Logan, head of the guard.

But this dismayed the jolly vets notatall.

GUARD HOUSE IS NAMED

"Le's play the guard house is Volstead," came the suggestion from one. A whoopee of approval seconded his motion, and immeadiately they started on the windows.

For an hour and a half the reception lasted. Volstead, as represented by sundry panes, was broken into little bits. Volstead, as seen in the lighting and plumbing fixtures, found himself suddenly dismembered. Volstead, reposing in the guard-house cots, was drawn and quartered.

Then the cops returned and the victorious five were rushed to the police station. They were tired but contented.

"Shay," they told the turnkey just before retiring, "if you run into this Volstead bird's wife just tell her she's a widow."

Yesterday's sentences were the sequel to the "murder."

REFUSED TO COOK

Charging that after twenty-four years his wife refused to get his meals and that it was necessary for him to go to work hungry, Joseph C. Reget yesterday brought suit for divorce against Mrs. Louise Reget. Besides the meals, Mr. Reget charges that his wife refused to go to a show with him.

MYSTERY MAN IN DRUNK TANK

Arrest Everington Shadow in Street Struggle

Carries Investigator's Card With Him

Morals Official Denies Any Knowledge of Affair

There is a mystery in the drunk tank at the City Jail.

It hovers closely about the form of G. H. Lewis, arrested Wednesday night for an asserted attack on a colored woman.

Lewis's age is 31 years, but beyond that information, readily given by the prisoner, investigating officers have been able to learn little.

However, clews are not lacking, and Lieut. Gifford and Officer Hodges, in charge of the case, have hopes that they may some day, with the help of the Police Commission and the Morals Efficiency Commission, solve the riddle.

The prisoner is not unknown to the police department. In fact, he appeared about Central Station during the Everington administration, and although some mystery was even then attached to his occupation, it soon was rumored about that he was a "special investigator," for the Morals Efficiency Commission and Police Commissioner C. A. De Coo.

BATTLING NEGRESS

Wednesday night, however, when Detective Sergeants Schofield and Craig, found Lewis in a furious struggle on West Eleventh street near Olive with a negro woman, both combatants were brought to jail. When Emma Griffin, the colored woman, made a written statement that Lewis had made improper proposals to her and had attacked her with his fists when she refused to accede to them, Officers Hoy and Johnson locked him up, pending an investigation. Lewis was specifically charged with being drunk and with suspicion of a felony.

Yesterday, however, when investigators tried to find out just what connection Lewis had with the police department they ran into difficulties, in spite of the fact that the prisoner was carrying a patrolman's badge, No. 1013, and various letters of identification.

John Pelletier, executive secretary of the Morals Efficiency Commission, told newspaper men that, although he knew Lewis, the latter had never been employed by the Morals Efficiency Commission. "Mr. Lewis came to my office about two months ago and wanted some work, but I did not give him any," he said. "He was not connected with the commission at any time to my knowledge. I know Mr. Lewis when I see him—that is all the connection I have ever had with him.

Thereby hangs a great deal of the mystery surrounding Mr. Lewis.

CARRIES LETTER

For, when the special investigator was booked at the City Jail, he carried with him a letter addressed to the Morals Efficiency Commission, which, it is understood, was a request that the commission look into the case of Lewis.

DANCER .. TRIES .. TO .. END .. LIFE

Maid Finds Her Unconscious From Gas Fumes

Mrs. George Edwards

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, July 27.—Despondent over financial worries and the effects of an operation from which she has been recuperating for thirteen weeks, Mrs. George Edwards, professional dancer, attempted to kill herself late this afternoon by inhaling gas.

She was found garbed only in a night garment lying unconscious on the floor of the kitchen of the little beach cottage at 1433 Ocean Front by her colored maid, Ruby Hunt. Only the fact that Mrs. Edwards had neglected to lock the outer door saved her life.

When the maid entered she found the apartment filled with poisonous fumes. She immediately threw open all the windows, carried the unconscious form of the woman to a couch near a window and then shouted for help.

Dr. W. A. Hodkinson and Police Officer C. B. Craig responded to a call sent into police headquarters by beach life guards. They found the woman fast returning to consciousness.

At first Mrs. Edwards refused to make any statement except to say that she was "tired of living." Later she admitted turning on the gas in an effort to end her life. She said she had been ill for thirteen weeks recuperating from a major operation. Her maid confided that financial difficulties were causing her a great deal of worry.

The woman's husband, George Edwards, is said to be a well-known actor, now somewhere in the East, and she has not heard from him for some time. Mrs. Edwards, it is understood, has played over the principal vaudeville circuits with her own dancing act.

SEEIN' THINGS

[Why not share your chuckle with others? When you see something unusual, drop a note about it to the Smile Editor of The Times. Then he can all smile.]

A.P.W. offers this excerpt from his h.f.p.: "Mr. Jones said the Council had a white elephant in the Isolation Hospital." In the elephantiasis ward, without doubt.

F.I.M. reports that on Spring street between Eighth and Ninth, a shop placard states: "Go Carts Retired." Of course they are. Always, just as soon as baby outgrows them.

J.F.S., having made the grade on his first attempt, comes right back with this sentence from the advertisement of a San Francisco detective agency: "We have been very successful in rounding up unlawful bootleggers." Diligent search has often been crowned with triumph in the Southland, too. But how about the lawful ones? We haven't seen any.

* * *

One can find chuckle in the oddest places! For instance in the Record's "land shark" campaign one reads: "Two stratas are shown," and elsewhere in the paper the "High Sierras" are referred to! Isn't "stratas" a singular plural? And "Sierras" doubly so?

In a double-deck 136 point front page streamer another evening paper announced the other day: "Hundreds Crowd to See Beauty Slain by Fiend." And yet, strange to say, they've only been able to scrape up one witness!

INDORSED BY BROTHERHOOD

Churchmen Unanimously Give Moore Support

Public Service, War Work Are Remembered

Bay City Women Also Pledge Candidate Aid

At a meeting of the advisory board of the United Church Brotherhood of Los Angeles county unqualified indorsement of the candidacy of Charles C. Moore for the Republican nomination for United States Senator was unanimously given, and the reasons that impelled this action will be communicated to the members of the ninety-eight churches comprising the brotherhoods.

So enthusiastically was this voluntary effort to help Mr. Moore in his Senatorial race received by the heads of the various brotherhoods that in furtherance of the movement it also was decided to make it State-wide by sending a report of the proceedings, and a resume of the reasons for it, to the pastors of every church in California.

TO TOUR STATE

Louis C. Dodelan, executive secretary of the United Church Brotherhoods, will tour the State to carry the message of Moore's work in behalf of the World War veterans. This will be a part of the program of the brotherhoods as expressed in its declaration of purpose, summed up in these pronouncements: "Clean Man; Enforcement of Law and Order; Every Man in America an American."

"It is to these ends that the brotherhood is working," Mr. Dodelan says, "and Mr. Moore's public service in San Francisco, his work as head of the State Council of Defense, as head of the Boy Scout movement in California, and his personal efforts in behalf of the returned veterans in the organization of the first replacement bureau, has been the basis of our motives."

The officers of the United Church Brotherhoods are: C. F. Nelson, M.D., president; D. H. Jones, A. F. Varian, E. J. Lickley, E. N. Hackett, vice-presidents; J. P. Robertson, secretary; George E. Reed, treasurer; Louis C. Dodelan, executive secretary. The advisory board is made up of William H. Reynolds, C. E. Spencer, S. M. Haskell, H. C. Lyman, W. L. Cleveland, E. E. Stanford, H. G. Chapman, F. A. Powell, George M. Wiley, E. B. Moore, A. Larsen, Beal, B. A. Loughridge and A. T. Shaw.

INDORSED BY WOMEN

Moore today also received the indorsement of the officers and directors of the Woman's Board of the Panama Pacific International Exposition. The board, in calling upon all frends of the exposition to vote for Mr. Moore, says:

"In our close observance of his capabilities as the wise, careful

SPECIAL GOLD PRIZE APPEARS

"Times" $70,000 Campaign Given Impetus

Added Offer of Cash Awards Lures Contestants

New Proffer Gives Newcomers Even Better Chance

Gold!

Bright, glittering gold!

It was the lure of the Argonauts. It is the magic wand that brings joy to the hearts of men and women alike.

Because of the wonderful success and ever-increasing enthusiasm of The Times $70,000 prize campaign, the management has decided to add $735 in gold as special prizes for the candidates who accomplish the most during the period beginning the 31st inst., and ending next August 9, at 9 p.m.

Coupled with the gold offer is an opportunity to obtain 70,000 extra votes on each and every $90 club of new subscriptions.

NEW INCENTIVE APPEARS

The ten days of the offer will undoubtedly constitute the most remarkable period of the campaign. While scores and scores of men and women in Los Angeles, the towns and cities of the Southland, and the adjoining States of Nevada and Arizona have been busily engaged in gathering subscriptions with which to win one of the two splendid homes—the $16,500 house in Wilshire Crest, or the $8000 bungalow in West Hollywood tract—or one of the twenty beautiful automobiles, the forthcoming special vote and gold offer will prove an added incentive to hustle during the next few days.

The new offer will prove especially attractive to those who have not yet entered the campaign. It provides a wonderful opportunity to swing into the lead. Others who have thus far neglected to improve their positions, also will find the new double offer an unexampled means of becoming prominent contenders with but little effort.

HERE IS OFFER

Briefly, the new offer is that $735 in gold will be divided into ten prizes as follows:

A first prize of $300, second prize $150, third prize $100, fourth $75, fifth $50, sixth $40, seventh $35, eighth $30, ninth $25, tenth $20.

These prizes will be awarded to the candidates turning in the highest sums of money in new subscriptions payments during the period of ten days while this offer stands—July 31 inst. to August 9, at 9 p.m. The gold prizes in this extra offer will be distributed to candidates in the order as stated above without regard to the district or division in which the candidates may live.

And while candidates are devoting their efforts to winning the extra gold, they will at the same time be benefitting by the extra votes. Every $30 of new subscriptions constitutes a club and means

FORT GUNSUL IS CAPTURED

Bitter City Hall Battle Expected to Resume When Woman Auditor Returns to Fray

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 27.—With only subalterns left in command of the garrison, Fort Gunsul, the stronghold of Miss Myrtelle L. Gunsul, City Auditor, was captured by a flank movement of troops who went into battle today under direction of City Manager C. E. Hewes.

Within an hour after the beginning of the attack, the flag of the Hewes forces was flying over the City Auditor's former stronghold and score No. 1 was chalked up to the credit of the Hewes battalions in the war for possession of the extra room in Long Beach's new City Hall.

COPS IN FIRST WAVE

The Hewes forces consisted of a special detail of burly policemen in command of Chief of Police McLendon. Frustrated in their assault upon the fortifications yesterday, the police renewed the attack today. All the officers were ex-service men with former war experience.

Under directions of the Chief, Patrolmen Hawes, LeBarron and Fridley advanced upon the barred and locked room which Miss Gunsul pre-empted last Saturday night, stealing a march on the water department to which the room had been assigned.

Drawing his revolver, Officer Hawes smashed in a window of the room with the butt of the weapon after employees left in charge during Miss Gunsul's absence had refused the police admittance. Reaching in his hand the officer slipped the catch and within a twinkling the attacking forces were in charge of the situation. Then began the work of dispossession.

HEAVY BARRAGE FALLS

Seizing desks, tables, filing cabinets and the rest of the equipment placed there by Miss Gunsul last week, the officers rushed them into the hall and assisted employees of the water department to install their own equipment.

There was peace on the battle front late this afternoon, but hostilities will be renewed, it was said, when Miss Gunsul, in Los Angeles in connection with a law suit, returns and finds herself outgeneraled by three mere policemen and a chief of police.

Although possession, according to Blackstone is nine points of the law, the beating that Miss Gunsul will outwit and defeat the forces of City Manager Hewes and regain possession of Fort Gunsul was heavy here today.

WOMAN OF SIX NAMES DEFENDANT

Annulment Plea Charges She Has Two Undivorced Husbands; Gems Figure

"The woman of many names" again entered the legal documents of the county when yesterday a cross-complaint for an annulment was filed against attractive Mrs. Maurine Mick by her husband, Leslie P. Mick. Six names used by the young woman and $13,000 worth of jewels figure prominently in the action.

According to the husband he literally showered his wife with rare stones. Diamond rings, diamond and sapphire bracelets, pins, jade necklaces and countless other valuables were given the young woman, he asserts, and then she sued for separate maintenance.

Mrs. Mick married her present husband in October, 1921 and lived with him at 2455 Gramercy Park. A few weeks ago they separated and, according to the wife's complaint, she was arrested soon after on a charge of bigamy preferred by her husband. He charged, the complaint states, and this is substantiated by the cross bill filed yesterday, that the young woman used the names of Dubois, Kimball, Litch, Hendricks, Doe and Mick. Mr. Mick charges that she has two husbands living from whom she has not been divorced.

The wife charges that the accusations against her are unjust and that it is a part of her husband's campaign against her. She says that when she was thrown in jail on the bigamy charge her automobile was taken from her. Attorneys MacDonald and Thompson represent her.

Among the gifts given her by Mr. Mick, his complaint states, are an eight-carat diamond ring, a sapphire ring, a diamond and sapphire mounted bracelet, a three carat diamond ring, one diamond cluster pin with seventy-five stones, a jade necklace and a $5000 coat.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

Registrar of Voters Gives Ruls by Which Citizens May Exert Their Franchise

Registrar of Voters Lyons has prepared the following instructions to voters in order to correct certain erroneous statements that have been published at various times. If the citizen reads these instructions closely and acts accordingly he will not be turned down when he seeks to vote on election day, Mr. Lyons promises.

BY D. B. LYONS,
(Registrar of Voters)

WHEN REGISTRATION ENDS

Those desiring to vote at the August primary must be registered this week. Any deputy of the Registrar of Voters, no matter where located, is authorized to take the registration of any eligible voter in the county of Los Angeles.

ELIGIBILITY

Any citizen, male or female, 21 years of age or over, is entitled to register as a voter if he or she has actually resided in the State of California one year, in the county of Los Angeles three months, and in the precinct thirty days prior to the date of election.

DUPLICATE REGISTRATIONS

Voters who have registered since Jan. 1, 1922, and have not removed from the residence named in their registration are urged not to re-register. Such second registrations simply burden the office of the Registrar of Voters, which is now working under high pressure day and night, and are canceled as void. It is an error to reregister for the purpose of changing party affiliation.

CHANGING PARTY AFFILIATION

The only method provided by law by which party affiliation can be changed is to sign a short form of affidavit with which every deputy of the Registrar of Voters is supplied. Such change may be made this week only, by those desiring to vote at the August primary, and can be made in no other way than above indicated.

REGISTER OR DO NOT VOTE

Tomorrow Last Day To Get Name on Lists; Many Moore Changes

After tomorrow, the 28th inst., there will be no further opportunity for voters to register for this year's elections. This leaves only today and tomorrow for eleventh-hour listing of names. Many people are changing their registration in order to qualify themselves to vote for Charles C. Moore for United States Senator, and the forces of the register of voters are being kept busy.

BOY TALKS IN MURDER CASE

Chinese Doctor is Named in Mackwitz Hearing

Lad Testifies He Heard Dead Man "Cussed"

Double Tragedy Marks End of Quarrel

The name of Dr. Wong Him, a Chinese of Oakland, was brought into the preliminary hearing yesterday in Justice Folletie's court of the case against Albert Mackwitz, charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Thomas A. Stansbury. Kermet Stansbury, 12-year-old son of the dead man, testified he had heard young Mackwitz "cussing" his father-in-law because he had made the defendant's wife "live with this Chinaman" and also that he had heard his sister say she was glad Mackwitz had killed her father. The lad, in answer to another interrogation from S. S. Hahn, attorney for the defense, said he had not heard Fern say her father also had forced her to live with the Oriental.

WITNESS MISSING

The defense declared that Fern, to have been its chief witness, was missing mysteriously, and the youthful witness said he had not heard where she went. She left home soon after the beginning of the preliminary hearing in Justice Folletie's court several days ago. Mr. Hahn told the court she was in Oakland and he would have to bring her from that city.

The defense introduced in evidence a photograph of the Chinese in question. On the back of the picture, is written, "To Miss Velma Stansbury from Dr. Wong Him, September 7, 1920." Velma is the wife of the defendant.

The picture showed a Chinese of middle age and of portly physique, dressed in the European fashion with several lodge buttons on the lapel of his coat.

Dep. Dist.-Atty McDaniels produced County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner and H. E. Tagg, a neighbor of the Stansburys. Dr. Wagner said the body showed death had been due to cerebral hemorrhage due to lacerations on the head which were caused either by a fall or beating. Mr. Tagg testified he had seen Mackwitz beating Stansbury on July 18th in the kitchen of the Stansbury home, 1930 West 101st street. He said he forced the young man to leave off beating his father-in-law but that he returned and continued to beat him with his fists. To cross examination, the witness said he heard Mackwitz demanding his baby's clothes while he was beating his father-in-law.

DEATH FOLLOWS OPERATION

The case was doubly tragical. Soon after Stansbury died, Mackwitz's wife, who was in a hospital, died, and the Coroner's inquest over her body resulted in a verdict that her death had been due to an illegal operation. Mackwitz has been in jail since the affair, having been arrested on a charge of assault before the death of his father-in-law, who died a day or two after suffering the injuries that caused his death.

As far as the evidence thus far has brought out, the quarrel was occasioned, or at least brought to a head, by Mackwitz's visit to the home of his father-in-law to get the clothes of his child, an infant of less than a year's age, and the baby buggy which had been left there. His wife at that time was in the hospital.

The examination was continued until Monday morning.

HAYS TO ADDRESS CITIZENS

Film Chief to be Speaker at Mass Meeting in Hollywood Bowl

The grand finale of Mr. Hays's get-acquainted visit in Los Angeles will occur in Hollywood Bowl tomorrow afternoon, where he will make his first address to the public.

At a meeting held at the Ambassador yesterday, plans for the program were completed. Members of the committee are Victor Clark, Irving Thalberg and M. C. Levee.

During Mr. Hays's address in the Bowl, all motion-picture studios in the city will close and the personnel of each studio will march to the Bowl.

Three bands will provide the music. The American Legion band will meet Mr. Hays at Cahuenga avenue and Hollywood Boulevard, and will escort him to the Bowl at 3:30 p.m. The Postoffice Band will play the welcome at the scene of his address. A third band will also furnish music in the Bowl.

Before the arrival of Mr. Hays, twelve vaudeville acts, arranged by Sid Grauman, will provide entertainment for the throngs.

Mr. Hays will next call the roll of all the studios, the employees of which will occupy reserved sections in the amphitheater. The former Postmaster-General will then be introduced by Dr. Allan Shore, president of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hays's program today will include another tour of the studios, and a dinner in his honor at the Little Club, to be given by the directors, publicity men and screen writers.

FRIENDS .. AID .. IN .. CAMPAIGN

Vivienne Morehouse Receiving Extensive Support

Miss Vivienne Morehouse

A HOST of friends have rallied to the support of Miss Vivienne Morehouse, of Whittier, Cal., who is a candidate in The Times $76,000 prize campaign.

From the beginning of the campaign Miss Morehouse has been forging to the front rank, and when she loses ground one day she quickly regains her position the next.

Miss Morehouse is one of the popular members of the younger set of Whittier, and her charming personality has won for her an army of admirers. Aside from her personal following, she is known to many as a gifted young vocalist with a most promising future in the field of music.

In entering The Times wonderful gift campaign, Miss Morehouse determined to work for the $16,500 home in Wilshire Crest. She made this announcement to her friends, and the substantial help they tendered convinced her that no strenuous work was required to win in The Times campaign—only spare time effort, and the will to win.

be, it will be 'Good-night and good-bye forever.' He was engaged for revenue only and not for moral idealism."

Early in the day Mr. Hays was visited by a delegation of Los Angeles clubwomen, headed by Mrs. J. C. Urquhart, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs and by Mrs. A. A. Hummell, chairman of the committee on motion-pictures for the federation.

The conference was a brief one, during which the clubwomen submitted their appeal for cleaner and better pictures.

Mr. Hays spent the afternoon in visiting the Goldwyn, Hal Roach, and Mary Pickford studios. He was accompanied on his tour by David Selznick, Abe Lehr, Joseph Schenck and Hal Roach.

HAYS FINDS NO "HORRORS"

After Tour of Hollywood Studios He Declares Cinema Suffers Simply From Too Much Talk

Will H. Hays, on his many daily tours of the motion-picture studios, has failed to find the "horrors of Hollywood," as eastern publications have branded the life in the world's center of motion-picture production.

At an informal dinner given in his honor by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce at the Hollywood Women's Club, Mr. Hays fired his first shots at those who have criticised Hollywood.

"The one bad influence in Hollywood is talk," he declared.

"And for the life of me I cannot see the horrors of Hollywood," he exclaimed.

"The duty of the people of Hollywood and all persons interested in the motion-picture industry is to stop the lies about Hollywood." In this he entered an ardent appeal to the Hollywood citizens.

"If we keep motion pictures clean," he also said, "we must keep them clean in our thoughts. The definite aim of the industry is to promote Hollywood and keep its name known as the synonym of beauty."

He said that the people must have entertainment, that if they are deprived of it they will go "red," that the right kind of motion pictures are needed to preserve interest in Hollywood, and that this will doubtlessly maintain a high-grade moral integrity.

"We must remove the reason for lies about the industry.

DUTY TO YOUTH

"Ours is a duty to youth. We are not so much interested in the millions of dollars invested in the industry as we are in the millions of children whose morals and education are invested in it."

Mr. Hays was preceded by Jesse L. Lasky, who stated that he had been sent by the officials of his company to Europe to tour all the foreign countries to select a location more suitable than Hollywood as a world center for motion picture production.

"I returned two weeks ago," Mr. Lasky said, "and I presented my report at a conference attended by Mr. Hays and the officials of my company. I told Mr. Hays at that that, after my exhaustive tour, no matter what was said about Hollywood it was the only place in the world for a motion-picture production center.

THEN HAYS CAME

"On the strength of this report Mr. Hays came to Los Angeles to gain first-hand knowledge of the situation."

Fred Leonard, president of the Business Men's Club, presided at the dinner. Walter Long, commander of the Hollywood American Legion Post, also spoke.

At the conclusion of the dinner Mr. Hays was chosen as the first honorary member of the Bears' Club, an organization of noted motion picture actors, producers and writers, similar to the Lambs' Club in New York.

Girl Bobs Hair, Regrets It and is Found Dead

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Two weeks ago Miss Ruth Evans, attractive private stenographer for an executive of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company at 195 Broadway, bobbed her hair in the prevailing mode.

Almost immediately, according to Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, with whom she lived, she regretted the act and grew increasingly depressed over the loss.

Today when she failed to appear at the table for breakfast or luncheon, Brown tried the door of her room, smelled gas and summoned a policeman. They broke in the door. The girl's body, fully clothed, was found stretched out on the bed in a gas-filled room. Three letters left no doubt of her suicidal intention.

One addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Brown gave no hint of her reasons, but the Browns said that Miss Evans had seemed to go from regret to depression to despondency in the two weeks since she had her hair cut. She had, they said, beautiful blonde hair reaching to her waist.

TWO BIRDS AT ONCE

Thus candidates can "kill two birds with one stone." While they are striving for the gold they are also gaining thousands of extra votes, as all new subscriptions apply on the double offer.

It should be fully understood that these extra gold prizes are in addition to the regular prizes, which consist of the two beautiful houses, the twenty fine motor cars and the district prizes valued at $150, $100 and $50 each.

It is not too late to enter this wonderful campaign. Others are doing so every day, and what others can do you can do.

Voting is fast becoming spirited. The Times campaign is becoming more and more the principal topic of conversation with thousands of people who marvel at the gigantic gift enterprise that this newspaper has provided for those who live within its territory. Everywhere you hear them talking about it, and those who are not entered in the campaign are usually interested in some favorite candidate.

FEW ARE NECESSARY

As matters stand now, only a few subscriptions are necessary to take the lead in the published vote standings.

The nomination blank entitles every entrant to 2000 free votes, while 10,000 more free votes are given on the first subscription when accompanied by the "first subscription coupon" provided for the purpose. The ease with which you can run up a huge vote score will amaze you. Votes will spring up from sources which you never imagined. Everything about this campaign is easy, and one of the best features about it is that you can participate without one cent of cost, either now or later.

Decide now that the special vote and gold offer will be your stepping stone to success—a big prize.

JACK-MARILYNN RITES SUNDAY

Hour, 2 p.m.; Place, Home of Doug and Mary

All "Fixin's" Ready, Intimate Friends Announce

To be Quiet Affair, Members of Family State

Wedding bells for Jack Pickford and Marilynn Miller will ring at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The announcement of the hour and date for the ceremony came from intimate friends of the young couple.

For the next few days the Beverly Hills home of Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, Mary Pickford, will be the busiest scene in the motion-picture colony. It is to be the setting of the wedding. Butlers and maids, gardeners and other servants are industriously engaged in making the necessary transformations for the wedding.

Marilynn, Jack's prospective bride, has her trousseau, and honeymoon garments all ready. Jack has had his last fitting at the tailor's.

Mary Pickford, Jack's sister, has received the gown which she will wear at the ceremony, from her dressmaker. So has Lottie Pickford, the other sister.

Mary's gown will be of cream-colored Chantilly lace over crepe georgette. It's covered with a lot of little wreaths of blue and silver ribbon and other cute little doodads all over it. And she's going to wear green satin slippers, green stockings, a lace picture hat with French flowers and everything on it.

Lottie will appear in a gown of hyacinth Canton crepe, heavily beaded, with a black sash, a large bow on the side, a large black hat, black satin slippers and black silk stockings.

It's just to be a quiet affair, members of the family stated yesterday, with only members of the family and a few friends present. The minister has not been chosen yet.

Lieut. Gifford had the letter in his possession and late yesterday was scheduled to give it to Mr. Pelletier for perusal.

The fund spoken of in the letter are believed to be those that the backers of former Chief Everington were raising to raise Los Angeles from the "mire of sin" into which they publicly announced the city had fallen.

Late yesterday Lewis was still in jail.

Name New Boat After Daughter of Mayor Cryer

When the new pilot boat for Los Angeles Harbor slides down the ways at the shipyard of the Seacraft Company on Mormon Islands, Monday at 3:35 p.m., she will be christened Catherine Cryer, in honor of Mayor and Mrs. Cryer's daughter, Catherine.

This announcement was made yesterday by President McKee of the Harbor Commission, in announcing plans for the launching. Miss Ruth Holdredge, a close friend of Mrs. Cryer's, will be sponsor for the new vessel.

The old pilot boat at the harbor was wrecked and sunk during a storm some months ago. Mayor Cryer and President McKee will make short talks at the launching of the new one.

Man Kills Self After Penning Farewell Note

Registering under the name of A. Gerrer at a small hotel at 704 Traction avenue sometime Wednesday evening, Max Hoffman, former proprietor of a grocery store at 5270 South Hoover avenue, obtained a room, penned a note stating that he had given his last $50 to his wife in the White Memorial Hospital, that his two grown daughters were married and didn't need him any more, and then shot and killed himself with a small revolver. His body was found yesterday morning and removed to the Draper undertaking establishment.

Hoffman is said to have formerly resided at 1846 North Seventh street, Philadelphia, before living at 336 West Sixtieth street here.

150 Dozen Children's Handkerchiefs, 10c

—And everybody almost, has learned to know how good these British Print Handkerchiefs are. They are in the gay and charming patterns that children like, but Women Like Them, Too.

—Yes, indeed, for they are just as pretty as can be. All nicely hemstitched; in Oriental and Persian designs; many have pretty colored borders.

—There are 150 dozen of them, especially purchased to be worthy of Bullock's Remnant Friday, but even 150 dozen won't stay very long, at such a little price as 10c.
—First Floor.

Sheetings and Muslins

—There are 500 yards of bleached and unbleached muslins and wide sheetings—the accumulation of a month of brisk selling, and they will be offered at very low Remnant Prices for Friday. Come and see if you can't find what you want.

Blankets, $2.95

—There are 20 pairs of Cotton Blankets—odd numbers; some slightly mussed and soiled, but all good plaid blankets from regular stock.

Cotton Batts, 50c

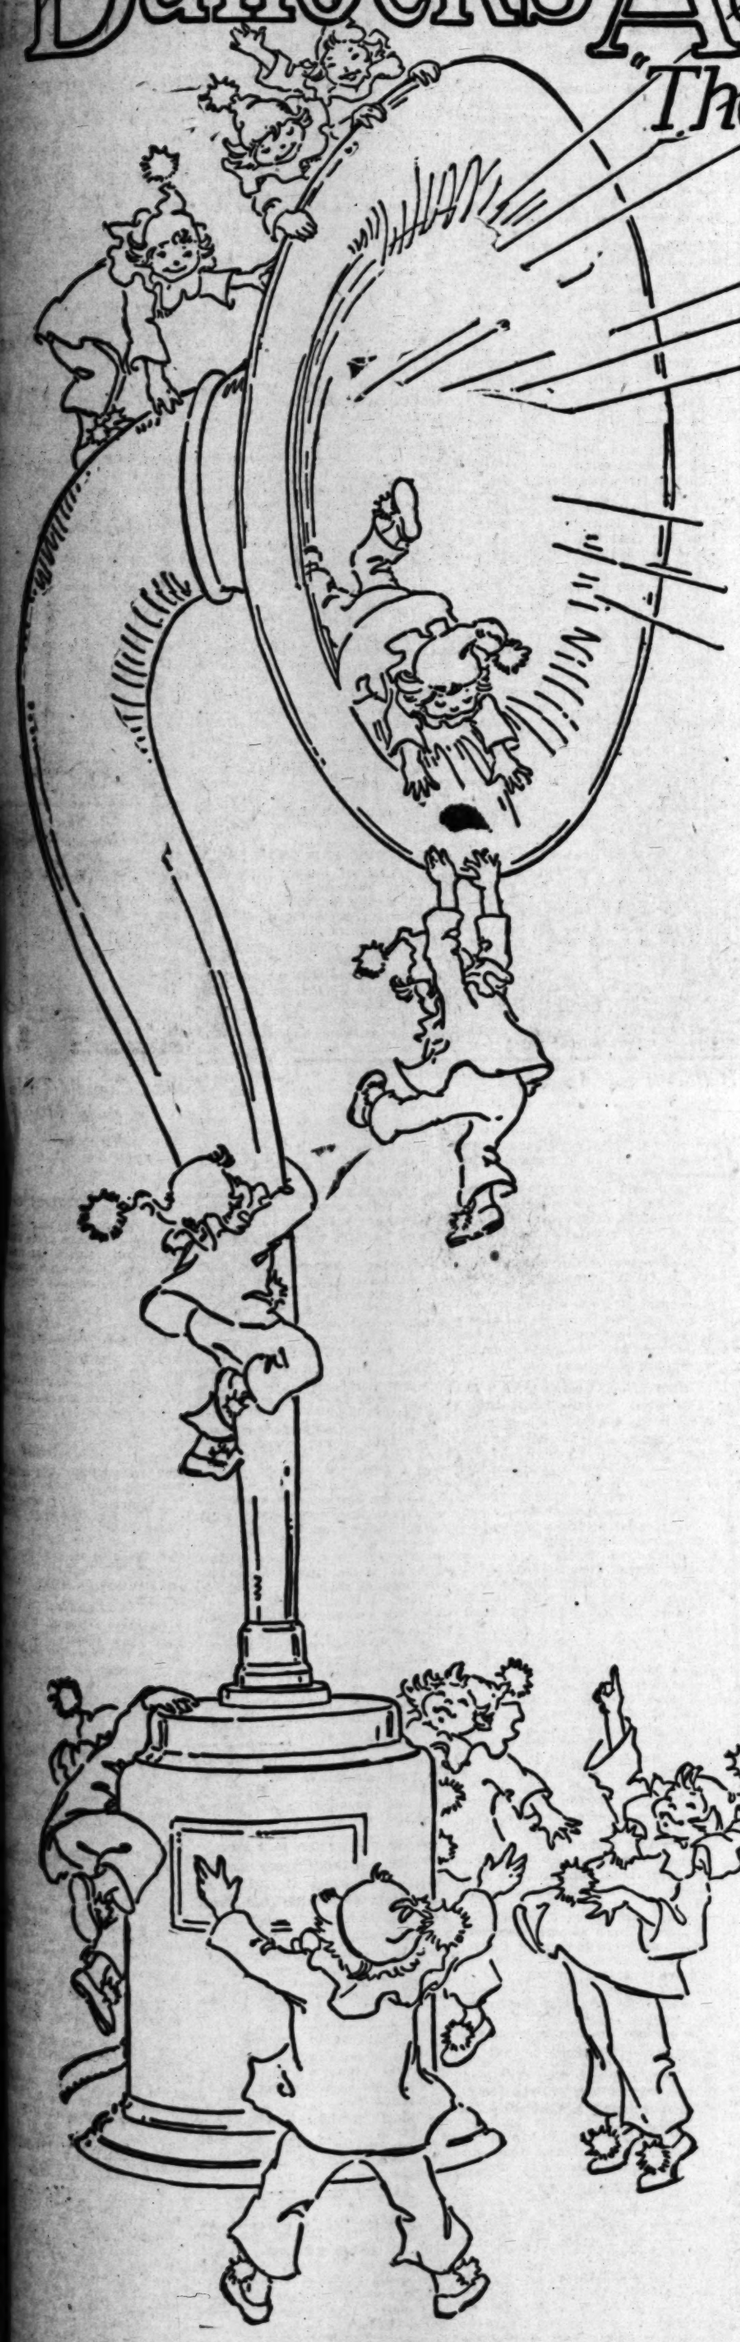
Bullock's August Clearance

"The One Sale of the Year"



—As the time draws near and preparations reach a stage of partial completeness, the fact that will be the First Day of "The One Sale of the Year" becomes more and more dominant.

—No newspaper announcement, no matter how carefully worded, could express the breadth of the opportunity which Bullock's August Clearance will sponsor.

—Prices! Variety! Quality! Consider them in their relation one to the other—three strong elements of Value that make savings exceedingly worth while—

(1) Prices down to levels that should hurry away Bullock's own stocks for Clearance—
Prices down to levels correspondingly low on quantities of specially purchased merchandise (much of which has come to Bullock's through concessions of manufacturers and distributors of note, who wish to utilize the outlet Bullock's August Clearance affords for clearance of their own good stocks).

(2) Variety that is as broad as the stocks included in "Every Section of the Store."

(3) Quality as true to the standards that characterize Bullock's stocks, as this great event is true to the Ideals of the Business of which it is a part.

—Consider all of these things—then read between the lines. Try to see this, "The One Sale of the Year," in the light of its own interesting Personality, as something more than a mere sale.

—Look upon this event as one of the important phases of this business.

—Bullock's Wants this Clearance to be as Impressive because of its interpretation of Ideals of Service and Friendship, as it will be stirring in its Sales-making scope.

—All the resources of this business are to be concentrated upon making your August Shopping as much a matter of pleasure and convenience as it certainly should be a source of Savings and Satisfaction.

—So think of Bullock's August Clearance as a "more-than-sale" which you should attend.

—Think of it, if you will, in its own attractive, Value-Giving role—and give your needs consideration —not immediate needs alone, but those of months to come. Such opportunities as you will find Tuesday, August 1, at Bullock's are rare.

—Think about it, that you may be ready! Talk about it, that your friends may be ready, too; that no one may forget!

OBENCHAIN CASE TO JURY TODAY

Friday Seems to Have Special Significance

Keyes's Argument Declared Best of Career

Burst of Oratory Features Rush's Plea

The fate of Mrs. Madalynne O. Obenchain, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, is expected to be in the hands of the jury on the inevitable Friday. According to an announcement made last evening by Dep. Dist. Atty. Keyes, the arguments of the State will be completed today and the case will go to the jury late this afternoon.

On three previous Fridays have the slayer suspects' cases gone to the jury. Twice the case of Arthur C. Burch was submitted on that day. Once has the case of Madalynne been submitted. Today will be the fourth instance.

Jud R. Rush, Mrs. Obenchain's counsel, completed his argument yesterday morning with a burst of oratory. Mr. Keyes began his argument immediately after lunch. He will continue, he says, until 3 p.m. today. Then the jury will be instructed.

Mr. Keyes's argument was said by many to be the finest of his career. He began in an entirely logical and dispassionate manner, reviewing facts, statements and evidence. At times he held Madalynne up before the public as a woman eternally seeking Belton and never seeming satisfied, but always were the prosecutor's words tempered with the impersonal element that characterized his address.

Once Mr. Keyes declared that Mr. Rush had typified Mrs. Obenchain as a wonderful example of womanhood.

"What is woman?" he demanded. "Why, woman is that something caressed by the hand of a mother, blessed by the tears of angels and moulded to the form of womanhood by the hand of God." Then he asked if Madalynne typified all these things.

Mr. Keyes charged that it was more than a lover's quarrel that ended the romance of Kennedy and the girl. He declared that it was an actual splitting up of a very serious love affair of the woman's. Throughout he pictured Kennedy as a deceiver and said the slain man was only "stalling" Madalynne when he told her he was coming East to marry her.

In the outset, Mr. Keyes praised the defense and Attys. Rush and William B. Beirne. He said he knew their case was "as clean as a hound's tooth."

Dry Officers Catch Several Accused Wets

R. M. Fuller of 1027 Valencia street is an accommodating man. He had a friend who wanted to buy four pints of red liquor to be delivered to him at a road house on one of the beach routes.

Fuller agreed to do so, prohibition agents say, but when the stuff was taken to the purchaser he was dumbfounded to know that he was a prohibition agent in disguise, and as a consequence, Fuller found himself under arrest, and in addition he lost his new Studebaker automobile.

Two gallons of assorted liquor were picked up by prohibition enforcement agents yesterday at the residence of William Fuglio on the road between Lankershim and Universal City, they reported.

W. A. Baldwin, who conducts a picture framing establishment at 209 Mercantile Place, is in a tangle with prohibition agents on a selling charge. He promised to disclose the source of his supply, but forgot to do so, and so a complaint for his arrest was issued.

L. E. Johnson, who conducts a soft drink place at Pico and Olive streets, and who had been fined $500 under the Gandier ordinance in the police court, was taken into the U. S. Dist. Court yesterday on the charge of having a still in his possession.

Granite Cutters Will Meet Here for Convention

The fifth annual meeting of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of California will take place at the Ambassador from August 1 to 4. Aside from the business sessions there are to be numerous luncheons and theater parties for the out-of-town guests, including a banquet Thursday evening at the Ambassador and entertainment Friday noon at the Virginia in Long Beach.

The association comprises quarry owners and monument dealers and builders of this State. Before its formation more than $1,000,000 was sent out of California annually to buy memorials made of eastern granite, but now the home industry supplies the local demand. This organization was the pioneer granite association to adopt the American plan, rather than the closed shop, in regard to labor—a plan which was later adopted in the East.

Linebergers to be Honored by Their Friends

BONAMI AT WORK

Signor Bonomi has been requested to form the new Cabinet in Italy. A Bonomi Cabinet should be a shiny and polished one.

INVISIBLE DAMES

Now they have the auxiliary—the Klux Sisters, or Ladies of the Invisible Empire. But how long do they expect the women to remain invisible? Do they mean quiet?

A MASON JAR

Part of a circus train was wrecked at Mason, Iowa, the other night and seven of the big elephants were freed from their moorings. They ran amuck through the town and gave Mason a jar.

A BONE TO PICK

Now it appears that we also have "seconds" in meats. This gives room for the suspicion that some of the thrifty butchers have gone a bit further and unloaded a few thirds on us at filet mignon prices.

ON THE FARM

Lenin is said to be turning the attention of himself and the Russian people to farming. The farmer can come nearer to feeding himself than any other worker and it is necessary to send part of the army back to the land. Lenin could serve his country best by taking a quarter section and showing his people how to run a sulky plow.

HIGH FINANCE

England has the system. The British financiers propose to cover their indebtedness to America by issuing a new series of long-time bonds which are to be sold in this country. In this way they would virtually be borrowing the money from us with which to pay ourselves. This is all right if they can get away with it. We cannot say but what the bonds would be perfectly good. So why not invest?

BURDEN BEARING

President Poincare says that the interest on the French debt represents more than half of the national budget. About two-thirds of the rest of the budget are represented by the demands of the army and navy. This doesn't give France much encouragement toward the extinguishment of the principal of her war debt. But, had there never been a war cloud over Europe, what a lovely position France would have been in.

BAR THE SPENDTHRIFTS

One might as well attempt to weed the Amazonian jungle with a pair of tweezers as to try and clean up Sacramento with a single vote. As well try to bail Niagara with an eye-dropper as to stop the drain at the Capitol with one white ballot. But an army of voters with an avalanche of white ballots would put these operations in the steam shovel and tractor class and accomplish the thing that is to be desired—the extinguishment of the organized spendthrifts. If the people are awakened to the importance of the issues before them they may be combined into action.

SELECTING JUDGES

In the new Illinois Constitution there is a provision which permits a county or district to vote upon the manner of the selection of its judges. If the voters want a nonpartisan judiciary the judges are nominated by the justices of the Supreme Court and appointed by the Governor—to be evenly divided between the parties. Unless the voters decide otherwise the judges are elected by the people for a definite term. Where they are appointed the selection may be permanent or conditioned on behavior. A judiciary nominated by the Supreme Court would be of high quality, but whether it would be satisfying to the masses is another question.

THE GREATER GOOD

The probation system of dealing with offenders has been subjected to much harsh criticism of late and among police officers it has been held responsible for a large share of the crime under which we are staggering. The policeman says that when he arrests a burglar the judge turns him loose the next day. If he is sent to prison he may be paroled in a few weeks. Between probation and parole the streets are flooded with men and women who ought to be behind the bars. Any policeman will tell you that. Recently a judge in an eastern city had a round-up of his probationers. There were forty-two of them and they all seemed to be doing fairly well. They were all at work in legitimate jobs and they were not only supporting themselves, but furnishing a livelihood for 130 others. The judge said that 97 per cent of his probationers had made good—at least they had indicated a willingness to work and to go straight. Whether they should have been punished more harshly for their offenses is another matter. Society is usually satisfied if a man works and takes care of his own. It is not insistent on post mortems. There is much to be said in favor of probation, but it must be intelligently extended. It should not be indiscriminate, but it may as well be given ungrudgingly to those who will appreciate and make the most of it—not for themselves, but for others. It is the greater good that society wants and humanity needs. One false step need not wreck life's whole journey.

GOVERNMENT BY "BLOC"

The Italian government has just gone on the rocks. It was apparently a strong government, with a good working majority. But in Italy the pernicious "bloc" system for obtaining special legislation for favored interests has lately made tremendous headway, so that a combination of such opposite factions as the Fascisti, the Socialists and the Catholics—each chagrined at failing to win special "bloc" favors—has been able to throw the Italian people into complete political confusion.

France, ever since the second republic, has suffered from this same malady—the placing of a central government at the mercy of a number of small political interests. Generally speaking, the French government has been a loose and flabby affair and today, when strength is especially needed, France has the weakest government in Europe. As a gymnast, throwing eternal somersaults, the French government is a fine model of what not to follow.

Germany, before the war, was divided into two well-defined political camps and whatever faults may be found with the old regime, it is generally admitted that it was always strong in action. Such a strong government in Germany, now that the militaristic dream has been shattered, would go far to restore the stability of Europe. But the German republic is also debilitated by a government depending on a combination of small isolated parties and the bloc system once more is demonstrated as the agent for supineness and inaction.

England was ably governed during the many years when the Liberals and Conservatives were the two well-recognized parties in open combat for the power of office. But England, too, is feeling the effect of the new political gospel-preaching government by the grace of the bloc and the lobby. Were the personality of Lloyd George taken out of British politics that country would be liable to split up into a number of groups and to suffer the same fate that has overtaken Italy and Germany, the fate of trying to serve too many masters at the same time.

The United States, also, shows symptoms of breaking away from the strong, stable system in which a united Democratic party was pitted against a united Republican party and the resultant government was strong and sure-footed. Nominally, the country still holds to the two old parties. Up to the time of our entry into the war the number of new parties, born of small and sectional interests, was inconsiderable and the lifetime of all newly organized political parties was short and ineffectual.

But now the pernicious bloc system, that has gone so far to unsettle all central authority in Europe, is creeping insidiously into the heart of our own government, is breaking the old, straight party lines and threatens to weaken our government as it has weakened that of Italy, France and Germany, by making national interests secondary to the wire-pullings of small, closely organized minorities.

It will be a bad day for the American people if the bloc system ever gets tenaciously installed here. The country requires representatives in Congress that stand for the fixed principles set forth in the platforms they have openly subscribed to—not petty politicians secretly tied to small special interests ready to overthrow national legislation at the behest of a "bloc" seeking special favors.

WHAT SHALL WE DO FOR OUR VILLAINS?

Pity the lot of all those who have to cater to the public's amusement. Amusing others is really a serious and solemn business. Of course, the profits are proportionately great—so also is the number of the hard knocks received.

Nobody reaches a larger public than the motion-picture producer.

Think of the myriad of different tastes he must provide for. Think how small is the material he can dig up, that is really fresh and entertaining—over what acres of bread he must spread his small pats of butter. Think of the number of old figures to be dressed up in new clothes, the variety of changes to be rung from one peal of bells!

And then sometimes that confounded public refuses to hear the call of the conventional and actually demands "something different."

That is when the iron enters into the soul of the picture producer.

A grave crisis has just arisen in that stupendous industry. For a long time the public has accepted the stereotyped villain. He was really the big attraction of the show. No producer would dare to put a picture on the screen that did not offer a pleasing and acceptable villain.

The very success of American films, their extension to foreign lands (a very profitable branch of the business,) has added enormously to the problem of supplying him.

The picture producer is now impaled on the horns of a novel international dilemma. He cannot afford to lose the foreign market, nor can he sacrifice his American audience to retain it.

The same difficulty presents itself to all makers of films in every country where a market is looked for in other lands. And yet the financial success of a picture depends on the extent of the patronage it can command all over the world.

Right here the worst complication in villains faces the harassed maker of scenarios.

No English theater will accept a picture in which an English villain figures. To attempt to sell a film to the Japanese in which a son of Nippon does anything that is not heroic and inspiring would produce a riot.

A German audience will have nothing to do with the picturization of a Teuton engaged in reprehensible acts or plotting devilitry. Stories of black-hand atrocities or Camorra blackmailers are taboo in Italy. Paris would howl down a picture wherein the sons of Gaul fill any other but brave and noble and virtuous roles.

Yet naturally American audiences don't want all their villains to be made in America.

We all want "million-dollar" pictures—we like to know that mighty sums of money have been expended on the film we have paid our 50 cents to behold. Million-dollar pictures will be impossible unless this international villain problem reaches some satisfactory solution. Because such a picture must be able to hold a good foreign market.

How to fashion the new composite international villain is the big question of the moment. He must be found. A film picture without a popular villain is a drug on the amusement market.

Will the picture villain of the future have to be a man without a country?

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

Not even the Governor may calmly flout the constitution. The court will not dismiss the action brought against the State administration for its illegal practices in selling State highway bonds to favored purchasers at a loss of more than $200,000 to the taxpayers.

The Governor's legal department made desperate efforts to fight off or delay the action brought against the administration by S. H. Mitchell on behalf of the taxpayers. All manner of technicalities were raised for the purpose of clouding the real issue or obtaining a respite, but the Federal court holds that there has been a violation of the constitution and the responsibility therefor should be placed. Whether the taxpayers will ever get the money back may be doubted, but if there is no restitution the people should at least understand the manner in which they were defrauded and who is to blame. If the State machine can juggle the funds so that the citizens are virtually swindled out of $220,000 in the interest of the bond buyers the people should be placed in a position to wreak their vengeance. There has been no denial of the asserted facts. Under instructions the State Board of Control used funds received from the Federal government as well as State moneys in the purchase of California highway bonds for $3,021,000 and on the same day turned the bonds over to San Francisco bankers at a price of $2,799,000, which was less than the earning value of the bonds and represented a loss of more than $220,000 to the State. This was in absolute violation of the constitutional provisions and to the great detriment of the credit of the State.

The bonds had been voted by the people, but it had been expressly stipulated that they should bear no more than 4½ per cent interest nor be sold at less than par. By their action the Governor and his Board of Control double-crossed the taxpayers and the court now purposes to hold them responsible therefor.

On behalf of the State administration the Attorney-General pleads that the action is mainly a political one. This is not all truth, but the court rules that it makes no difference. It does not alter the responsibility. The suit is brought by a taxpayer of the State who will not patiently endure what he calls "being robbed." His right to bring the action is not now disputed. The point is that the credit and reputation of the State have been injured by thus disposing of the bonds of the State at a sacrifice or for the profit of a syndicate. On top of this further huge bond issues are proposed and the State expenditures are climbing to a point never before attained by government in this or any other country. How long do the people propose to stand under this strain? If the taxpayers vote to continue the existing machine in uninterrupted power they will deserve all the financial burdens that are in store for them.

THE BRIGHT LIGHTS

Citizens of London are conducting a campaign for the purpose of saving Americans from Paris. The idea is that a lot of careless Americans who visit the French capital spend their money in riotous living and then do not get what they pay for. The Londoners propose to see that they get it. They wish to make the British capital so attractive that the traveler will care to go no further. As a step in that direction they have arranged it so that an American can get a drink at any hour. The public houses may shut up at midnight and the cafes at 2:30 in the morning, but by pushing the buzzer in his room the tourist may be assured of his toddy at any old time.

Paris is supposed to be a city of light and gayety, but London is now more gaudy as far as the lights are concerned. One of the newspapers even conducted a contest for ideas on brightening up the English capital. The first prize seems to have gone to an Iowa girl who compiled some hints from the traffic laws and park regulations of various American cities. They may be utilized for the purpose of making London seem more homelike to the American visitor. One point that the Britishers are making is that we have a common language. The average New Yorker speaks a rather incompetent French, but his English is still passable. He can make himself understood in London, where the only way he is comprehendable in French is when he makes a noise like a golden eagle. All Britishers are not stolid and unresponsive. There are some of them who make the finest confidence men on earth and these are ever ready to have communion with the stranger. There are flirty girls in England, too, and it is much more chummy to hold converse with a fairy who speaks one's own tongue rather than to make hesitant venture into alien speech. One can understand Jane, but only wink at Marie.

The Englishman also claims that transportation is much swifter and more comfortable in Great Britain than in France. There is a car or a cab for any place at any time and the service is marked with speed. In France a journey is to be considered with some trepidation.

Likewise, the British theaters are running many American plays and the Strand seems like an extension of Broadway. The New Yorker who goes abroad as a personal protest against the deprivations of the Eighteenth Amendment is being pressed to hang up his hat in London and go no further. Above all, he must beware of that naughty but grasping Paris.

We Can Hardly Notice it, Now!

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

The Sunshine of Religion

A thousand years ago there was just as much land and natural resources in this country as there is today; but America was a wild waste.

It was not until Christianity had exercised its leavening influence, till the preachings and the teachings of integrity, faith and service had become common practice that men were willing to do more than was necessary to satisfy their daily needs.

China's natural resources and available labor far exceed our own; but China is a back number because it lacks the religion which supplies the inspiration to develop and make the most of her land and labor.

Movable type was invented 3000 years ago. No practical use was made if it, however, until the last century, when there was developed the passion to serve, teach and gospelise. It was the demand for the Bible which made the printing industry grow and develop by leaps and bounds.

The same thing is true of the arts and sciences. Our greatest paintings were executed to spread the gospel of the Scriptures. The Renaissance was the child of the ideals of Christianity. Agriculture, chemistry, mathematics—these and others were developed within the walls of monasteries by monks aflame with the spirit of Christ.

And as with nations, so with individuals. Religion, in other words, bears the same relation to success that sunshine bears to a plant.

A plant might be in the best soil; but deprive it of sunshine and soon it would wither and die.

So it is that religion causes a man to benefit from the industry, integrity, intelligence, initiative, intensity and inspiration which bring success.

RIPPLING RHYMES

VEGETARIAN

Our doctor is a wise old lad and oft he says to me, "The whole blamed world is feeling bad, as sickly as can be, because the people are galoots who seem to want disease; they will not live upon the fruits that grow upon the trees. The wholesome turnip they traduce, they shy at beets and prunes; they will not look on onion juice or pour it in with spoons. They all must have their roasts and steaks and victuals fried in grease; and so their forms are filled with aches, which aches destroy their peace. You've eaten many cows, my friend," the good old doc declares, "and pigs and chickens without end and geese and Belgian hares. And now your bones are full of lime, you are a wreck, no doubt, and you are groaping half the time with rheumatis and gout. If you had eaten pears and plums and rice and lemon peel you would not have scorbutic gums or anthrax in your heel. Right gladly would I now explain the evil of your way, but I must go and see Bill Blaine, who has the cramps today. He ate too many apricots, the contents of a can, and now a bob-tailed spasm trots around his inner man."

FUTURE OF AMERICAN LUMBER

BY A. B. RECKNAGEL,
Professor of Forest Management and Utilization, Cornell University, in the "American Forestry Magazine" of Washington

The subject of the future of the American lumber supply is a large subject and can best be approached by a study of the past developments of the industry, its present resources and then, predicated upon these two, a look into the future may be ventured.

In 1850 the United States produced 5,000,000,000 board feet of lumber with New York leading, Pennsylvania second, Maine third, Ohio fourth, Indiana fifth and Michigan sixth.

In 1860 the total production was 8,000,000,000 feet. Pennsylvania led with New York, Michigan, Maine, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin following in the order named.

In 1870 the production had risen to 12,755,000,000 feet and Michigan topped the list with Pennsylvania, New York, Wisconsin, Indiana, Maine, Ohio and Missouri next in rank. The center of production definitely passed in this decade to the Lake States, where it remained for thirty years. Michigan led the other States of the Union from 1870 till 1900, when Wisconsin took the lead till 1905.

About 1895 began the rise of Louisiana, Mississippi and the other Southern States in the list of lumber producers. Thus Louisiana was third in 1895, second in 1910 and first in 1914. The southern pine region overtopped the Lake States in 1900 and was pre-eminent until 1920, when for the first time the State of Oregon displaced Louisiana from second rank. Southern pine may be expected to recover part of the lost ground in the next few years, but the indications are that the supremacy in lumber production is moving to the West.

WEST COAST TAKES THE LEAD

The shifting of the lumber production center from the south to the west coast began with the rise of the State of Washington to a leading place. Since 1905, with the single exception of the year 1914, the State of Washington has held supremacy as a lumber producer. Today (1920) out of a total cut of 33,798,800,000 board feet, the order of the first twelve States is: Washington, Oregon, Louisiana, Mississippi, California, Arkansas, Alabama, Texas, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Virginia and Florida. All the rest produce less than 1,000,000,000 feet yearly.

The curve of lumber production from 1904 on indicates a steady diminution since 1912 and a high point in 1906 and 1907. In 1919 the cut was 34,552,076,000 board feet and in 1920 the cut was 33,798,800,000 board feet. The cut for 1921 has not yet been computed.

The statistics compiled by the United States Forest Service in 1920 show that the standing sawtimber in the United States aggregates 2,214,893,000,000 board feet, of which over half, or 1,141,031,000,000 board feet, are on the Pacific Coast and of this half nearly one-half, or 558,573,000,000 feet, is Douglas fir.

In all the Eastern States there are only 850,721,000,000 board feet and in the Rocky Mountains 223,141,000,000 board feet.

The Pacific Coast in the saddle and Douglas fir alone could support the present cut of 7,000,000,000 feet of that species for eighty years were it not for the inevitable increase of the amount cut due to falling supplies of other species. A drop in the production since 1919 of 15 per cent in yellow pine, 13 per cent in white pine and 16 per cent in spruce indicates the drain there will be on the remaining supply of Douglas fir.

WHERE THE FOREST AREA IS

Ultimately the question is not—where is the most of the remaining virgin timber—but where is the most productive forest area? as the American Forestry Association points out. When our virgin timber is gone we will have to "grow our own," since it is obviously out of the question to depend upon foreign sources of supply. The situation in this respect reveals a present forest area of 463,461,000 acres in the United States (excluding Alaska) which figures out 4.32 acres of forest land for each inhabitant.

Of the present forest area the South Atlantic and East Gulf States have 99,000,000 acres; the Lower Mississippi States 78,885,000 acres, and the Pacific Coast States 62,586,000 acres. Not all of this is productive now, in fact little more than half now bears sawtimber, but it is reasonable to expect that at least half of it can be made productive in the future.

If, then, 250,000,000 acres of forest were producing 200 board feet per acre yearly we would have 50,000,000,000 feet annually, enough to meet our prospective requirements for both domestic use and export.

This is the thing to do—now, while we still have 2,200,000,000,000 board feet of merchantable timber, sufficient to support a yearly cut of 40,000,000,000 feet for fifty-five years, make effective a national forest policy which will safeguard the future of the American lumber supply.

To go into the details of such a forest policy would carry one far afield. Various measures have been proposed and fully discussed in the various lumber trade journals. The essential thing to do is to keep a forest on the land and to reforest areas which are better suited to growing trees than for any other purpose.

CONCLUSION

The history of the lumber industry in this country shows a migratory movement from the East to the Lake States, to the South and thence to the Pacific Coast. This is its last stronghold. All this has come to pass in two generations. At present we have enough remaining timber to last perhaps two generations more. Thereafter we will have to depend for future supplies upon home-grown products. Meanwhile we will pay for our past laxity by heavy freight charges on every thousand feet of lumber shipped across the continent. Since the bulk of our people live in the East and half of our remaining timber supply is in the West, this freight charge is today in excess of what it costs to manufacture lumber on the Pacific Coast and offers a substantial margin of profit for home-grown timber of equal quality.

We have the forest land, we can keep it producing trees, we can replant such areas as are denuded. If we do not delay in adopting a proper forest policy we can assure by the practice of forestry the future of the American lumber supply. There is no other way.

WHO SETS FASHION?

Fashion and beauty have been the subject of a lecture by the Marquis de Montferrier at the Cercle de l'Union Artistique, known familiarly as the Cercle Epatant.

Where and by whom, asked M. de Montferrier, are fashions set? The question is never satisfactorily answered. Women are told, and tell each other, that "they" say this or that fashion will be worn. No closer precision is ever given. The name of some dressmaker is attached to a certain model, but whence came the inspiration to make that model is not specified. Desire for change is at the back of all fashions. No woman loves her clothes a little and for a long time. She is ever demanding something new and never has "a rag to put on her tional voice, as M. de Montferrier back." This is a classic tag, not peculiar to the women of any one country. Yet clothes have a nopointed out. It is easy to distinguish French, English or Italians, though they all may dress in Paris.

By a series of pictures thrown on the screen M. de Montferrier showed that absurdities have prevailed in fashion ever since dress has been recognised as a part of the social armor. From the days of the Bourbon kings to those of the republic typical illustrations were given of fashion's successful and unsuccessful productions. It was comforting to see how foolish women were in the days before they were emancipated. Modern models were shown by living women, and they compared favorably with those shown on the screen.—[Paris Letter in London Times Weekly.

BUTTONS AND PROMISES

Mr. Alter of Pennsylvania was doubtless surprised when he received a bill for $23—this being the cost of removing one Alter campaign button from the internal workings of a 6-year-old admirer. Whether the thrifty parent of that child will get back the money which he thus spent on behalf of the defeated candidate is a question which only Mr. Alter can now answer; but one cannot help thinking that the request for reimbursement might serve as a precedent for other attempts at recovery from political gentry. There are other things besides buttons which the credulous voters swallow at the expressed request of politicians and of which not a few do him far more harm than a mere button. Can he recover cash damages for the false theories and equally false promises with which he may have been fed? That they have a harmful physical effect in borne out to some extent by that old comment, "Hope deferred maketh the heart sick." This matter of the politician's personal responsibility perhaps deserves investigation.—[Baltimore Sun.

HOW ABOUT IT?

What strikes us as something fully 100 per cent patriotic would be a parade in honor of the unknown taxpayer.

Would other employees do any better than Congressmen if the boss only showed any interest in them once in two years?

"Is your skin an annoyance?" asks an ad. Not at all, we are only too glad to have something we can occupy without paying rent.

To be wholly effective any reform in the movies should begin with the patron who eats peanuts.

If farmers should ever again be in need of rain all they need do is to ask a few city folks to plan a picnic.

Get him some sort of a pretty button to wear and one man in ten will join any darn thing you organize.

The wonder is how Europe got along in the old days when she could bump her head without howling for America to kiss it.

One mystery in ancient history has been cleared up for us. The reason things went wrong at Babel was because Lloyd George wasn't there.—[Capper's Weekly.

HOW FLEETING IS FAME

It was just thirty years ago this month that James G. Blaine retired from public life and President Harrison appointed John W. Foster, Indiana, as Secretary of State to succeed him. Who knows much about either today, yet the names of these men were household words then.—[Capper's Weekly.

Thoughts in Passing

There is nothing ahead for the man who forgets a promise.

Happiness is something that requires practice.

Bluff travels only to the end of the road.

Wise men must eat, and fools must dine.—[Richmond Times-Dispatch.

ONLY THE FIRST STEP

A coroner's jury has laid the blame for the Herrin massacre upon the mine operators. This is only the initial step toward justice. Each wounded nonunion man should now be indicted for receiving stolen ammunition.—[New York Tribune.

The Difference

The difference between statesmen and oil wells is that some wells won't spout.—[Sedalia Capital.

PEN POINTS

Waitin' for de railroad strike to die.

Important if true—the Lusitania isn't.

It appears that the Ku Klux Klan has carried Texas, for Texas is a State of mind.

The United States Supreme Court is still supreme and what is biting the Mine Operators.

And Billie says she is not worried about Marilyn and she still loves Flo. So let it at that.

It is now believed that the Henry Ford boom for President will be able to get out of the woods by Christmas.

Gov. Len Small is no longer defending himself that he has had no time to bring the Hearst murderers to justice.

Thousands of army officers to be sent out of the service by the "plucking" board. How will the dances be managed?

The automobile blue book tells but it does not tell how to get to Arcady. Possibly just around the corner, like normalcy.

Something else to worry about is the tariff on peanuts. We get the usual dozen for a nickel no matter what the tariff is.

Some of the local press agents of the Fontaine-Whitney affair "romance." Some of the oldfashioned folk do not so designate it.

Secretary Hoover says that Russia must go to work—but the Russians are so hard of hearing punishment of the firing squad both cruel and unusual.

The Senate is now in a row over the wool duties. Has there ever been a tariff bill in which this issue has not been a bone of constant irritation?

A million marks has been offered for the apprehension of the slayers of Rathenau, but don't get excited, that is only about $1.00 in real American money.

The campaign is getting hot in Ohio and candidates for Governor are so plentiful that it is proposed to call a mass meeting of the aspirants before the polls open.

Elmer Dover, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, is out of a job, is waiting for the clouds to roll by and then will ask Mark Hanna to push 'em aside.

Numerous women candidates are appearing in various parts of the country, but it would be an interesting point in psychology to know whether they have bobbed their hair.

John D. Rockefeller says he should "look forward." If there is anything ahead of us that J. D. hasn't seen first we should like to have somebody tell us but what it is.

On account of this heat Wall street operators are going back to the farm where they will have to look for a job of shearing the lambs all over again.

Santo Domingo is to be evacuated by the marines. It was occupied during the Wilson administration, when Woodrow was making his loud talk about "unselfish termination."

The Democrats have nominated two women candidates for United States Senator, but it is to be noted where there is no chance of election—Minnesota and Wisconsin. How generous they are.

Unemployment is decreasing in the country, regardless of politics. It is a matter for rejoicing that the threatening shadow of unemployment is being driven from the country by the rising sun of prosperity.

Senator Johnson has put San Francisco to do all he can to detach the fleet from Los Angeles and remove it to San Francisco. There are two reasons for this, San Francisco needs the money and Johnson needs the votes.

While Will H. Hays is in the midst a committee ought to call on Will to the Southern Pacific and show him the open shop where flappers stood when they seemed Fatty Arbuckle was the "persecution" in the Criterion.

A lot of trouble is brewing just now between Chicago and the strikers, but old Dame Rumor seems to be having the time of her sweet young life. Old Dame in military uniform will go down the ages like an old cook stove thrown upon a dump.

Hundreds of internal revenue returns from the Los Angeles district, as far back as 1917, have yet been checked up. This is the result of the skeleton force by which the internal revenue bureau makes it necessary to do its work done at Washington, 3000 miles away, instead of in the office in Los Angeles, where the returns live. Under the present arrangement it is a matter of years before the work is completed.

The real gravamen in the proposed reformation of the movie picture business lies in the reliance that some producers, under defiance of public opinion, have featured pictures which were of doubtful moral or absolutely bad immorality there was no doubt at all. That sort of thing will probably do in some of the less enlightened continental Europe, but there its success for a good many years to be, it will not, in the long run be supported by the people of the United States.

The afternoon was given over to recreation during which the delegates went on sightseeing trips about the city and surrounding country. A song service last night, at which an address, "The Authority of Jesus," was delivered by Rev. R. H. Miller of Kansas City, Mo., was the feature, closed the day's program.

Special significance is attached to tomorrow's sessions. In addition to the reading of the report by State Superintendent C. R. Hudson on a building program, there will be an election of officers and a report on the administration of the Massie Home. The latter is to be delivered by Mrs. F. M. Rogers of Los Angeles.

Will Discuss Rail Merger Case Tonight

A mass meeting of producers, shippers and others interested in the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific divorce controversy, will be held tonight in the auditorium of the Union League Club at Third and Hill streets. Fred G. Athearn, San Francisco attorney, will be the principal speaker of the evening.

Arguments tending to prove that the separation of the lines will result in material benefits for the State and its big industries will be presented by the speaker.

Following Mr. Athearn's talk the meeting will be opened for general discussion of the controversy and those present will be permitted to express views on each side of the issue.

A short musical program will precede the speaking.

PREPARING INGLEWOOD KLAN CASE

District Attorney's Men Make Pictures and Maps for Trial

Active steps were taken yesterday for the presentation of the State's case against the thirty-seven members of the Ku Klux Klan in Judge Houser's court August 6, when the men, charged with an asserted illegal raid in Inglewood, April 22, last, are scheduled to be brought for trial. Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Doran spent the largest part of yesterday in Inglewood near the home of Fidel Elduayen. With Mr. Doran were four men from the County Surveyor's office and a photographer. Photographs and maps of the Elduayen home and the road leading to it were made.

The spot where Constable Mosher, one of the raiders, was shot and killed by Deputy City Marshal Frank Woerner and the spots where Walter Mosher, the victim's son, and Leonard Ruegg were shot by Woerner were indicated on the maps.

Paul Barksdale D'Orr will represent the thirty-seven defendants at the trial. The men are charged with assault with a deadly weapon, kidnaping and false arrest. W. S. Coburn, formerly Grand Goblin of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan on the Pacific Coast, and G. W. Price, King Kleagle of the "Invisible Empire," are among the defendants.

Through an inadvertence a news story printed in The Times on the 26th inst., stated the defendants were charged with murder of Constable Mosher. This is incorrect. The Inglewood raiders are charged with false imprisonment, kidnaping and assault with a deadly weapon. The Times, on its own initiative, is taking this means of making the proper correction.

CADMAN TO ENTERTAIN

At the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 929 South Hope street, tonight, a concert and talk on Indian music will be given by Charles Wakefield Cadman, assisted by Margaret Messer Morris, soprano, and Doris June Struble, entertainer. The entertainment is free to all Scottish Rite Masons and their families.

KLANS ARE SUSPENDED BY PRICE

Taft, Bakersfield Action is Ordered by Hooded Body's Officials

Temporary suspension of the Taft and Bakersfield Klans was announced yesterday by G. W. Price, King Kleagle for California of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The charters have not been revoked, Mr. Price said. The suspension, he announced, was ordered by the Klan officials after an investigation that show the two Klans have admitted persons who misunderstood the aims of the organization. Both Klans, Mr. Price said, will resume activity when the conditions in them show an improvement.

The Invisible Empire's decision to suspend the Taft Klan came a month after a jury in the Kern county Superior Court found that J. H. Vitelle, at one time Exalted Cyclops of the Taft Klan, and members of the Taft Klan had tortured and beaten Dr. Dwight R. Mason, a Taft physician. Vitelle was sent to the San Quentin penitentiary. In the Bakersfield Klan case one of the members was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon in an act of asserted Klan activity, and three other Klansmen, including the Exalted Cyclops, are now awaiting trial.

Valentino Finds Motoring Most Costly Pastime

Just to show to some extent what it costs to own an automobile, Rodolph Valentino, cinema star, was charged with a bill of $2262.05 by a Pasadena motor company. When he apparently disputed the bill suit was brought by the motor company through an assigned claim. Yesterday a notice to dismiss the suit was filed in the County Clerk's office. The bill covers repairs for four years, the complaint states.

TO SING TONIGHT

Port Official Given Pretty Silk Pajamas

Edgar McKee, president of the Harbor Commission, is now in the same class as the film stars. He has silk pajamas. This interesting slant on the harbor boss's private life was made known yesterday when he exhibited a box of filmy garments, with engraved cards attached to them.

At first glance the names were almost a puzzle, but it later developed, upon close examination, that they were the names of Consul Ujiro Oyama, local representative of the Japanese government, and Vice-Admiral N. Tanigachi, in charge of the Japanese Training Squadron which recently called at Los Angeles Harbor.

The vice admiral, in return for courtesies extended to him by President McKee while the squadron was here, sent the silk pajamas to the harbor boss yesterday, through Consul Oyama.

ECZEMA IN RASH CUTICURA HEALS

Face Disfigured. Itched and Burned. Never Slept.

"Eczema started on my cheek and forehead and began working up into my hair. It broke out in a rash and as I scratched and irritated it, it became blisters and spread rapidly. It disfigured my face badly and itched and burned until I was nearly wild. I never slept at night.

"I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The first treatment relieved me and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Freeman P. Griggs, Box 61, Greer, Idaho.

Use Cuticura for all toilet purposes.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

People and Their Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column.

WHAT THEY TALK ABOUT

The Flapper: Belle Carey had her hair bobbed yesterday, and, my dear, I wish you could see her. She's a scream! Of course she doesn't know it, but it actually makes her look highbrow! You know, with her big spectacles and all that. Of course, when she finds out what has happened to her she'll sim-ply die!

The College Woman: My older boy is at Princeton now, and my girl is going to Smith this autumn—if she gets in. Of course, she's terribly excited about it, and so am I. You know what the present tests are. And 1200 girls are up for admission and only 600 girls can be taken. So you see —

The Housewife: All this talk about reduced prices annoys me. Do you know how much I am paying for chicken? Sixty cents a pound—just what I paid during the war. And the other day my butcher actually asked me sixty cents a pound for liver! Of course, I didn't take any. There was a time when one could economize on fish, but nowadays fish costs just as much as meat. Do you think prices will ever get back to normal?

THAT MISSING NECKLACE

The Society Woman: Well, Josephine Candee has lost her necklace at last, just as I have been warning her for months she would do. She couldn't pick up a newspaper without reading about how clever the criminals were getting, and how it isn't even safe to get into a taxicab with anything valuable on. Yet Josephine wore her pearl necklace every time she ran into town from her country place, for a matinee or a luncheon, though any one could see at a glance that they were worth a little fortune. The other day she went to a bargain sale in a crowded shop, and when she came out her necklace was gone. But what else could she expect—these days?

THE AUTOCRAT

The Cook: No, ma'am, I says to her, not one cent less will I take than I'm gettin' right now. Them that wants to pay less can pay it, I says to her, if they can find anyone to take it, which they can't, I says. But I've had my sixty a month for the last four years, I says to her, an' have it I will while I work, I says. An' them that ain't willin' to pay it, I says, can go down to the ships, I says, an' see how few is comin' over from the other side, I says, an' how many is waitin' to grab them, I says. An' what did she say thin? Niver a word!

The New Voter: Of course what I really ought to do this summer is to take one of our club courses in citizenship. I've been meaning to do it ever since we got the vote. Every one of my children had the measles this spring, and Jack had the grip, and the maid we had so long has just demanded more wages and left because we couldn't give them to her, so I don't expect to have a minute. But what is this menace they're talking about if Blank is nominated? I suppose I really ought to find out before I vote!

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Life Everywhere

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the splendid article that appeared a few days ago, by Prof. Knight, he takes the position that only our earth within our solar system is inhabited, and gives reasons that cannot be refuted; but this is true only from his view-point. He was referring to beings of flesh and blood texture like ourselves. For such beings, and the animal creation and the plant kingdom, the other worlds are either too hot or too cold, or other conditions make it impossible for such forms of life to exist. As Mr. Knight is a scientist it is quite natural to confine himself to material forms, for naturalists recognize only matter and force. But matter exists within space in different degrees of attenuation from solid crystallization to the most refined ether; and force, which is expressed by the nucleus, accordingly manifests on the various planes indicated thereby. There are beings of etheric forms or bodies such as the glorified body of the risen Christ, called by Paul "Soul Bodies," which may exist on worlds of any degree of heat or cold, even on Mercury, lying hugged up to the Sun, or Neptune, lying farthest out from the sun. The ether of space resists both heat and cold, and bodies composed of this can live anywhere.

Take our earth, for example, in its various stages of unfoldment. At first it was a ball of fire, as is the sun today, but there was life upon it, the bodies of which were composed of the finest state of ether.

What has been true of life upon the earth during the various stages of its unfoldment, is true of the other worlds composing our solar system. Indeed all suns and worlds and satellites throughout the Milky Way are inhabited by beings whose bodies are capable of enduring the conditions. This accords with the evolution idea, that minerals evolve into plants, plants into animals and animals into humans, and this process is forever repeating itself, forever advancing around the great spiral toward the apex. GEORGE T. WEAVER.

Sob Stuff

LOS ANGELES, July 17, 1922—[To the Editor of The Times:] Ghastly and horrible as our recent notorious murder seems to be, nothing is so disgusting and deplorable as some of the sickening sob stories now being printed in one or two of our evening papers.

For the sake of a few miserable dollars the authors of this wretched slush feast upon human depravity and prey upon the morbid sentimentality of the feeble-minded, and then have the colossal egotism to call themselves "writers."

We have heard of ambulance chasers and I think that sensational scandal mongers would fittingly describe some of these parasites of society.

CHARLES D. HUNT.

A Plea for the Dog

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Be fair to the animals. We do not kill a horse if he bites; we cannot even punish a child who bites.

It is the natural act of defense, but if dogs are teased or taught to be rough, biting is an offense that dog enemies make the most of. Killing the dog does not help unless it is vicious or there is a reasonable fear of madness. There is a superstitious idea that if a dog bites one and some distant day goes mad, the person bitten will become mad, which could only happen were the dog developing hydrophobia at the time.

Why do we not have drinking water for birds, cats and dogs? It is a duty to the helpless. Perhaps we are responsible for the troubles that fall on these poor creatures because man is too selfish to regulate their birth or provide care only for a return of dollars or service. Because of power, a friend is betrayed.

The Kansas City Star of middle June tells of a Nebraska Collie leaping into a doghouse to rescue his master, badly bitten and almost scalped by vicious hogs.

Another dog, Buster, a Chicago Bulldog, accused as vicious, at a whistle jumped from his chair and greeting the bailiff and judge with affection hopped back to his chair. In a few minutes came the verdict, "Discharged."

How often we read of these alert burglar and fire alarms, which not only warn but fight and rescue.

What about the foxtail and wild oats, a menace to dogs and children, too? Do we like these irritating weeds in our yards, broadcasted from vacant lots? No man liveth to himself, and our fellow-animals are superior animals often, since knowledge is both good and evil. LENORA FITCH.

On Evolution

TULARE, July 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me to answer articles in your paper by individuals that "there is no conflict between Religion and Science."

Science is materialistic and religion is faith, so they are almost diametrically opposed. As to the ethics or morality of religions, that is surely in conflict with the law "of survival of the fittest." In the animal realm there is incessant warfare, no armistice day. There are a thousand religions but only one morality, so a person can be moral (which is usually the reasonable course) and yet have no faith. Later discoveries of lower forms of man and higher of apes and gorrillas have out-Darwined Darwin if he was searching for the "missing link." Also the human embyro goes through all the stages of the lowest form of cells of animal life and it has been found that during such embryo stage the human foetus has openings on both sides of the neck, like gills in the fishes, but which are closed before birth, also the ears during above stage are pointed like a fox and sometimes turned down like a canine. The Bible says we are dust, is not the lowest form of animal or even vegetable life higher than dust?

Humans like to believe themselves demi-gods and separate sets of creation from the vertibrates (in their arrogance) but there would be better understanding among humans if otherwise.

DAVID JAMESON.

Sets Us Right

TAKILMA (Or.) July 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Having been for some twenty years interested in firearms and having served nearly four years in the capacity of firearms experimental officer in the United States Army, I have to confess in that capacity of my experience I have never seen an "automatic revolver," although such a weapon was produced years ago for a short time by a British firm.

Likewise I have never seen an automatic pistol or revolver which fired as long as one held back the trigger—if a well-conducted pistol, and one that is not promptly empties itself in a space of less than a second, preventing the firer from letting go because he hasn't time.

Another thing that interests me and which you can doubtless more easily explain than you can this "extraordinary" weapon from Santa Ana is why the average newspaper scribe takes such deep pride in his abysmal ignorance of all sorts of firearms, when firearms play so heavy a part in crime and have to be commented upon in nearly every issue.

The "automatic revolver" runs a close race with the "steel-jacket" bullet, both being quite as common in this country as hair from a frog or teeth from the hen. One would think that a draft might have caught some of these people, and so added to their knowledge of lethal weapons, but apparently either the draft missed them because of flat feet—or head—or they were assigned to the quartermaster corps.

This thrilling account is quite typical of the average newspeprs used in telling of a firearm. Obviously is it laughable bunk.

It is a remarkable fact that while a newspaper reporter doesn't ordinarily say that the unfortunate victim was run over by a four-cylinder horse and wagon or that the street car was wrecked by a battleship backing down the Southern Pacific tracks on Alameda street, he invariably burbles about automatic revolvers and steel-jacket bullets, not to mention other equally accurate details.

Permit me to suggest that you add to your index expurgatorious the following:

"Automatic revolver" — no such animal. Either a revolver or automatic pistol.

"Steel-jacket bullet." None made in America, rarely found on some foreign-made ammunition for foreign pistols. If necessary to describe say "copper-nickel" or "cupro-nickel" or German silver, which is the trade name, or still more simply and just as accurately, "copper jacketed." If they are not jacketed with steel, why say steel?

EDWARD C. CROSSMAN.

A Suggestion

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May I suggest adoption of a law or at least an ordinance to prohibit the manufacture and sale of hammers? THOMAS GILMAN.

Question: Who owns the Banff golf course? C. H. H.

Answer: It is owned and managed by the Canadian government. Situated nearly a mile above sea level, it is one of the most picturesque links in the world.

Q.: Who has charge of the Republican Congressional campaign this year? O. C. T.

A.: Three committees are cooperating in the management of the Republican campaign for 1922—the Republican National Committee, of which John T. Adams of Iowa, is chairman; the Republican Congressional Committee, of which Representative Woods, of Indiana, is chairman; and the Republican Senatorial Committee, of which Senator Medill McCormick, of Illinios, is chairman.

Q.: Where are the best grass lands in Europe? A. S.

A.: The Bureau of Plant Industry says that probably the best grass lands are in Northern France.

Q.: Is it possible to detect a defective fruit jar cover? D. G.

A.: Screw the top on the jar without the rubber. If the thumb nail can be inserted between the cover and the glass, the top is usually defective.

Q.: Who invented the Cherokee alphabet? L. W. K.

A.: Sequoia, a chief of one of these tribes, is credited with its invention.

Q.: In planning a waterworks system what is the basis for figuring how much water is required for a city in proportion to the population? M. R. L.

A.: Engineers do not agree upon this point, the estimates varying from 100 to 150 gallons per day for each resident of the district to be supplied, at the expiration of twenty years from the inauguration of the supply. The prospective population is estimated from the records of the past growth of the district and the growth of districts of similar character.

Q.: What is the largest weed known? P. P. D.

A.: The kind of seaweed known as kelp is said to be the largest, or at least the longest, in the world, sometimes attaining a length of 1500 feet.

Buttonlath

Builds Walls That Will Not Rust, Crack or Stain

There is no metal in this super lathing substitute to rust and deteriorate. Neither is there any wood to swell and buckle and ultimately crack the surface.

Buttonlath is made in tough, uniform sheets of various sizes. It is a special plastic composition compressed between layers of heavy water-proof paper. Thousands of little plastic buttons jut out from the surface. They give the plaster a rigid grip—welding the wall and mortar together. The effect is a positive chemical union. It is economical because it requires less time, labor and materials.

EW TENDLER IS DEFEATED BY BENNY LEONARD IN GRUELLING BATTLE

AMP WINS BY SMALL MARGIN

ed by Challenger in Early Rounds

Obvious Edge When rid Affair Ends

e to Ask for Another Chance at Crown

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JERSEY CITY, July 27. — Benny Leonard, lightweight boxing champion, successfully defended his title against Lew Tendler of Philadelphia in a ten-round no-decision bout tonight, earning in the opinion of a majority of sports at the ringside a narrow victory over a great struggle.

Tendler, the challenger, a left-hander, carried the champion the most gruelling combat Leonard has had since he turned back Willie Ritchie many years ago. Starting with great confidence and still carried the fight to the champion. He pummeled Leonard with stiff lefts to the body and many rights to the head and brought blood to the champion's nose early. It appeared in the opinion of the rounds that Tendler would have things all his own way.

COMES TO LIFE

Leonard steadied himself and began to find a mark. He carried the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds by a burst of speed. In the seventh round his mouth bumped against his chamber and he lost a tooth.

Tendler found Tendler on the nose again. After taking a right to the jaw and another which hurt, he fought Leonard to all quarters and swung a number of hard lefts to the jaw. Leonard's nose sagged and he appeared to have himself. From then on the champion took few chances.

The fight was an even round affair, the last three Leonard appeared to have a shade. When it was over the champion, battered and bruised perhaps more than he has been at any time since he won the title from Freddie Welsh, in 1917, said that his eyes are hard to see.

During his training he had predicted Tendler's pugilistic record and predicted that he would defeat Philadelphian within the limit. Tendler, too, had declared he would win by a knockout or he had nothing to say tonight.

Leonard, on his dressing room, made this statement to the boxing writers who gave it to the press:

"Tendler in the first round hurt me with a left hook that rattled me in the head. The blow had me groggy for four rounds. I am anxious for a 15-round decision bout with Tendler."

When Tendler was shown this statement, he smiled and stated that his manager, Phil Glassman, would speak for him.

Glassman said:

"Everyone who saw the fight is satisfied that Tendler pounded Leonard's eye with a punch. Why didn't he squawk when he claimed Tendler butted him in the eye, as that is the only round in which he didn't squawk.

"Tendler will gladly box Leonard for a decision, for I am sure he can do much better, as he did not do as he expected—knock him out."

Newspaper men about the ring differed to some extent in their opinions. The majority appeared to favor Leonard at the end of the bout, although some declared for a draw. Tendler had the better of the first five rounds, but Leonard finished strongly.

Leonard was asked why he did not knock out Tendler, and replied with a blood-smeared grin: "Southpaws are hard to solve."

JESSIE GRIEVE ENTERS FINALS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA (Neb.) July 27.—Miss Louise Hamman of Kansas City, and Miss Jessie Grieve of Los Angeles, will meet in the finals Saturday for the Missouri Valley singles tennis championship by virtue of winning their semifinal matches at the Omaha Field Club courts here today.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS

Round 1—Tendler led with a right, but was short and Benny danced around the ring. Benny rapped Lew on the ear with a right-hand punch as Lew missed another left to the stomach. Benny landed another right to the mouth. Tendler landed a right on Benny's head and then shot a short left hook to the champion's stomach. They clinched. Tendler sinking three left punches to Leonard's mid-section. Tendler missed a hard swing for the head. Tendler nearly fell through the ropes after missing a left swing to the champion's head. The two danced into a clinch, Benny getting home some good punches to the body. Tendler dove low into Benny's stomach and then floored a left to Leonard's face, cutting a deep gash. Tendler was forcing it at the bell.

Round 2—Leonard defied away as Tendler drove a vicious left lead on into his head. Lew forced Leonard to the ropes and rapped him with a right to the stomach. The champion landed a hard right on Tendler's face as Lew missed a left try for the stomach. Leonard landed a left lead to Tendler's face, but the Philadelphian was back with two stinging jolts to the stomach. Tendler once more forced Leonard to the ropes and repaid him with hard rights and lefts to the stomach. Benny sent Lew's head back with a straight left to the mouth. Then Benny missed a past right try for the head. The champion forced Lew into a neutral corner and got home two rights to the body. Tendler landed a left on Benny's cheek in a clinch that followed. Tendler appeared to have the better of the exchanges.

Round 3—Both mixed rights to the face. Tendler sent a right to Leonard's wind and then Benny rocked the Quaker with a short right to the face. Tendler was cautioned for hitting low in a clinch. Benny drove a hard right straight for Tendler's mouth and a moment later sent a left to Lew's chin. Benny jabbed Lew with a left to the mouth and they rushed into a clinch. Lew missed two

GRAPPLERS CAN'T AGREE

Miller and Meyers Quarreling Over Referee for Their Championship Mat Struggle

After conferring for more than an hour yesterday, Johnny Meyers, Walter Miller and their representatives, failed to agree on a referee for their match, which will definitely decide the world's middleweight wrestling championship. The gymnasium of the Los Angeles Athletic Club is the site chosen for the battle and it will take place next Thursday night.

This is the second obstacle that has developed since the first talk of matching the two star grapplers. When the match was being arranged the big question of weight held up the proceedings for several days, and after this situation had been clarified an attempt was made to name a referee, but to no avail.

There are at least four or five prospective choices for the open berth of referee and each is well qualified to handle the ticklish job. Just who will be selected is still an unknown matter and unless the contestants and their representatives arrive at a decision within two days of the match the matter will revert to the hands of officials of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Four prospects, however, have been named, two by Meyers and two by Miller. The former is willing to grapple under the watchful eyes of Paul Prehn or "Snowy" Baker. Miller has submitted the names of George Retzer and Pat Higgins.

The ability of Higgins and Retzer to handle the job in an expert manner is well known to local sportsmen, for they have officiated at numerous wrestling matches in the past. They are both conversant with the rules of the game and each has acquitted himself in good order in former mat battles.

Prehn is a Middle West wrestler, who has met both Meyers and Miller in previous clashes. Baker has never officiated at a wrestling match here and that is the sole objection to him as registered by Miller. Nevertheless, Baker and Prehn are both capable men as they, too, have done considerable wrestling.

While both sides are at a deadlock on the referee question, Meyers and Miller are hitting the high spots in their training. When these two mat warriors meet next Thursday night they will be greeted by one of the largest wrestling audiences that has ever gathered here, declared Charley Keppen who announced that there is an increasing demand for seats.

HOPPE WINS DECISION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MODESTO, July 27. — Willie Hoppe of San Francisco, after four rounds of fierce fighting was awarded the decision over Cyclone Gavvy of Newman, at Crow's Landing last night. "Wild Cat" Henry Borba, Crow's Landing, won the decision over Lee Anderson, colored, of Sacramento, in a slashing bout.

Walter Miller Gets an Eyeful

Spying at a rival's camp is an ancient practicein football circles, but now it seems to have invaded the realms of the wrestling game. Here is shown Walter Miller, the Los Angeles Athletic Club grappler, who claims the world's middleweight championship, peering over the fence at Johnny Meyers, who is applying some kind of a hold on a training partner. Meyers, who hails from Chicago, is also a claimant of the disputed title, and will meet the local wrestler at the Mercury club next Thursday night.

Kinsey Defeats Voshell After Terrific Struggle

Mrs. Bundy Meets Miss Wagner for Women's Title

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco were the successful semifinalists in today's play of the Metropolitan Lawn Tennis championships and will meet in the final round tomorrow.

Kinsey, to win from S. Howard Voshell, Brooklyn, and Richards to defeat Zenzo Shimidzu of Japan were forced to play five sets, each developing some of the finest tennis seen during the week on the courts of the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn.

Richards won 7-5, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4. Kinsey's score was 4-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

In the third round of the doubles play Alex Iller and Murray Vernon were eliminated by V. B. Havens and L. Seabury, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3. In the fourth round William Tilden and his youthful partner A. L. Weinert defeated L. G. French and Hugh Oakby 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Following is the point score:

Voshell	106	11	001	111	6
Kinsey	440	00	110	000	4
Voshell	105	11	001	111	6

Voshell	444	40	10

In the women's New York State championship singles at Green Meadow Country Club, Harrison, Miss Wagner of Yonkers, Metropolitan indoor champion, sprang a surprise today when she defeated Miss Margaret Gove of New York, tenth ranking player in the country, 6-7, 6-2, 6-2, and qualified to meet Mrs. May Sutton Bundy tomorrow afternoon in the upper semifinal.

SIR CHARLES AFTER RECORD ON PLATFORM

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, July 27.—Charles W. Paddock, Pasadena's sprinter-extraordinary, is going on the lecture platform.

The holder of most of the world's records in short distance running announced today that he had signed a contract for a six-weeks, speaking tour in 1923 with the Dominion Chautauquas, Ltd., of Canada, which may be continued for another six weeks if Paddock's larynx has as much speed as his heels. The speaking tour, in any event, will keep Paddock out of the track team which the University of Southern California is gathering for an Eastern invasion in 1923 and decrease that institution's chances for success in the national intercollegiate meet.

Paddock's contract calls for forty-two addresses, each an hour long, which will be on the general subject of clean athletics as related to clean living. Paddock has spoken on this subject in many Southern California churches the past year. His tour is expected to take him into many communities of the United States along the border as well as Canada.

"Bill" Heaves One of Best Games of Year

Big Fellow Has Visitors in Palm of Hand

San Francisco Sluggers Are Shy With Stick

BY ED O'MALLEY

Bearing down with pennant-winning energy, the revivified Tigers ciphered the Seals yesterday afternoon to the glorious harmony of 2 to 0. Vernon had Goliath on the knoll in the form of Bill James and it came to pass that the visitors sported no David to memorialize biblical history.

"Bill" was like the famous English equine monarch—"Eclipse first, and the rest nowhere." The stalwart heaver was at his best, pitching with a happy valiancy all through the featureless combat (his own efforts excepted) and hanging the San Francisco sluggers on the peg of his cleverness in tantalizing sequence.

WILLIE THERE

The God of Chance always has his little chirp in all species of sport and he chirped yesterday in the person of that monetary monstrosity, Master Willie Kamm. The lad whom the White Sox's coffers made famous, had a direct line of vision on several of Jame's air scorchers and he pummeled them with vengeful energy. One of the rifles flitted with comet speed almost beyond the reach of Ping Bodie, but the old war horse glombed it with Speaker precision, getting a hearty hand for his alacrity.

The other darted with the celerity of a Parthian arrow toward Hughie High, who soon put a stop to its aerial invasion. Apart from these two ponderous blows, both of which met an untimely end, "Big Bill's" delivery met with little maltreatment. Of the two hits registered against him only one had a genuine hall mark on it—that of Ellison's in the sixth which soared over Sawyer's head just a little too high for Carl to get his comical mitts on it.

SCRATCH HIT

Kilduff's poke in the second was a scratch single—which darted capriciously to the right of French, compelling Ray to make an instinctive flash of his right hand. A slight fumble followed. Had the ball held true to its course, Kilduff would undoubtedly have been thrown out to Hyatt. Taking all things into consideration, James chucked the best article of horsehide we have seen this year. He had splendid control, despite the fact that he passed four Seals. His smoker had a blinding dazzle to it and his sharp curve was as elusive as an Irishman's flea.

Seals to the number of seven cut shreds in the ozone. Bill's tour de force bobbed up in the eighth inning when he fanned three of the league's best batters in succession. Pete Compton, batting for McWeeny, was the first victim. Pete took three Babe Ruth swishes at the laughing apple only to throw his arm sockets almost out of place in causing the air to intone a mournful gasp. Two up steps Kelly who, besides being a great sticker, has the added dignity of often being mistaken for that old jolly jack tar Hap O'Conner.

FOOLISH LUNGES

Kelly took two perspiring lunges at the kidding onion. He then pulled away from the plate and laved enough spittle on his hands and bat to move the Story Building

CANADIAN TRIUMPHS OVER SUHR

California Racketer is Defeated in Vancouver Tennis Event

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 27.—The defeat of Herbert Suhr, crack California player, by B. Rhodes of Vancouver in straight sets was the feature of today's round in the Mainland tennis championships playoff here. As play draws on to the semi-finals it becomes apparent that United States participants will each the playoff in nearly every class.

In the men's singles Marion, Laisure and De Turenne won their matches today.

In the ladies' singles Mrs. Dyamond of Vancouver is the only Canadian to reach the semi-finals, which will be played tomorrow.

In the mixed doubles Mrs. Simonne Bourque and Villegas will represent the Seattle contingent in tomorrow's play.

BANKERS IN HOT FIGHT

With two more games to be played in the Bankers' City League, a hot fight for the pennant is on between the First National Bank, the Farmers and Merchants and the Hellman Bank. The First National, with 1000 per cent average, leads by two games. Saturday afternoon at White Sox Park, it will play the Farmers and Merchants, now in second place.

YANKEES MAY NOW TRAVEL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 27.—The American League club owners, meeting today, agreed to allow any American League player to participate in exhibition games after the close of the regular season, provided he obtains permission of his club owner and Judge Landis.

The change in the rules is a result of the trouble in which Babe Ruth and two of his Yankee team-mates found themselves last season.

AUTO POLOISTS TO SERVE THRILLS HERE

The sensation of sensations, auto polo, the world's greatest and newest sport, will thrill all Los Angeles when the Pacific champions, the best team in the West, and the British championship team, former champions of the world, meet August 26 in the first match of the series that they are to play to decide the Coast winner for this year. The invaders are strongly equipped with a fast offense play and will give the western team a fight for honors.

The polo games will last until September 9 and will furnish enough thrills and spills to last the ordinary man a lifetime. They will be played at Exposition Park during the Pageant of Progress.

PLAN LONG OCEAN RACE FOR BOATS

Schooners to Make Dash South from Santa Barbara Club

Another added event will be put on during the regatta of the Southern California Yachting association, which starts August 6 at Newport Harbor. This was learned yesterday from Dr. Albert Soiland, admiral of yachting body.

The event will come in the nature of a long winded ocean race for schooners, yawls and ketches from the Santa Barbara Yacht to the Newport Yacht Club, which organization is to act as host during the regatta.

A beautiful trophy to be put up by the Yachting Association will go to the winner of the event. Admiral Soiland received a wire yesterday from the Santa Barbara Yacht Club, saying that five of the larger type sailing craft will contend. This includes the Viva, Caprice, Zahma and Haida.

This should prove to be one of the best events of the four days of competition. The ships will carry crews of from six to ten men, while the distance between the two points is about 130 miles. With good winds the ships should cover the distance in from ten to fifteen hours.

The Greater Santa Monica Club is to put up a beautiful trophy in the international R-boat race. This is also an added attraction and makes three races, where the fast becoming popular R boats are to contend. The other will be in the race for the Isherman trophy of Seattle and another trophy not yet named.

HIGAMI IS WINNER AT JIU JITSU GAME

Tsutao Higami, star jiu jitsu wrestler of Japan, won over George Payton, champion jiu jitsu grappler of Europe, at the Union League Club gymnasium Wednesday night before a packed house of enthusiast. The men wrestled in twenty-minute periods with five minutes' rest between periods. In the third period, after sixteen minutes and four seconds of wrestling, Higami secured a strangle hold and made Payton wave his hand in token of submission. The men wrestled the remainder of the third period without another fall. Higami having won a fall in the time limit, he was declared the winner. He was the aggressor most of the journey.

VIERRA AND BROWN TO TANGLE UP

Griffin Meets Rubidoux in Semi-Wind-up at Legion Hollywood Arena Tonight

Benny Vierra, the Oakland 130-pounder, who claims the junior lightweight title of the Coast, will hold forth in the principal jamboree at the American Legion Hollywood arena tonight. Young Brown will be his opponent, and according to the dopesters along the Rialto, will give the commuter a rather rough time. Vierra hasn't overlooked a bet in preparation for tonight's battle, and is determined to finish his foeman in short order.

"Dandy Dick" Griffin has drawn Ad Rubidoux of San Bernardino, for a date in the semi-wind-up. Matchmaker Frank Crowley purposely selected Rubidoux because of his ring style. Both 118-pounders resort to the same ring tactics and should put up a whale of a scrap.

Charley Sullivan, the hard-hitting 138-pounder, is expected to run into a Tartar when he faces Billy Alger tonight in the feature preliminary affair. Jimmy Barry and Soldier Burke, a pair of slugging light-heavies, are also down on tonight's card. Georgie Rivers and Bud Garber, 116-pounders of note, will also appear, as will Jim Conley and Battling Lee, 160-pound mittmen.

Burt Lynch, the pride of the studios, a member of the Hollywood Legion post, will make his second start against Young Sol. Lynch has a large following and with the splendid card offered for tonight, Manager Roy Marshall should hang out the old "sold out" placard early. George Blake will referee.

SARAZEN AND AGEN TO MEET ONCE MORE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Gene Sarazen of Pittsburg, American open golf champion, and Walter Hagen of Detroit, British open titleholder, will meet for the first time since the Skokie tournament, when they play in a thirty-six hole foursome Saturday over the links of the Norwood Golf Club, Long Branch, N. J.

Hagen will have Joe Kirkwood, former Australian open champion, as his partner and Sarazen will be paired with George Fotheringham, Norwood professional.

Angels Again Win by Handing Acorns Doughnuts

CRANDALL TOO GOOD FOR OAKS

Old Doc Twirls in Usual Steady Manner

Kills Off Claude Cooper's Try at Record

Angels Give Veteran Heaver Perfect Support

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Doc Crandall in his calm, methodical way, not only beat the Oaks, 3-0, today at Oakland, but he also halted a hitting streak that was being carefully nursed by Claud Cooper. Claud had hit safely in twenty-two successive games, and was all set to go after the record set by Jack Ness a few years ago, when he bumped into old Doc and stopped right there. Claud tried to beat out a bunt in the first inning, but old Doc was on the job, and nailed Don Brown trying to go home.

Cooper forced Brown at second in the third round, old Doc again being the man who handled the ball. Cooper struck out in the sixth and rolled to Griggs in the eighth, so his batting streak was all shot full of holes. The Oaks had a swell chance to get a running start in the first inning, but old Doc foiled them.

GETS A HIT

Brown got a hit and stole second and took third when Willie hit safely. Then it was that Cooper bunted and old Doc caught Brown between third and home. Lafayette smacked the ball hard, but old Doc came up with it and threw the big Frenchman out at first. Knight ended the promising round with a roller to Lindimore.

Brubaker made a couple of boots in the second that allowed Twombly to score the first run. In the first Brubaker let Griggs boot a hit and Killefer crossed the plate. In the fifth Killefer opened with a hit; he was bunted to second after Deal had struck out. Griggs was passed. Twombly then made good with a hit to right, and Radiant Red scored.

The Angels gave old Doc perfect support and looked nice and steady behind his foxy pitching. Score:

JAMES MOPS UP THE SEALS

from its moorings with the aid of a fulcrum. As he stepped again into a batting stance, Bill shot a scorcher over that double convex lenses would have been unable to visualize. The Byronic hand came down with a determined gesture synchronizing admirably with a detonating "strike." The word "strike" almost tore Kelly's ear drums asunder.

He turned a mask of ferocity on the Lord—gritted his molars and swung his Hap O'Conner close to the tip of his nose. A right hook, straight from the shoulder almost blossomed in his heated medulla, but quickly dissolved when Kelly saw a portentous fine glaring in Byron's eye. He therefore turned his enflamed form toward the dugout and sloshed forward on the long walk. Master Valla, whom northern propagandists have transmuted almost into another $100,000 bait to snap at, bootlessly shot his pent up strength at three mysteries, thus bringing to an inglorious end (from a Seal's viewpoint) one of the cleverest hitless-wonder innings ever seen on the Coast.

McWeeny mounded for the league leaders. He pitched excellently throughout the game except in the second inning when the Bengals mussed him up for two runs in the following efficient manner:

Bodie walked. Hyatt busted a torrid one at Kilduff who made a marvelous stop of what looked to be a three-bagger to right center. How the little runt got to the ball no one will ever know, but in executing the stop he splashed flat on his stomach and face. The fall precluded a timely throw to first. Sawyer tried a little sacrificing, but made a sorry job of it to McWeeny, who threw to Kamm in time to force Bodie.

French rapped the first ball over for a half circle single to left, scoring Hyatt, who ran as if pursued by the witches in Macbeth. If Ham ever runs that fast again the air will catch fire back of him and incinerate his heels. Hannah, a moment later, lifted another single to left, shooting Sawyer over the plate. James struck out and Chadbourne flied to Valla.

The nearest the visitors came to saluting the rubber occurred in the second canto. After O'Connell had gone out, French to Hyatt, and Rhyne had fouled to Hannah, that little marplot Kilduff hit one too hot for French to handle effectively. Pete took a good lead off first, drawing a throw from Hannah. Hannah seemed to take a peg at the Einstein theory, for the old apple sailed over Hyatt's head clear to the right field bleachers. Kilduff ambling to third. Yelle was an easy out, Sawyer to Hyatt.

Hap O'Conner's version of the game was, that James had the old Seals plate shy and this about sums up the entire situation. The glad tidings follow:

SEABRIGHT EVENT NEXT

NEW YORK, July 27.—Seeded players in the invitational tennis tournament at Seabright, N. J., next week are William M. Johnston, Watson M. Washburn, R. Norris Williams, II, and Vincent Richards, all Americans and Zenzo Shimidzu, Japanese, and Gerald L. Patterson, Pat O'Hara Wood and J. O. Anderson of the Australian Davis cup team.

The effect of the arrangement is that these men will meet in the closing rounds providing they are not previously eliminated. Other entrants include Dean Mathey, S. H. Voshell, W. A. Larned, S. Kaship, Francis T. Hunter, Lawrence B. Rice, W. W. Niles, Robert Kinsey, Howard Kinsey, and Leonard Beekman.

William T. Tilden II, national champion, probably will not compete in accordance with his plan to rest in order to be in the best possible condition for the Davis cup matches.

Both the first and second rounds of the men's singles will be played Monday afternoon and the first round of the women's singles Monday morning. On the men's side, W. M. Johnston, California, will meet S. W. Pearson, Philadelphia, starting the tournament.

Other Monday matches are Vincent Richards, New York vs. Dwight Davis, Washington; Gerald L. Patterson, Australia, vs. J. F. W. Whitbeck, New York; J. C. A. Anderson, Australia vs. J. B. Fenno, Boston, and Zenzo Shimizu, Japanese vs. the winner of the Carl Fischer Cedric, a major match.

SAC HITTERS BATTER THREE BEE HURLERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, July 27.—Sacramento got in some heavy stick work today and won from the Salt Lake Bees, 15 to 7. Thurston, Betts and Blaeholder all looked alike to the Senators and they rapped their offerings to all corners of the lot. Penner was hit freely during the first few innings, but he settled down and pitched a good game. The score:

SPORT SHRAPNEL

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Anonymous correspondents, meaning the bushwhackers who take their pen in hand and write to the newspapers, but lack nerve to sign name, should be consistent by sending their communications in on thin, perforated paper. From time to time I receive these, roasting players, managers and owners, but as a rule publish only those aimed at myself. Here is a fair sample:

"Mr. Williams: Reading you schrapnel column on the 20th referring to the Ping Bodie affair that happened the day previous, you seemed to resort to sarcasm and also hate for the Vernon club which you can't hide in your writings."

Lots of news in that letter. First place, we don't spell it "schrapnel" in this country, although there is a "c" in schnoppe if you know where to find 'em. Second place Ping Bodie affair has never been discussed in Shrapnel Column. Thanks for any letter that will give our many readers a laugh first thing in morning.

Interested in a baseball game played in China? I am, through a paper sent to me from Shanghai by Harry Kingman, former Pomona College star. The game was between the University of California and a team from the United States fleet. Here are a few extracts from the paper received:

"The California collegians, with Harry Kingman, an old-time U. of C. man in their line-up, beat the selected all-American fleet nine yesterday by a score of 3 to 0 in what was certainly the best game of baseball seen in this port this year. The game went scoreless until the ninth. Kingman made the win possible by his heavy hitting.

"The fleet team was held to a shut-out by the wonderful twirling of Mitchell for the visitors. Hopkins, hurling for the sailors, worked his usual brilliant game, but three bunched hits for six bases in the ninth beat him.

"In the very last inning, when Petrasek, pinch hitting for Lydon, drove a flying drive into deep center, the stands were up on their feet in expectation of a well-earned homer with the possibility of a batting rally and a tied score. But Bowen tore after the ball, and with a wonderful one-handed catch retired the side and ended the game in his own team's favor.

"The ninth was the big and only inning in which the game was possible to win or lose. Kingman started with his second triple of the game, a beautiful drive through first base well into right field. T. Bill followed with a nice double to deep left, scoring Kingman. A strikeout and an infield out put Bill on third. Bowen's single through short brought in the second run."

BUMPER TALKS

It Happens Every Day

The other day I was walking down Spring Street on my way to draw eleven of my thirteen dollars out of the bank, and I saw a fellow industriously trying to put back a tail light he had knocked off the rear of a Franklin car. I tell you it's a hard proposition to park your car on our congested streets and come back expecting to find it all there. You may park your car tomorrow and leave it for ten minutes and come back and find a hole in your radiator or a smashed headlight. You get plenty of clearance when your car is equipped with a set of our STEWART bumpers. Don't wait for tomorrow's accident—drive in and get your bumpers today.

Bill

P.S. I know it's hard to believe but we trade STEWART Bumpers, new ones for your old bumpers, any make or condition, on a liberal exchange proposition.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The New York Giants made it three straight from St. Louis, winning 12 to 7. Four Cardinal pitchers were smothered under an avalanche of hits, Bancroft, Rawlings and Kelly leading the attack with three apiece. Bancroft had an odd record, scoring once in each of the first four innings. Stock featured for the losers, driving in six runs with two home run drives. John Stuart, former Ohio State star, started for the Cardinals, but was taken out after pitching to three batsmen. The score:

...Round 6—Tendler missed a right to the face. Leonard staggered Lew with a left to the jaw and a right to the head. Leonard once more ripped him on the head. Tendler missed two lefts to the stomach and Benny smashed him to the face. Leonard landed a left and Lew crossed him with a left smash to the face. Leonard landed two rights to Lew's stomach and the latter came up with a right to the champion's ear, forcing the latter to the ropes. Lew missed one to the face and the champion hooked him with smashes to the jaw. Leonard sent three lefts to Lew's head, without a return. Leonard pestered Tendler with hard rights and lefts to the face and body. Once more Leonard drove his right to Tendler's face, staggering the Philadelphian. Tendler's mouth was badly cut by a left-hand swing from the champion just at the bell.

Round 8—Tendler sent a straight right to Leonard's mouth at the opening. The champion ripped a short right to Lew's wind and then sent another hard right to the same spot. Benny drove two more rights to Lew's wind. Tendler got home a hard right to the champion's ear and then hooked his left to the champion's jaw. Tendler staggered Benny with a hard left to the jaw, knocking out a tooth. Benny held on as Lew pummeled him hard about the body. Lew shook the champion and forced the latter to break ground under a volley of hard left and right smashes to the body. Tendler set Benny back on his heels with a right to the ear, then sent one to the champion's damaged eye. Tendler was chasing Leonard and asked him to stand still and fight. Tendler appeared much stronger at this stage, while Leonard was very tired as he went to his corner.

Round 9—Leonard landed a left on Lew's mouth. The Philadelphian landed another left to Benny's face. Tendler missed a left to the head. Both fighters were landing on each other and it was evident there was a great feud between them. Lew forced Benny to the ropes. Both landed lefts to the face in a rapid exchange. Lew made a bluff lead at Leonard and then side-stepped him while the crowd roared. In a clinch Benny got home two good lefts to the body and in the break away landed a hard right to Tendler's mouth. They exchanged punches to the stomach. Leonard landed a right left to Tendler's mouth, while Lew came back with a short left punch to the champion's chin. They were clinched on the ropes at the bell.

Round 10—Tendler rapped Benny with a right right on the chin and Benny sent a right to Lew's ribs and the champion rushed into a clinch, both landing left and rights to the body. Benny sent two light lefts to Tendler's face. Tendler missed with lefts and rights to the face, but forced Leonard into his corner. Benny rushed Tendler to the ropes, landing a right to the jaw. Leonard jolted Tendler with a left to the mouth and then rushed Lew across the ring, landing lefts and rights to the Quaker's face and stomach. Leonard staggered Tendler with a hard smash to the mouth and then sent a left swing to Tendler's ear and the latter backed away. Leonard had the better of another exchange just at the bell.

NEW RECORD IS CHALKED UP AT GRAND CIRCUIT

COLUMBUS (O.) July 27.—The free-for-all pace, one of four events on today's Grand Circuit program at the Columbus Driving Park track developed into a world's record-breaking affair when Sir Roche, the 5-year-old pacing gelding owned by L. E. Randall of Chicago defeated a field of eight in the three fastest heats ever paced by a gelding.

His miles were made in 1:59 3-4; 2:02 and 2:01. The former record was held by San Ardo, made at Syracuse last year. San Ardo's time was 2:00 3-4; 1:59 3-4 and 2:03 1-2.

Roy Gratton was the pacemaker in each heat, while Johnny Quirk and Hal Mahone battled for the show position. Jimmy McKerron drew the pole the first heat and was given a bad start by the judges. He broke as the word was given and was distanced.

Sir Roche today became the sixteenth pacer to step a mile in less than 2 minutes. His 2:59 3-4 was rated by quarters as follows 30, 30, 30 and 29 3-4 seconds.

Great Britton handily won the 2:05 trot, the Neil House stake purse $3000 from Prince Loree, the favorite, who was off form. E. Colorado made Great Britton step the fastest trotting heat of the year in the second mile of this race which was clocked at 2:03 1-4. This also was a new record for Great Britton.

The 2:16 class pace went to Nelta Patch in straight heats. She was easily the best in the field. Livery Pointer and Orphan Peter had a nice battle for place. The final event on the card, the 2:19 class trot was the poorest race of the meeting to date. There were eight starters and four of them were distanced. Tolus Boy won this race.

The Joy of Living

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Almee Scrope, vivacious daughter of the Very Rev. Lord Scrope, is ordered by her father to visit her aunt, Lady Erythea, strict and conventional spinster, whom she has never met, at Jervaulx Abbey. Almee dreads the visit, as well as having to meet Alexander Lambe, a returned missionary and nephew of Lady Erythea, whom she pictures as a goggle-eyed rabbit. She persuades her stick and dignified cousin, Georgina Berner, to go in her stead, despite the latter's protests and forebodings. Almee, carefree and whistling, is walking down the country road when she chances to meet Billy Spencer, an American motorcyclist she has met once before, but who does not know who she is. Chatting, she tells him she has "lost her job," and he proposes that she join him as a partner in promoting sales of his new-style motorcycle. She agrees, telling him, when he asks, that her name is Almee Scrope. In high good humor they enter the county town of Stanhoe. To their amusement the landlady at the inn, dumbfounded, refuses them rooms, and they obtain separate quarters at a cottage. That night Almee slips out and surprises Georgina by climbing into the window of her room at the Abbey. She learns that Aunt Erythea has taken Georgina for granted, giving her no time to explain, and that Georgina had become greatly interested in the solemn young curate, Alexander. The next day Billy teaches Almee how to run his motorcycle. She almost collides with a carriage in which her aunt, Georgina and the curate are riding. The pair are enjoying themselves hugely. Almee again unveils Georgina and to her dismay learns that her father is coming to the Abbey. They are debating what to do when a burglar alarm awakens the household. Escape by the window cut off, Almee pushes out through the front passage, she encounters Alexander in his pajamas and bowls him over. The butler seizes her skirt, but she wrenches free, leaving part of the garment in his hands, and escapes. While Alexander is phoning the police, Lady Erythea finds her emeralds and other gems are missing. Georgina is in hysterics.

Chapter IX

"MARVELOUS!"

Lady Erythea recoiled. There were, after all, enough hysterics in the house already. Evidently nothing was to be learned from her niece.

"Go back to your bed and don't be silly. There is no danger," snapped Lady Erythea. She stalked down the passage with the stride of a grenadier, and, entering the anteroom that opened into her bedchamber, gazed mournfully at the small but very modern safe (by a famous maker and advertised as impregnable) that stood in a curtained recess. It did not look a credit to its designer. The door, with two little circles of punctures drilled round the locks, stood wide open. The safe wore an apologetic, shame-faced look that was almost human.

Lady Erythea felt a moment of doubt. She was compelled to revise her ideas. Even the modern woman, surely, was scarcely capable of such work as this. The sharp whirr of a motor on the drive below roused her, and she hastened downstairs.

The car drew up at the entrance with a jerk and ejected three policemen; a constable, a sergeant, and Inspector Panke of Stanhoe, a man of enormous energy for his bulk, with thick black eyebrows and a singularly bitter expression. He ran up the steps, but before he could open his mouth Lady Erythea forestalled him.

"You are wasting your time here! Go at once in chase of a motorcycle that got away ten minutes ago by the Stanhoe road!"

"A motorcycle!" exclaimed the inspector almost joyously, as one who sees his theories confirmed. "Sergeant, get after them at once in the car—take Polson with you. As we didn't meet them they must have taken the branch lane at the crossroads—away with you, man—be quick!"

"I shall consider no reward too great if my emeralds are recovered!" exclaimed Lady Erythea, as the car drove away. "Do you think your men will be successful, Inspector?" My butler allowed the malefactor to slip through his fingers in the most fatuous manner. Can you—"

"One moment!" interrupted the inspector. "The thieves were seen then, by your ladyship's servants! Was one of them a woman?"

He had to bawl the question into Lady Erythea's ear trumpet, which Alexander brought. When she understood, Lady Erythea's eyes flashed fiercely.

"Yes!" she exclaimed, "a young woman. You suspected a woman then—before you came here?"

"I do more than suspect, my lady," said Inspector Panke grimly. "I know!"

"What did I tell you!" said Lady Erythea to her nephew with triumph. "A female burglar. There are no limits to it! Who was this woman, Inspector, and when do you propose to apprehend her? We have a piece of the creature's skirt!"

"Hah! let me see it at once!" said the inspector, his eyes lighting up. It was brought to him and its capture explained. Inspector Panke examined the yard of cloth, tried its strength, rubbed it, held it up to the light, peered keenly at the torn edges; all with so swift and professional an eye that Mr. Lambe watched him in fascination. Here, indeed, was the trained sleuth-hound that one reads about and hopes one day to meet in the flesh.

"Good!" he said under his breath, and turned upon Mr. Lambe so sharply that that gentleman jumped. "Your telephone, sir—where is it?"

"Who is the abominable creature?" exclaimed Lady Erythea. "And why is she at large, a scourge upon the country, breaking into—"

"She won't scourge it much longer," said the inspector grimly. "I'll very soon give your ladyship news of her—I want the telephone quick!"

"This way," said Mr. Lambe, and led him to the call-room. Inspector Panke remained at the instrument a considerable time. He emerged triumphant.

"If they get away now—well, may I never handle another case," he said quietly to Mr. Lambe. "I can't answer questions at present, sir, I've got to get busy. If I might suggest that you induce her ladyship to retire, and come round with me yourself—it hampered me a bit, that ear-trumpet, and we've got to be quick—you can explain to her afterwards."

Alexander was successful in persuading his aunt to retire from the field, though she went breathing threats of vengeance, and mourning aloud for the emeralds. Inspector Panke made a rapid examination of the safe, the wall beneath Lady Erythea's window, and the ground outside. He took a full description of the missing jewels, and briskly questioned the servants, particularly Mr. Tarbeaux.

"Very good!" said Inspector Panke, shutting his notebook with a snap. "As for you," he said to the butler, "I don't blame you for your defeat at the hands of that woman, and you are lucky to have got off as cheaply as you did. This piece of cloth is likely to prove more valuable to the police than you have any idea of. I think you'll soon be able to congratulate yourself, Tarbeaux, on having helped toward the capture of two of the most dangerous thieves known to the police."

Mr. Tarbeaux made a deeply gratified bow. It was the first compliment that had been paid him that evening. His nose ceased to bleed.

"I've only time to say this, sir, before I go," added the inspector, turning to Mr. Lambe. "I recognize the work of Jack the Climber in this case, as plainly as if they'd left the name written on the wall! I thought for a moment it might be Bender Williams, who was released from Portland last month. But it's undoubtedly Jack's job. And now, sir—"

"One moment!" said Mr. Lambe in bewilderment. "Do you mean to tell me that a woman committed this burglary, and that her name is Jack?"

"No, no!" said the inspector, a trifle impatiently. "Don't you read the papers, sir?"

"I have very little acquaintance with the secular press."

"You have never heard," said the inspector incredulously. "of Jack the Climber and Calamity Kate?"

Mr. Lambe's large eyes expressed astonished inquiry.

"For ten months past," said the inspector, as one who patiently explains things to a little child, "a series of daring burglaries have occurred at country houses in various parts of England, and, so far, I'm bound to say they've beaten us; no arrest has been made. The methods of the thieves are so similar in each case that it is clear to an expert all these jobs were done by the same person—or, rather, two persons, a man and a woman. The man, besides being as smart a hand at cracking a safe as ever lived, seems to have the training of a steeplejack as well. He can climb anything that a fly could get a foothold on; in fact, he's known as the Climber.

"The woman, if anything, is more dangerous than the man, and I wonder she hasn't killed some of you. The pair of them were interrupted in their job at Repton Grange, over the Cambridgeshire border, last year; she shot the estate steward through the shoulder while her partner made off with the swag, and they both got clear away.

"We can't connect them with anyone who's ever been in custody and, in fact, the identity of the pair has, so far, baffled even the Criminal Investigation Department. All that's known of them is that they're probably foreigners—some say Americans—and that they use a motorcycle when they're on the job. But this is the first time they've been into Eastshire, and I think they've met their Waterloo. The C. I. D. man will be down here in the morning, but I've set everything going, and I think I'll have them by then. I know a bit more than I'm at liberty to tell you, sir. But that was the woman who knocked you down."

"Calamity Kate?" murmured Mr. Lambe with a slight shivver.

The inspector stiffened.

"Of course, you'll understand, sir, there's nothing official about these names, which have been tagged on to the pair by the newspapers and the public. Briefly, what happened here is this: The man got in through Lady Erythea's window. There's the marks of him on the wall. He might have got in still easier by the next one, where the verandah is. But he went in through her ladyship's bedroom."

Mr. Lambe's eyes met those of the inspector; the same thought passed between them; whatever might be said of Jack the Climber's moral character, he was a brave man.

"And so to her anteroom and opened the safe without waking her—of course, she's pretty deaf. The burglar alarm didn't go till he'd done it; and for that matter all these precautions of her ladyship's are simply bunco; the house is an easy job for a crackaman. Jack got away by the same road he came, and the only thing that puzzles me is why Kate had to bolt for it downstairs. It isn't usual for her to be in the house at all—we believe her job is helping her partner up and watch-keeping outside.

"However, there it is. And this bit of blue cloth, sir," concluded Inspector Panke, holding it up, "is going to put Calamity Kate in my hands. You wouldn't believe, sir, how clear that's going to make the case."

Mr. Lambe regarded the yard of serge with awe.

"It appears then," he said, looking gravely at the inspector, "that it is the pivot of the case. The whole of this amazing crime revolves, as it were, round a piece of skirt?"

"Yes, sir," replied the inspector sardonically, "and it's been the same in every case I've handled for the past sixteen years."

Mr. Lambe stared.

"In fact," added Inspector Panke with a misogynistic air. "If you could leave out that factor, sir, there'd be no need of a police force at all. We could join the unemployed."

"I do not follow you," said Mr. Lambe.

"No? Well, of course, it's a bit out of your Reverence's line." Inspector Panke folded the torn fragment of cloth, put it in his pocket, and moved briskly to the door. "Good-night, sir! Before very long I'll show you the rest of this skirt—and its owner!"

BIG NEW OFFER

in the Los Angeles Times $70,000 Prize Campaign

$725 in Extra Prizes—70,000 Extra Votes

Double Offer Lasts Only Until August 9th

How Extra Prizes Will be Awarded

First Prize	$200 in Gold
Second Prize	150 in Gold
Third Prize	100 in Gold
Fourth Prize	75 in Gold
Fifth Prize	50 in Gold
Sixth Prize	40 in Gold
Seventh Prize	35 in Gold
Eighth Prize	30 in Gold
Ninth Prize	25 in Gold
Tenth Prize	20 in Gold

The first prize of $200 in gold will be awarded to the candidate, regardless of district or division, who turns in the highest amount of money in new subscription payments during the period of this offer—July 31 to August 9, 9 p.m.

The second prize of $150 in gold will be awarded to the second highest candidate, and so on.

These prizes are EXTRA and in no way conflict with the awarding of the regular prizes, valued at more than $70,000, at the end of the campaign. The winners of the extra prizes will be announced by the official judges of the campaign.

All new subscriptions on this gold offer will also apply on the 70,000 extra vote offer, thus giving new subscriptions a triple value—extra gold, extra votes, and a prize at the end of the campaign.

How to Get the Extra Votes

In addition to the extra gold prizes, candidates are offered the big opportunity of getting thousands of extra votes by forming "new" subscription clubs. Seventy thousand extra votes will be given to candidates for each club of $30 worth of new subscriptions turned in on or before August 9, 9 p.m.

All new subscriptions to The Times, daily, Sunday, or both, will be accepted on $30 clubs. The 70,000 extra votes are a bonus in addition to the regular votes given on each subscription.

There is no limit to the number of clubs a candidate may turn in. Every club will receive 70,000 extra votes and part of a club will receive pro-rata share thereof.

All new subscriptions turned in during this period (July 31 to August 9) will apply on both the 70,000 extra vote offer and the extra gold offer. That is to say, all new subscription clubs will receive the 70,000 extra votes, and if the candidate turning them in is among the ten highest in point of new subscription payments, he or she will receive one of the extra gold prizes as described.

New Second Payments Count on Special Offer

Candidates who have secured NEW subscriptions since this campaign started may secure extensions on those subscriptions and apply them on this double offer. Credit will be given for the amount of the second payment, besides giving regular votes on the total length of subscriptions less the regular votes issued, on the first payment. Be sure to mark your stub on these extensions "new second payment" at the top of the stub. Also give the amount paid on the first subscription.

For example, if the first payment was $5.40, and another $5.40 is now paid to extend the subscription to a full year, the candidate will receive the added vote credit. A yearly subscription, daily and Sunday by carrier, is worth 13,000 votes. As 5000 votes were given on the first payment, the second payment is worth 8000 votes. The second payment of $5.40 would also apply on the present double offer.

Now Is the Time For New Candidates

You can enter now, start your vote-getting, and be a prize winner at the end of the campaign, September 2. The next few weeks hold wonderful advantages for those who desire to win. Fortune is within easy reach.

The nomination counts for 2000 votes. The first subscription you turn in, either old or new, of three months or longer, counts 10,000 more free votes, besides the regular votes.

By building your new subscriptions into $30 clubs you will receive 70,000 votes on top of the usual subscription votes. At the same time you have a chance to win an extra gold prize. Truly a marvelous offer. Extra votes and extra gold for extra effort. Make your beginning today.

Turn in your subscriptions as fast as you get them. The campaign office will keep an accurate record of all subscriptions received and will issue ballots to cover the extra votes due at the close of the offer—August 9.

Many Other Valuable Prizes Given—and 10% Cash Commissions to Non-Prize Winners

$16,500 Home in Wilshire Crest

SCORE HONORED AT CIVICS CLUB

President on Eve of Stage Debut Given Token

Anniversary Celebrants Are Honor Guests

Scholarships Presented to College People

BY MYRA NYE

"As time flies, so fly you
But it will drag for us."

So stated the card accompanying the gift of a traveling clock yesterday by the officers and board of the Philanthropy and Civics Club to the president, Mrs. Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, who presided at the guest luncheon for the last time before starting upon her vaudeville engagement. Mrs. Berta Benhaus, vice-president, who was celebrating her eighteenth wedding anniversary, made the presentation speech.

Mrs. Goldsmith was the principal honor guest with twenty-three birthday guests honored at a table centered with Shasta daisies and the candle-lighted cake. Mrs. Ellen Grant, 82 years old, and Dodo Newton, 14, were the oldest and youngest members of the club whose birthdays come in June and July. The years might have been reversed for Ellen was much more youthful in her behavior than serious-eyed Dodo. Indeed Ellen, on her birthday, read a paper before the club and the Wednesday Morning Club, of which she is also a member, on the subject, "How to Keep Young."

Jocular in its comedy of old-fashioned spelling bees, winning in its sentiment of birthday greetings, inspiring in its presentation of the young beneficiaries of the scholarship fund, with just a touch of the political in the excellent after-luncheon talk of Robert H. Scott, Deputy Public Defender running for justice of the peace of Los Angeles township, the club closed its summer sessions with this delightful affair.

"P-e-l-m-e-a-l" was the boyishly gluttonous way Fanny Ford, dressed as a boy, spelled the rushing word pellmell. She insisted upon smoking her cigarette in school right before the teacher and the board of trustees. Yet she was the triumphant one, winning out in the contest with the vacation-sort-of-word itinerary. She said in fact it was because the others took a vacation while she smoked that she was able to win with that word.

Some one cheated by spelling ptomaine, p-o-i-s-o-n and magazine, the Saturday Evening Post and The Times Illustrated Weekly. Mrs. John Ray repeated the spelling of Mississippi with sing-song variations in which the whole school joined.

Mrs. Julia Zuckerman, a flapper with her powder puff, smiles for the boys, and her kodak, captured the whole school on velox. Mrs. Barry Eyre, mother of Wesley Barry, demonstrated the source of her talented son's histrionic ability. She was dressed as the country schoolgirl in blue dimity and many ruffles. Mrs. Ford Russell and Mrs. Bertha Heath were the honeysuckle twins insisting upon chewing each others' gum in school and Mrs. A. V. Green as the other boy was the only rival of the blue-ribbon speller for the favor of the girls.

Mrs. Oscar Trippett, chairman of the scholarship committee, and Mrs. Agnes Fresias, teacher of English in Polytechnic High School, as investigator together with the co-operation of the entire club, have accomplished some of the finest results in the club's career. Yesterday this line of club activity was exemplified in a charming way. The young college people beneficiaries of the scholarship fund, were all honor guests and each one of them made an after-luncheon speech, at Mrs. Goldsmith's request leaving out expressions of gratitude to the club.

Miss Beth Dean was the only young woman. Although for three months of the last school year she was compelled to lie prone in a plaster cast with no relief change of position she nevertheless ended the year among the honor students for scholarship at Occidental. Her appearance of vigor yesterday demonstrated also the aid to health of college athletics for the young girl. The young men were Fred Moyer, Homer Buckley, Robert Dalton and Ross Kerr.

E. Williams, school-teacher.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

For the Poor Sleeper

A cup of hot milk, with a pinch of salt in it, taken just before retiring, will often induce sleep.

A Time-Saver

Always put the egg-beater and potato-masher in cold water after using them. They will be much easier to wash.

Cleaning at Home

When washing a garment with gasoline, add salt. It will prevent that ugly circle at the edge of the washed spots.

Supplying Large Families

If your family is large, use two pans when cooking fritters or pancakes. They will save time and always keep a supply on hand.

A Change in Desserts

Try slicing jelly roll in fairly thick slices and pile with whipped cream. It is an easy dessert for summer time, as bought jelly roll can be used.

Avoid Shrinking and Fading

When making dresses of wash material, always soak the goods thoroughly in clear water and salt and hang out by the selvidge to dry before cutting out the dress. Then you may be certain that it will both fit and be the same shade after it is washed.

Light-Colored Shoes

When light shoes become so soiled that they are beyond cleaning, stain them black with a commercial shoe dye, which costs only 25 cents.

Flannel Skirts

Flannel skirts should be washed in luke-warm water and castile soap. Hang the garment up without wringing and shrinkage will be avoided.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I; I, MYSELF; I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME
CHAPTER XIX.
THOUGHTS ON TROUSERS

Hot, isn't it? My gracious, I think I certainly would be ill if my mamma didn't realize that babies suffer terribly from being clothed too warmly in hot weather. As it it, I am not so very uncomfortable for in the middle of the day, when it is the hottest, I have all of my clothes taken off except my little thin silk and wool shirtie and my diaper.

Some babies are wrapped so warmly that the clothes retain the heat from their little bodies, and that, with the external heat, is terrible for a baby during the hottest weather. It causes all sorts of intestinal upsets and lowers the resistance so that other troubles may be invited, my doctor says.

The reason so many babies have prickly heat in the summer is because they are dressed so warmly and they perspire and lie in their wet clothes and that irritates the skin very much.

Did you know that dressing a baby too warmly is one of the commonest faults of mothers? They do not realize that while it is necessary to keep us warm, that it is harmful to keep us too warm. Any baby that perspires is dressed too warmly. Will you remember that, mammas?

Another thing that mammas don't realize is that it does no harm to change the weight of the clothing of a baby from day to day as the weather changes.

Another thing that my mamma does to keep me comfortable is to give me a cool sponge during the hottest part of the day. And I have cool boiled water given me between my feedings. Golly, it tastes good. I notice my appetite is not quite so fierce, but I suppose that is natural.

Speaking about my summer midday outfit makes me realize that I want to tell you about my trousers — commonly designated diapers.

Do you remember I told you I had no pins about me? Pins are vicious instruments around babies if they happen to become unlatched, and sometimes the awful thing has happened that a baby's tender flesh was pinned with the clothes. Gosh, it makes me wince when I think of how a baby must suffer under those circumstances.

Why, not even my diapers are pinned? How come? Well, my Cherie bought a pattern of a napkin that is fitted and ties on with tapes and she also bought one already made up to see just exactly how they were made. And my trousers are the best fitting that you ever saw.

Our doctor advised her to do that. She said there was no article of a baby's clothing that was more important than its napkins and that there was no article that received so little attention, most mammas not realizing that grave results can come from an improper napkin or one improperly fastened.

Our bones are very soft and pliable and moldable, and a great wad of cloth between our little legs and pressing on our tender pelves can even deform the bones. And in little girl babies who have such important organs in the pelves, it is thought by some physicians that the pressure of heavy masses of cloth may be the cause of a lot of the troubles that come to some baby girls when they grow to womanhood. That makes us realize that the question of babies' diapers is an important one. Doesn't it?

If you want to know about the pattern of the diaper that I wear write in to my Doctor in care of this paper, and she will tell you about it.

Another thing that my Cherie does is very nice. Everything she does is nice because she is so terribly nice herself. Golly, when I think how much I love that woman!

Oh, my doctor says it's time to stop talking to you today. Well, I'll keep it a secret for you for next time. Au revoir!

"WASH"—Don't Scour Teeth!

You Wouldn't Scour the Piano Keys

YOU would not use a grit cleaner on your ivory piano keys. You know what it would do to them, you also know how readily they give up their dirt to gentle washing treatment. Ivory and teeth are first cousins—made of the same basic substance.

Every time you scratch your teeth, you remove part of the surface. You can use Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream during a long lifetime without the slightest injury to the delicate enamel of your teeth.

COLGATE'S CLEANS TEETH THE RIGHT WAY

"Washes" and Polishes—Doesn't Scratch or Scour

1. Loosens Clinging Particles

The most effective and trustworthy tooth cleanser for habitual use is one that offers the combined action of fine, non-gritty precipitated chalk and pure soap. Thus, in Colgate's you get what modern science finds best.

More dentists prescribe Colgate's than any other dentifrice. They rely solely on the merit of that article guaranteed by a reputation of 115 years for "Truth in Advertising—Honesty in Manufacture."

2. "Washes" Away

Gritty, soapless pastes may show "quick results." If you scoured away your skin nature could replace that. Silverware scoured with grit or harsh chemicals can also be restored if damaged. But even nature will not replace tooth enamel if once it is worn away. Decide on the safe and sane method of cleansing teeth. Better it is to use a safe dental cream now than suffer years of regret later on.

Colgate's cleans teeth thoroughly—no dentifrice does more. A LARGE tube costs 25c—why pay more?

Truth in Advertising Implies Honesty in Manufacture

How I Improved My Looks

This Story Will Interest You

I am writing this story because I have learned a secret that has been of great benefit to me and I want to pass it on to the rest of the world. When I was nineteen years old, the time of my life when my personal appearance should have been best, my complexion was sallow. I had an oily, shiny skin and I was not considered pretty by anyone. I am twenty-seven years old now and I look like an entirely different person. My skin is clear, there is color in my face, and I will ask pardon, if I say that when I look into the glass now I see a much better face than the one I used to see in my girlhood. I am proud of this because I brought about the change myself. I used to think, when it came to the complexion, that one was "born" that way, but I noticed that some people seemed to retain their youth long after others had grown old. I noticed that some women at forty looked fresh and as young as the twenty-five. I also noticed actresses and stage people seemed to grow old. I found out that the secret lay in the thought to the matter of personal appearance and taking time, trouble and effort to have a good complexion. I also found that the theory that cosmetics injure the complexion is altogether wrong. I found that the right kind of cosmetics in nature, that they improve nature. Every evening before retiring I bathed my face in warm water, using a pure cleansing, non-drying soap, followed with a dash of cold water. In the morning I washed my face in cold water and applied the proper cosmetic. I practically changed my complexion. I feel better and have the feeling of youth that comes from looking young. I advise every woman to do likewise.

Every Woman Can Improve Her Complexion

The above story was written by one of our many good friends. Thousands of women throughout the country have learned this important truth: the proper application of Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream to any skin, no matter how bad that skin might be, will give it the smooth, natural whiteness so much desired. Oiliness, red and shiny noses—sallowness are all overcome.

Devote A Few Minutes Daily

Apply a thin coating of Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream with a soft sponge dampened first in water, wipe off superfluous cream with your chamois skin, and you have completed your toilet. For a touch of color to the cheeks to give the suggestion of health and beauty, use a little of Mrs McCormick's Beauty Rouge, a new compact rouge you will be delighted with. To the lips, apply Mrs. McCormick's Lip Stick—it is just the desired shade and is especially beneficial to the woman with pale, dry lips. Before retiring, bathe the face with warm water, using a good soap. Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Soap is a splendid aid for a clear, fresh skin.

What Mrs. McCormick's Beauty Cream Is

45 Wash Dresses Some Are Imports at Half Price

REGULAR prices on these Afternoon Frocks range from $35.00 to $49.50, so that one may know that they are Dresses for which the fastidious woman is looking. They are the better frocks of imported gingham, embroidered voiles and imported Swisses which were very reasonably priced in the first place.

For the last Friday of July Clearance, because they have become somewhat broken in the range of sizes, their prices will be lowered to exactly half.

A number of them were made in Paris, featuring the delicate but durable drawn-work which French needlewomen execute so skillfully.

Colors are white, white and black, canary, blue and some 15 or 18 other tints popular for afternoon wear.

For Friday—today—45 of the better Afternoon Frocks of cotton, regularly $35.00 to $49.50, at....HALF PRICE

THIRD FLOOR

Junior Girls' Frocks of Gingham $8.75

NOT of ordinary, but Imported Gingham, are these Frocks fashioned, which makes them quite as pretty as they are practical. Dainty beading resembling double hemstitching is the effective trimming of some, while linen or organdie collars and cuffs (to say nothing of sashes and pockets) trim others. In checks of green, blue, yellow, brown and red, 75 Dresses are offered in sizes 10 to 17, at the low price of $8.75.

GIRLS' SECTION—FOURTH FLOOR

150 Satin Petticoats Flesh, White, $3.95

FLESH and white Satin Petticoats—always attractive, always serviceable—have a very low price—$3.95.

The scalloped bottoms are plain or lace edged. Some of the Petticoats are finished in lace-edged points with diamond insets. Other models have plain hemstitched hems.

FOURTH FLOOR

622 Silk Gowns and Chemises White and Pastel-Tinted New—But Underpriced

SILK Underwear of the upper qualities, but with prices brought down well within the means of the economical woman, is the message of the July Clearance for Today.

Women who have the faculty of appraising Silk Underwear very accurately will se at once that this group for Today would ordinarily sell at figures a great deal higher.

And, they will fairly sing for gladness when they see the variety from which they may choose.

Coast Airplane Route Planned for Passengers

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA MONICA, July 27.—Establishment of an aerial passenger service between Santa Monica and San Francisco, by way of Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo and Salinas, was announced here today when J. C. Barthel, Venice postmaster, made application to the City Commissioners for a lease on a plot of land 150 feet by 250 feet adjacent to the new government aviation field on Central avenue. Mr. Barthel said he represented a group of associates who would operate four Fokker passenger-carrying planes on regular schedule between the Coast cities. He said his company hopes to secure a contract for carrying mail.

Commissioner W. H. Carter announced that the Douglas Airplane Corporation had made a verbal request for land adjacent to the government field, also for the purpose of inaugurating an aerial passenger service.

Judge Hancock, City Recorder of Venice, Dies

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VENICE, July 27.—Judge Albert K. Hancock, police magistrate and City Recorder of Venice, died early today at his residence after an illness of several weeks. He was 70 years of age.

Judge Hancock has been off the bench for a little over a month. He took to his bed with a severe heart attack, from which he rallied. A week later he was again stricken, the end coming at 4 a.m. today.

Walter Rennie, former police magistrate under a former administration, will succeed Judge Hancock. He was appointed a week ago, when it was learned that Judge Hancock was at death's door and the end momentarily expected.

He leaves one son and three daughters, H. Duke Hancock, Mrs. Eugenia A. Warren of Los Angeles; Mrs. Sarah Lowden of Venice, and Mrs. Robert McMillan of New Orleans. No arrangements for the funeral have been made.

Local Schools Gain Steadily in Attendance

An average yearly increase in the Los Angeles school population of 20,000 has been maintained for the past three years, according to the annual statistical report issued yesterday by Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of schools. In 1920 the total enrollment was 141,744. In 1921 it was 160,228. In 1922 it has grown to 180,781.

The average daily attendance for the past three years shows an average increase of 18,000 pupils. In 1919 the average daily attendance was in round numbers, 85,000. In 1922 it was 104,000, an increase of nearly 57 per cent in three years.

MOTHER, SON HIKE HERE FROM BOSTON

WOMAN TRAVELS THOUSANDS OF MILES IN SEARCH OF HEALTH

What difference does a few thousand miles make when you are in search of your health? That is the question that Mrs. Belle Doyer asked as she talked with a reporter concerning her 3300-mile walk from Boston which she completed yesterday when she arrived in Los Angeles. Mrs. Doyer with her 15-year-old son, Harvey, left Boston May 6 last. Since that time she has walked all but 200 miles of the way from Boston. She followed the Lincoln highway in her trip.

The travelers will remain in Los Angeles for two weeks. After their visit here they will return to Boston. The return trip is to be made by bicycle. They will go by the way of San Francisco, Portland and Seattle. After returning to Boston Mrs. Doyer will take a trip to Canada.

FOR RUM RUNNING

San Diego Sportsman Held By Government Men

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, July 27.—W. W. Youngblood, sportsman and man-about-town, wanted in connection with aerial rum-running, surrendered to Deputy United States Marshal George Cooley this morning, and upon failure to provide $3000 bail, was remanded to the custody of that official.

Youngblood was jointly indicted with James R. Hennessy, local commercial aviator, and Oscar Denton, one-time immigration officer, on charges of conspiracy to smuggle liquor into this country by airplane from Mexico. Hennessy was apprehended by Federal officials here some time ago. The latter was confined in the city jail upon failure to meet the amount of $3000, fixed by Commissioner Munkelt upon his arraignment July 6.

Denton is still at large, officers stating that they have information that he is in Mexico at this time.

WRECK RUINS ONE-MAN CAR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA (Cal.) July 27.—In a collision between a one-man Pacific Electric car and a large truck late this afternoon, the "one-man" came out much the loser.

The motorman-conductor of the car, Bert Perry, was slightly cut and bruised and two passengers slightin injured by the impact, which tore the front of the electric car completely off.

According to witnesses, the truck cut a corner by several yards, and it is said the motorman could not possibly have avoided the accident. The car was thrown off the tracks. The truck, in charge of Cf Gerard of Cucamonga, was only slightly damaged. Pacific Electric officials estimate their damage at $750.

SKIES GLOW WITH SONG

Soprano and Saxophonist Head Noon Bill

Baritone Puts Pathos in His Selections

Evening Program Replete With Ballads

Soprano and saxophone soloists divided honors on KHJ's afternoon program yesterday. Mrs. Charles Oden, artist pupil of Antony Carlson, who has sung for KHJ on previous occasions, returned yesterday to sing three charming numbers. Accompanied by Mrs. Merle Smith, Mrs. Oden sang Cadman's "At Dawning," Teresa Del Reign's "Happy Song," and "An Irish Love Song," by Marguerite Ruthven Lang. Mrs. Oden has rich quality and clear enunciation in her singing which make for able interpretation in her vocal achievements.

W. H. Archibald, through the courtesy of Sebastian's Cafe at Venice, gave to radioland yesterday three saxophone solos. Accompanied by Mrs. Merle Smith, he played three numbers—"Sometime," by Schoenberg, "Romany Love," by Zamecnik and "Three O'Clock in the Morning," the latter being a request selection not scheduled for the program.

NIGHT PROGRAM

George Mercereau, baritone, accompanied by Mayme Armstrong, gave to radioland two wonderful solos last night from KHJ. Kipling's words and Oley Speak's musical composition make of "On the Road to Mandalay," a race combination, which, coupled with the deep and resonant voice of Mr. Mercereau, held special interest for listeners last night. His second number was one that always brings to mind the mothers of men everywhere — "Mother Machree," by Young, Olcott and Ball.

Mrs. B. O. Metcalf, soprano, accompanied by Otto Patterson, showed ability to interpret the tenderness and romance which composers of the songs she sung wrote into them. Her numbers included Carrie Jacobs Bond's "The Hand of You," Ernest Ball's "The Night Wind," and "I Love the Moon," by Rubens.

INDEMNITY EXCHANGE ASKS REVIEW WRIT

PROTEST JUDGMENT GIVEN IN DEATH OF ICE-TRUCK DRIVER

A writ of review is asked of the State Supreme Court in a petition filed yesterday by the California Casualty Indemnity Exchange in the case of judgment for $5000 indemnity previously rendered against the insurance carriers in favor of the heirs of Charles W. Young. The latter, a truck driver employed by the Union Ice Company, died after being injured March 4, last, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Harold E. Hart.

The accident occurred at Sherman when Young, who had lunched at a cafeteria, was crossing the street to the place where his ice-truck was parked. The only witness to the accident was the small son of the injured man. The point was made by the insurance company, at the original hearing, that the indemnity was not due for the reason that the fatal accident occurred during the victim's noon hour and not while he was on duty. This was overruled and a rehearing before the State Industrial Accident Commission was also, subsequently, denied.

Relatives Seek Missing Woman When no Word is Received

Mrs. Sarah Jane Haas of 217 West Sixty-fourth street has been missing from her home since April 29. Her sister, Mrs. Carrie Parks, 222 Alvarado street, who has notified police of Mrs. Haas's disappearance, believes she has met with foul play. The woman seemingly left her home unexpectedly according to her sister, as she had taken nothing with her.

Mrs. Haas had recently separated from her husband, Claude Haas. The husband is aiding relatives in trying to locate Mrs. Haas.

The broadcast boom has hit England also, although no one has seen fit to do any "free broadcasting." Just at present radio dealers are contemplating a get-together scheme whereby policies for building and operating several stations will be formulated. To this end, it is expected, a company will be formed with money subscribed by the interested firms to maintain and arrange the broadcast programs. It is the purpose of English manufacturers to turn out standard receiving sets constructed to operate within a small range of wave-lengths to cover just those used by broadcast stations.

At the rate of 186,000 miles per second, it would take over four minutes to say "hello" to Mars by radio.

Radio church goers at Warren, Arizona, are obliged to get up one hour earlier each Sunday morning to hear the services sent broadcast from Denver, Colo., owing to a difference of one hour in time between the two places. Those who want to hear the sermons radiated from the Colorado city must sacrifice that hour of Sunday morning sleep. It is possible with radio, however, to remain in bed and still hear the sermons—all this according to Meade W. Powell of Warren. Mr. Powell asserts that KHJ is the only Los Angeles broadcast station heard in Warren.

Canadian manufacture of radio apparatus evidently is not affected by the summer season dullness, is the gist of the news gleaned out of a report from a Toronto concern which claims to have taken orders for $800,000 in equipment during the last three months. Three hundred men, it is asserted, are kept busy making and assembling parts.

V. M. Bitz, traffic officer of the Southern California Radio Association, has for his individual use at his home, 5128 South Van Ness avenue, a very efficient short wave receiving set. Like a great many pieces of exceptional apparatus, Mr. Bitz's outfit is home-made. The signals certainly do pound in, as visitors can attest. Mr. Bitz, besides holding down a good position at Brown and Pengilly's and acting as air traffic policeman in this region, is constantly experimenting with new apparatus. Just at present he is attempting to use four steps of radio-frequency amplification preceding his usual set.

Sixty more protests against the new broadcast schedule, to become effective August 1, were received by The Times Radio Department yesterday.

JAPANESE UNIVERSITY STUDENTS VISIT CITY

Timid Easterners Shocked by Horsewoman

Edythe Sterling,
...s mistress of '49 Camp at Coronation Ball of United Spanish War Veterans at the Ambassador tomorrow night.

TIMID eastern guests at the fashionable Ambassador experienced a thrill of the Wild West of 1849 yesterday when a stunning young woman in cowgirl costume mounted on a dashing white horse raced over the lawn up onto the porch and into the lobby straight to the clerk's desk, all in the twinkling of an eye.

There she reined up her foam flecked steed, and asked for Manager Dave Boice. When he appeared she explained she had come to make sure that all would be in readiness for the '49 Camp over which she is to preside at the Coronation Ball of the United Spanish War Veterans at the Ambassador tomorrow night. It was Edythe Sterling, master horsewoman of screen stage and Wild West fame.

On that occasion the queen contest that has been raging between ten of the prettiest girls in Los Angeles will be settled and the lucky girl crowned by Gov. Stephens and presented with the keys to a new Durant motor car.

Elaborate preparations are being made for this ball. Judges of the queen contest will be Sheriff W. A. Traeger, "Cupid" Sparks of the City Council, and Judge M. S. Baird. The contest will close shortly before midnight and spirited bidding is expected until the last moment.

Last night county employees staged a ball at the Goldberg-Bosley hall for Eloise Johnson, their candidate, who is leading the race, with 100,485 votes. Jessie Martin, City Hall candidate is second with 51,714 votes. Hyacinth Brown, Union Pacific candidate, is third, with 45,450; Helene Holte, picture colony, fourth, with 33,674; Grace Mulchahey, Southern Pacific, fifth with 24,245. Lucile Newton is sixth, with 11,146.

Extensive plans have been made for the municipal barbecue to be staged here Sunday at which more than 5000 city employees and their friends plan to attend. An elaborate program of sports, dancing and other diversions have been arranged under the direction of Capt. C. S. Jenkins, delegated by Mayor Cryer to handle the details of the barbecue.

GROCERS ARE HOSTS AT PICNIC

More Than 20,000 Persons Attend Annual Affair at Eagle Rock Park

A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 persons attended the annual picnic of the Retail Grocers' Association at Eagle Rock Park yesterday. A parade of decorated automobiles, accompanied by a band, formed at Sixteenth and Hill streets in the morning and proceeded to the park.

Athletic contests, including a tug-of-war, stunt races and a ball game, were staged during the afternoon. The younger children were entertained with games and story telling.

An old-fashioned "Country Store" was a feature of the picnic and prizes ranging from hams to boxes of baking powder were awarded to those holding the lucky numbers. Many concessions of the kind usually found at the beaches also were on the grounds.

Dancing in the pavilion was one of the attractions. In addition to the orchestra which provided music for the ballroom, radio music also was given.

News reel camera men took moving pictures of the picnickers during the day.

The Christopher Policy—To Manufacture the Best Ice Cream

We take pleasure in announcing the completion of the improvements and of two new fireproof units to our daylight plant, now occupying the entire square bounded by Main Street and Twenty-first and Los Angeles Streets.

To keep squarely apace with the growth of our business and to give even a better service to our dealers and to the public, we have perfected a complete refrigeration system. The more important include a thoroughly modern ice plant, ice storage, enlarged cream storage and additional ice cream refrigeration and hardening room.

The acquisition of six latest type 100-quart ice cream freezers, in addition to those previously in operation, assures us of the greatest freezing capacity of ice cream in Southern California.

A fireproof garage to provide adequate accommodation for our fleet of heavy duty trucks and to give us more space to give even a better delivery service.

As the pioneer manufacturer of ice cream in Southern California, we have, in our thirty-four years of experience, always been a leader in the modern trend towards the most sanitary and hygienic making of our product.

The latest scientific method of freezing ice cream—CARBONATION—already in operation on the east coast, is used by us in the making of all of our ice cream.

SAME OLD GANG BACKS JOHNSON

Charles C. Moore Answers Hiram Hokum

Fine Batch of Hearst Help Behind Senator

"Denunciation Unadulterated Buncombe"

Charles C. Moore, candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator, when shown the declaration issued by Hiram Johnson, on his arrival in San Francisco, announcing that he was back here to fight "the same old gang" that had fought him in 1910, issued this statement:

"Hiram Johnson must be in need of the services of an oculist, when he makes the declaration that he is back here to fight 'the same old gang' who fought him in 1910, for a careful analysis of the list of those who are conducting his campaign shows that many of the politicians who fought him in 1910 are now vociferously supporting him. If he attempted to fight the old gang who formerly opposed him, he would have to begin immediately on his own campaign committee and prominent supporters, and when he got through discarding members of 'the same old gang' he would not have much of a committee left.

LOOK AT LIST

"The Republican voters of California should examine the list which follows and they will see that leaders of the old Southern Pacific machine are now in the Johnson camp. They will see the extent to which job holders are identified with his campaign and that, unless the Republican voters arise and smash this machine, the Republican party in the State of California will come under the control of Hearst and Johnson.

"First, take the newspapers that are now supporting Johnson; Hearst's San Francisco Examiner, the San Francisco Call, owned by Hearst; the Los Angeles Examiner; the Los Angeles Herald, also owned by Hearst. The San Francisco Chronicle owned by Mike de Young; the San Bernardino Sun edited by R. C. Harbison, all formerly accused Johnson of every crime in the political vocabulary.

"Then, read these names of his campaign committee:

"Frank P. Flint, former United States Senator, elected to office by the Southern Pacific machine, chairman of Johnson's committee in Southern California.

"Frank P. Doherty, lobbyist in the last Legislature for the railroads, campaign manager in Southern California.

ALL OLD FACES

"Leo V. Youngworth, formerly United States Marshal under the Southern Pacific regime, and one of the most active machine politicians in Southern California.

"Al McCabe, Johnson's political manager; one-time secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, also secretary of Hearst's short-lived Independence League; Johnson's private secretary when he was Governor, and appointed by him as State Insurance Commissioner; general manager of Johnson's campaign in California.

"Sheriff Tom Finn, boss of San Francisco's water front machine, chairman of Johnson's San Francisco campaign committee.

"John D. Nagle, Finn's chief deputy, San Francisco headquarters manager.

"Harry Encell, attorney for State Board of Pharmacy, Johnson's campaign manager.

"Mike Kelly, Alameda county boss, superintendent of the mint in San Francisco.

"John Francis Neylan, appointed chairman of the State Board of Control by Johnson, now publisher of Hearst's San Francisco Call.

"John T. Williams, former attorney for Sheriff Finn, and now United States District Attorney in San Francisco.

"Katherine Phillips Edson, salaried executive commissioner of the State Industrial Welfare Board.

JOHNSON'S WAR

"Meyer Lissner, member of the United States Shipping Board, appointed on the recommendation of Johnson.

"Louis Lissner, son of the above. Deputy United States Attorney at Los Angeles, appointed on recommendation of Johnson.

"Mabel Walker Willebrand, assistant United States Attorney-General.

"Louis Schwaebe, Collector of the Port of Los Angeles, appointed on Johnson's recommendation.

"Joe Burke, United States District Attorney for Southern California, also appointed on recommendation of Johnson.

"John P. McLaughlin, Collector of Internal Revenue for the northern district of California, who formerly held position of Labor Commissioner under Johnson.

"Rex Goodell, Collector of Internal Revenue for the southern district.

"H. L. Carnahan, formerly State Corporation Commissioner, appointed by Johnson.

"R. M. Armstrong, attorney for Sheriff Finn.

"Mark Herron, assistant United States District Attorney.

"Lawrence J. Flaherty, Surveyor of Customs.

"R. P. Risbrough, deputy for Insurance Commissioner McCabe.

"Lon Butler, appointed to the Motor Vehicle Department by Johnson when Governor.

"Aiding these office holders, of course, are their swarm of deputies and assistants.

"The Republican voters of this State can ask themselves who has changed? Have these insistent office-holders joined Johnson in his fight on the old gang, and would any of them be hypocritical enough to claim that they are fighting to down the political machine? Is not the real answer that Johnson has changed, and that his denunciation of the 'old gang' is merely empty sound and pure unadulterated buncombe?"

SOUTH SEA DRAMA

"The Man Unconquerable," starring Jack Holt, comes to Grauman's Theater Monday. Jack Holt, the virile Paramount star, has been seen in many roles during his career, but none has equalled in general interest his impersonation of Robert Kendall, a pearl fishery owner in the South Sea Islands. The scenes of the new picture, founded on a story by Hamilton Smith, are laid in the pearling grounds, where authorities conspire with thieves, and the only law is the law of might. Rita Durand, a French girl, played by Sylvia Breamer, whose father owns another pearl concession, supplies the love interest. Clarence Burton, Jean De Briac, Edwin Stevens, Ann Schaeffer, Willard Louis and others, are in the cast. The picture was directed by Joseph Henabery and adapted to the screen by Lucien Josephson.

CANDIDATE IS CHEERED AT SALINAS

Rodeo Throngs Welcome Moore; Pledge Applauded in Northern Communities

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALINAS, July 27.—Thousands of visitors at the California Rodeo greeted Charles C. Moore, candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, today when, wearing a wide western hat and astride a pony, he made his debut in true Roosevelt-ian style before the crowded grand stand. Candidate Moore was introduced to the cheering thousands by Mayor G. A. Dougherty of Salinas. As Moore bowed and waved his hat to the great crowd he received perhaps the heartiest ovation of his campaign trip through California.

Candidate Moore faced the biggest crowd of the trip tonight when he spoke from a band stand erected in the center of one of the principal business streets.

RECEPTION CORDIAL

There was no mistaking the sentiment of the crowd. It was with Moore from the beginning and he was frequently interrupted with prolonged applause. He told a straightforward story of the failures of Hiram Johnson as a United States Senator and reiterated his promises made in scores of other speeches throughout the State that he will serve as a Republican and resign from the party when he can no longer uphold the principles of the Republican party. The candidate and his companions motored from Paso Robles early today, stopping at Gonzales, King City and several other cities where speeches were made.

NORTH ENTHUSIASTIC

Receptions in Northern California cities have been quite as genuinely hearty as they have been in the cities of the south. The Moore party will stay tonight at Hotel Del Monte.

A noon meeting will be held at Monterey tomorrow and another early in the afternoon at Pacific Grove. Tomorrow night Moore will address a mass meeting to be be held in the assembly room of the Santa Cruz High School.

San Pedro Citizens at Open-Air Meeting Demand Moore

An enthusiastic open-air Moore-for-Senator meeting was held at San Pedro last night.

Speakers at the meeting, which was held at Fisk and Palos Verdes streets, were Frank Tyrell, Los Angeles attorney; Barney Goss, American Legionnaire, and J. M. Cannon, a prominent San Pedro business man.

KING STAGES SATIRES

In the early days of the stage a "satire" was a piece in which drama, comedy, music, singing and, at times, acrobatics were all woven into the plot. Working along this line, Will King produced "Satires of 1921" a year ago in San Francisco with such success that he decided to make his "Satire" a yearly event. "Satires of 1922" will be produced at Pantages as the feature of next week's show. Along with the usual abundant musical and dance interpolations, King has built up an amusing comedy into which are insinuated scenes from "Greenwich Village Follies," "Cleopatra," "A Fool There Was" and other successes, all, of course, broadly satirized.

TAX INTRICACIES TOLD

State Resources and Application of Laws to Estates Engage Attention of Experts in Convention

More than a hundred persons attended the opening sessions of the inheritance tax appraisers' and attorneys' convention yesterday at the Clark. This is the sixth annual convention of the appraisers' association. It will continue today and tomorrow morning.

The opening address of the convention was delivered by President Pro Tem. Frank Smith. Mayor Cryer welcomed those attending the convention. Three other addresses made up the morning program. They were delivered by State Controller Riley, Frank G. Tyrell and Leslie B. Henry. Following these talks the committees of the appraisers' organization were selected.

In the afternoon John S. Chambers spoke before the assembly. After pledging his political support to Mr. Riley, Mr. Chambers spoke at length on the resources of the State. "Joint Tenancy," "Appraisement of Delta Lands" and "Exemptions and Deductions" were the subjects of Ida V. Wells, Joseph Malloy and Wesley E. Marten, respectively.

EXEMPTIONS EXPLAINED

The address by Mr. Marten was especially noteworthy, it is said, because of the complete and yet concise manner in which the deductions and exemptions allowed by the State law were enumerated and explained. John W. Carrigan, who was an inheritance tax attorney for eight years in the local office, told many interesting incidents which occurred during his term of office. The talks of the afternoon were followed by a round table discussion which was conducted by Ralph W. Smith and Mr. Marten.

"Legal Market Values," "Doctrine of Election," "Appraisement of City Property," "Methods of Investigation," "Importance of the Office of Inheritance Tax Appraiser," "New Decisions and Pending Cases" and "Appraisement of Vineyards" are the subjects for some of the addresses to be delivered at the sessions to be held during the morning and afternoon today. The speakers will be Erwin P. Werner, A. T. Shine, F. N. McAuliffe, Thomas O'Hallaran, Fletcher Hamilton, John N. Anderson, Louis R. Diavila, Milton M. Dearing, J. L. Atteridge and Ralph W. Smith. The addresses will be followed by a round table discussion.

REPORTS SCHEDULED

Saturday morning there will be talks by county treasurers, a round table discussion, the reports of committees and the election of officers for the coming year.

The resolution and nominating committees were appointed yesterday. R. Edgar, El Centro; J. S. Lampon, San Francisco; Leonard Merrill, Los Angeles; Charles Hammer, Santa Cruz, and Peter J. Delay, Marysville, are the members of the resolutions committee.

The nominating committee is made up of R. F. Mogan, San Francisco; Henry Morrissey, Los Angeles; Fred Barnham, Eureka, and Frank Nighbert, Bakersfield.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR VOTERS

the precinct in which he or she registered absolutely cancels the registration. It is of no avail to write to the office of the Registrar of Voters that you have moved to another precinct. The only thing to do is to reregister if you have moved since you registered. Removal from one residence to another within the same precinct does not cancel one's registration.

LOCATION OF DEPUTIES

Voters may register in the Courthouse, at the City Hall, or with any deputy at any street location. Deputies are also distributed throughout the county in every incorporated city and in the remotest portion of the county. As first stated, any deputy has jurisdiction to register any voter in the county.

MORE ABOUT PARTIES

Voters who have declined to state any party when registering are permitted to vote at the August primary for all nonpartisan candidates. This includes judges, Supervisors, Sheriff, Assessor and Superintendent of Schools. Such voters will not be permitted to vote at the primary for Governor or any State official, member of Congress, State Senate or Assembly, or members of county central committees.

PROMINENT CITIZENS JOIN MOORE RANKS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, July 27. — The Moore-for-Senator Club will open headquarters in the Nevada Building the first of next week with Miss Aileen Drobish as secretary in charge. Membership in the organization, which was recently effected by the election of Harry B. Chase as chairman, is being rapidly recruited in many parts of the county through the formation of local clubs. A canvass of the membership cards indicate that hundreds of the most prominent citizens of the city and county are aligning themselves with the Moore forces.
